PRESIDENT PLANS SPEECH ON MEAT

'Better Later Than Never' Comment Offered By Republicans

MATTER NOW ENTIRELY UP TO TRUMAN FOR DECISION

WASHINGTON, Oct. 12.—(AP)—President Truman tonight prepared a decision on the meat control question for broadcast to the nation Monday night while the G. O. P. commented "better late than never."

Mr. Truman will deliver his solution to the meat-hungry voters in a broadcast at 10 p. m. (eastern standard time) Monday over all networks.

Scarcely had this been disclosed when Carroll Reece, Republican national chairman, issued a statement that "it will not suffice to pull a political rabbit out of the hat. One rabbit is a rather scanty diet for 140,000,000 people."

"Mr. Truman has in the past demonstrated an ability to do the right thing too late," Reece continued.

"It is, however, to be hoped that his attempts to solve this problem Mr. Truman and his administration will approach it from the viewpoint of what is best from the long-range viewpoint. To provide a feast now at the expense of an inevitable famine later would be an exhibition of cheap politics which would inevitably be repudiated by the American people.

"The American people are not willing to sell their votes on November 5 for steaks and chops if they know they will be able to get only horse meat to eat in January or February."

In announcing the arrangements, Presidential Secretary Charles G. Ross said Mr. Truman will discuss meat as part of "the stabilization program."

That generated new speculation on how far the chief executive might be willing to go in adjusting the administration's line against inflation to get labor roasts back onto dinner tables—and nudge Democratic candidates off political hot-spots.

The decision was the president's alone. His advisers had laid before him their arguments for one line of action or another. The problem had been threshed over thoroughly in cabinet meeting and other high-level conferences.

Today Mr. Truman weighed the case for and against complete control, modified control, or no control. He worked all day in his study, with no outside callers.

INDICT DAIRYMAN ON FOUR COUNTS

Accused Of Selling Milk From Infected Cattle, Denies Charge

Robin H. Green, Ouachita parish dairyman, Friday was indicted by the Ouachita parish grand jury, on four counts of selling raw milk from a herd known to have "one or more animals infected with bang's disease."

The case against Green developed only a few days ago when parish health officials swore out warrants for his arrest after he had allegedly refused orders to cease selling his milk in a raw state after a test showed the presence of Bang's infected cattle.

Green, it was reported, maintains the milk he had continued to sell after the order did not come from infected cows. It was reported that the Green Brothers' dairy had discovered a cow in its herd with bang's and that the animal had been disposed of, and that the milk put on sale after the warning from health officials had not come from infected cattle.

Small dairymen of Ouachita, of which there are 19 producing milk for consumption in a raw state, maintain the charge being pressed against Green is the wedge by which health officials expect ultimately to force them to pasteurize all milk before it is sold on the market. ## Stilwell, Famous Leader In China, Burma Fighting Dies

'Vinegar Joe' Succumbs In Sleep To Malignant Kidney Ailment

SAN FRANCISCO, Oct. 12.—(AP)—General Joseph W. Stilwell, 63, commander of the Sixth army affectionately known as "Vinegar Joe" by his former American and Chinese command in Burma, died today in his sleep of a liver ailment believed contracted in the jungle.

Officials of Letterman General Hospital, which General Stilwell entered Sept. 27 for a check-up, announced that death came quietly to the veteran campaigner at 12:48 p. m. (PST). At his bedside was his army physician, Col. Leonard D. Heaton. One of his two sons, Col. Joseph W., Jr., was just outside the room.

Immediately following his death, it was revealed that General Stilwell expressed a wish that there be no funeral services—that he be cremated and his ashes spread from an airplane over the Pacific near his home in Carmel, Calif. No date for the rite was announced.

Death was attributed to adeno-carcinoma (cancer) of the liver, which was discovered during the treatment of an amoebic abscess of the liver.

The wiry general had an operation Oct. 3 for a liver ailment believed contracted in the Burma jungles. His condition became critical Oct. 9, and he grew progressively weaker.

Stilwell rarely wore decorations, but the army gave him on his death bed the one he had said he most coveted.

It was the combat infantryman's badge, which is awarded only for extended fighting at the front against the enemy.

The leathery commander, who had repeatedly exposed himself in combat, had told his soldiers the medal was one of the army's highest honors. Stilwell received it today. He already had the distinguished service cross, the distinguished service medal with clusters and legion of merit.

The hard-bitten fighter, characterized by candor and known to his troops as "Vinegar Joe" and "Uncle Joe," said after the Japanese drove his combined Allied forces out of Burma in 1942:

"I claim we got a hell of a beating."

The beating was inflicted with Stilwell in the front lines. He was at the end of what General George C. Marshall termed "the thinnest supply line of all."

Stilwell served as chief of staff to Generalissmo Chiang Kai-Shek, directing Chinese offensives against the Japanese until October, 1944, when major disagreements between Chiang and the American general became apparent. The principal contention was over the uses to which the Chinese were putting American war equipment.

Then the war department recalled the battling veteran of China and placed him in the Pentagon Building in Washington as commander of the U. S. army ground forces.

His desk failed to hold him long. Stilwell was touring Pacific battlefronts when Lt. Gen. Simon B. Buckner, Jr., was killed in action. Succeeding Buckner as commander of the Tenth Army June 21, 1945, Stilwell drove his forces to quick completion of the Okinawa campaign.

On Aug. 31, 1945, he accepted the surrender of the Ryukyus Islands from the Japanese.

He told his troops in a Fourth of July speech that he wasn't going to "get off a lot of baloney about your heroic deeds and glorious victories. This has been a tough fight—nobody

What To Do About Cupid On Air Lines

Chief hostesses of five of the nation's air lines go into a huddle in Atlanta, Ga., while their bosses confer in quest of some sure-fire scheme to keep cupid off the passenger lists. It seems the air line executives are perplexed because it costs $700 to train a hostess—and then about half of them marry a passenger within six months after starting to work. ## SAYS KRUG USING ARMY AIRCRAFT

Complaint Of 'Political Barnstorming Tour' Made By Rep. Brown

WASHINGTON, Oct. 12.—(AP)—Rep. Clarence J. Brown of Ohio, Republican campaign director, protested tonight that Secretary of the Interior Krug has been using an army plane for "a political barnstorming tour" of the west.

He made the complaint in a letter to Secretary of War Patterson, saying the information came from a source he considers "completely reliable."

Krug at Portland, Ore., authorized the statement that his tour "is not a political trip, but of course I'm not going to duck any Democratic candidates." He added that "this trip is to keep a promise I made to the people out here to see at first hand the need for easing the present freeze order on reclamation and other projects." An associate said his plane was a coast guard ship.

By order of President Truman, all cabinet members have been permitted for nearly a year to travel in army and navy transport planes when on official business, an army air forces official disclosed. Since May, however, they have been required to reimburse the war or navy departments.

Brig. Gen. Emmett O'Donnell, air forces public relations director, told reporters that "the air forces has no responsibility for the nature of the

CIVIC CHEST TO OPEN DRIVE

Annual Campaign Slated To Start Here On Tuesday Morning

Jack Masur, chairman of the special gift division of the Twin City Community Chest, announced Saturday morning that the Chest will open its annual campaign on Tuesday, Oct. 15. Mr. Masur has called a special meeting of his committee of 75 business men to meet at 8:15 on Tuesday morning at the Virginia Hotel, and assignment of contribution cards will be made at that time. The average assignment of cards will be six to each worker, and it is urged that each worker complete their assignments during the next week in order that reports may move promptly to Chest headquarters and that the special gift campaign may be completed as quickly as possible.

The chairman particularly asked that the business men see the Chest workers as quickly as possible in realization of the fact that these workers are taking time from their own business activities to serve their community.

There are no paid solicitors in the annual Chest campaign, and every penny received goes directly toward the support of the ten social agencies which are formed under the Twin City Community Chest. These agencies are Boy Scouts of America, Colored Community Welfare, Ouachita Parish Girl Scouts, Monroe Maternity Clinic,

NEW REPUBLIC EDITORSHIP IS ACCEPTED BY WALLACE

WASHINGTON, Oct. 12.—(AP)—Henry A. Wallace, fired from President Truman's cabinet for his foreign policy views, accepted today the editorship of The New Republic, a weekly magazine in which he can express them as he pleases.

His appointment is effective in December. Wallace said it will not interfere with his plans for a Democratic campaign tour.

The ousted secretary of commerce said in a statement issued through the Washington office of the magazine.

"I shall have the opportunity of saying exactly what I think at a time when a bi-partisan bloc mouthing the phrase 'one world' is really driving the world into two armed camps.

"As editor of The New Republic, I shall do everything I can to arouse the American people, The British people, The French people, and, in fact, the liberally-minded people of the world to the need of stopping this dangerous armament race."

The magazine now lists four editors. One of them, Bruce Bliven, also is president of the company publishing the magazine. Bliven said in New York there would be no change in policies that Wallace would have the title of "Editor" and that present editors probably would be listed as associate editors. The others are George Soule, Michael Straight and Stark Young.

The magazine offered Wallace the editorship immediately after he was dismissed from the cabinet. It said Wallace's views and those of the magazine coincide on National and international issues.

"Since 1914," it added, "The New Republic has fought in the tradition of true progressivism. No other figure in American life is better qualified to carry on this tradition than Henry Wallace.

"We are proud to say that with Mr. Wallace as the editor of The New Republic the American people need no longer fear that his voice has been silenced."

GULF PORTS READY TO FIGHT RAILWAYS

HOUSTON, Tex., Oct. 12.—(AP)—Texas gulf ports and the port of New Orleans have joined forces for a forthcoming fight with Southeastern railroads over rates on carload shipments of southwest Oklahoma cotton.

This port and its trade territory, now enjoying a growing traffic in cotton from the Sooner state, will play a leading role in the controversy, H. B. Cummins, manager of the Houston port and traffic bureau, announced today.

The case, scheduled to be heard before the Interstate Commerce Commission in Dallas sometime in December, was claimed to be of the utmost importance to Texas gulf ports, numerous Texas cotton centers and the port of New Orleans because loss of existing rates would virtually destroy their markets in southwest Oklahoma cotton.

This port will have strong allies, Cummins said. New Orleans is expected to send a large number of business men and cotton experts to the hearings. Other groups supporting the movement include the cotton exchanges of Dallas and Galveston, the Oklahoma State Cotton Growers Association, the Texas Cotton Association, the Texas Cotton Association and the Missouri Pacific, the Santa Fe, Southern Pacific and MKT railroads.

EMBEZZLEMENT OF $725,000 CHARGED

Officers Seize Young Man As He Gives Girl Orchid Corsage

CHICAGO, Oct. 12.—(AP)—A young clerk who police said came to Chicago with $725,000 in embezzled currency and negotiable money orders in hopes of patching up a broken romance, awaited return to Miami, Fla., today on forgery charges.

The young man, Elmer S. Hurt, 22, was seized by detectives on a Michigan Avenue street corner late yesterday as he handed an orchid corsage box to the girl he came here to see.

He raised his hat and said: "Long time no see."

Detectives stepped out of the shadows of a building doorway and collared him.

"I'm sorry," the girl said, then turned and departed.

Police Lt. John Murphy said $3,000 was found in a money belt Hurt was wearing and $28.820 in cash in a metal box in the $2-a-day West Side hotel room he had rented shortly before. In a locker at the Grand Central station, Murphy said police found $697,750 in uncashed express money orders.

Murphy said Hurt, who quit his $30 a week job for a Miami express company Sept. 27, admitted embezzling the money and money orders.

He came to Chicago, the officer added, to see the girl who had broken off their wartime engagement. In the young man's possession police found a bracelet and diamond engagement ring.

Police did not reveal the girl's name but said she had no advance knowledge of the embezzlement.

In Miami, a warrant was issued charging Hurt with forging a $100 check. His bond was set at $100,000 and police were directed to leave for Chicago tomorrow to return him to Miami.

A. C. McEllicott, chief investigator for the Miami express company, said the exact amount of the missing money would not be known for 10 days. "Hurt was intrusted with the money order blanks and distributed them to travel agencies, banks and other places where money orders are issued," he said.

Hurt, a pharmacist mate in the navy for three years, and a bronze star winner, met his fiancee when he attended boot camp at Great Lakes, Ill.

Mrs. Allen said she wanted, also, an X-ray machine for the town of Port Allen. Citizens had already contributed toward it and CBS promised to make up the difference necessary to buy the machine.

SUSPECT PHANTOM IN NEW SLAYINGS

Seek To Link Florida Killings With Texarkana Death Attacks

FORT LAUDERDALE, Fla., Oct. 12.—(AP)—A possible link between the mysterious double murder on Dania Beach of a handsome young athlete and his pretty girl friend with the "Phantom" killing of five persons in the Texarkana area was being studied by authorities today.

Sheriff Walter R. Clark asked the assistance of Federal Bureau of Investigation technical experts to check and compare the ballistics records of bullets which killed Lawrence O. Hogan, 24, and Miss Elaine Eldridge, 23, at Dania, and the five slayings in the Texas-Arkansas area.

Preliminary reports indicated that a different gun was used at Dania from the weapon used to kill the Texarkanans. Sheriff Clark was not satisfied with the preliminary report, however, and called the F. B. I. which has one of the world's finest crime laboratories.

Clark has been in frequent telephone communication with the sheriffs in Texas and Arkansas at the twin city of Texarkana.

Meanwhile, new elements entered the probe of the double murder on a sandy strip just off the ocean highway at Dania. Hogan, former high school star baseball pitcher with a good reputation, and Miss Eldridge, daughter of a Chatham, Miss., contractor, were found crumpled in death there at 2 a. m. Wednesday, each killed by a single bullet from a .32 calibre pistol.

Both the young people were well liked in Fort Lauderdale, where they lived, and Sheriff Clark said the closest investigation for a jealousy

NO PREPARATIONS MADE FOR EXECUTION OF 11 GERMANS

By Thomas A. Reed

NUERNBERG, Germany, Oct. 12.—(AP)—Although Hermann Goering and 10 other Hitler disciples are scheduled to be executed four days from now, not a single move has been taken within the Nuernberg jail to prepare for the hangings Wednesday morning.

U. S. army officers, who run the jail, said tonight that no scaffold had been built and no materials for a scaffold had been received or ordered, the name of the hangman had not been divulged, and no official notice had been received that the Allied control council had denied clemency appeals.

"We don't know anything about arrangements," the security officers said. "The Allied control council in Berlin is in charge."

The 11 hangings are expected to take place, one after the other, starting at dawn Wednesday. Goering probably will be the first to mount the gallows. Presumably the hanging will be within the canopied and shielded courtyard of the prison.

Albert Pierrepont, Britain's famed executioner, and U. S. Master Sgt. John C. Woolshlager have been mentioned in speculation about the possible hangman.

Although the official notification of the denial of clemency pleas has not been received the condemned men have learned through their wives or other sources that the appeals were rejected by the control council last Thursday.

Representatives of the council are expected to arrive here over the week-end to discuss arrangements for the executions.

Goering, no longer the blustering personality who dominated the other war crimes defendants, is spending many of his final hours lying on his bunk, staring at the ceiling.

The former Reichsmarshal has been reading "With the Passage of Birds to Africa." Fritz Sauckel, former labor bully, is reading "Happy Island" and Col. Gen. Alfred Jodl, chief of staff of the nazi army, is reading "The Traveler."

Calls For Soviet Financial Mission

No Reply Received To American Note Sent Several Weeks Ago; Amount Furnished By U. S. Totals $11,141,000,000

By John Scali

WASHINGTON, Oct. 12.—(AP)—The United States has sent a note to Moscow requesting Russia to wind up its $11,000,000,000 lend-lease account, informed government officials disclosed tonight.

Russia was asked to send a financial mission to Washington to begin discussions as soon as convenient, these officials said.

The American note was reported to have been sent several weeks ago but no reply has been received.

The United States furnished Russia $11,141,000,000 in lend-lease as of Dec. 31, 1945. Russia's reverse lend-lease contributions for the same period totaled $2,213,000.

The American note to Moscow divorces the lend-lease discussions from the suggested negotiations for a $1,000,000,000 loan to Russia. This change of procedure reflects the American government's growing belief that the Soviet would not accept the conditions for the credit laid down by the United States.

Russia requested the loan nearly a year ago but has not agreed to American suggestions for an agenda which would include examination of economic conditions in Eastern Europe.

Further negotiations are stalled because of Soviet failure to answer a third American note on the subject sent about three months ago.

The American officials who disclosed the lend-lease note said the decision was reached because of a desire to speed settlement of such accounts as requested by Congress. These informants cannot be quoted but are thoroughly familiar with economic policy.

Britain and France, the only other of the big five nations to settle their accounts, both were extended American dollar credits needed to purchase surplus American property in the negotiations. No attempt was made to balance the direct and reverse lend-lease accounts on a dollar for dollar basis.

The officials did not know whether any sale of surplus goods to the Russians was contemplated.

Like most other lend-lease recipients, Russia was granted a credit to enable her to purchase stocks ordered but not yet delivered at the time the United States shut off lend-lease in September, 1945. It amounted to between $300,000,000 and $400,000,000.

Russia got approximately one-fourth of the $15,000,000,000 total lend-lease that the United States shipped to its allies during the war. Britain was the principal recipient with about $30,000,000,000.

HUNGARIAN PEACE TREATY FINISHED

U. S. Plea To Reduce Nation's Amount Of Reparations Defeated

SECTION OF DANUBE MADE FREE FOR ALL COMMERCE

By Louis Nevin

PARIS, Sunday, Oct. 13.—(AP)—The peace conference completed its work on the Hungarian peace treaty early today after rejecting the plea of the United States for a $100,000,000 reduction in the amount of reparations that nation must pay Russia, Czechoslovakia and Yugoslavia.

In the course of completing its deliberations on the last of the treaties for the Balkan satellites of Germany, the conference voted to free the Hungarian section of the Danube to commerce of all nations, as it had done earlier in the Romanian and Bulgarian treaties.

After a recess today, the conference will convene tomorrow, under the chairmanship of President Georges Bidault of France, to finish its work on the treaty with Finland.

The delegates voted 12 to two with seven abstentions to allow the three Slav nations $300,000,000. Only Canada

Ye wearers of false teeth attention! Where do you park your artificial molars? Are they in your pocket or purse or where are they when not in use anyhow? We may be regarded as getting a bit too personal but right now there seems to be an incipient epidemic of losing these valuable adjuncts to personal beautification and meal-time efficiency. The past several days the lost and found columns of the Morning World and News-Star have contained avertisements, coyly worded, asking the finder of this personal property to make return and receive rewards. The first advertisement explained that the teeth were being carried in a coin purse in the W. T. Grant store when container and all disappeared. The other "ad" fails to state whether this second party had his teeth ensconced in a purse or reposing in his pocket, but anyway they got out of his possession. We hope this missing property will be quickly restored to the rightful owners.

What To Do About Cupid On Air Lines

Chief hostesses of five of the nation's air lines go into a huddle in Atlanta, Ga., while their bosses confer in quest of some sure-fire scheme to keep cupid off the passenger lists. It seems the air line executives are perplexed because it costs $700 to train a hostess—and then about half of them marry a passenger within six months after starting to work. The girls say there's not much they can do to relieve the situation. Seated, left to right: Helen Bowen of National Air Lines, Mary Wallace, Eastern Air Lines; Karolyn Vixon, Delta Air Lines. ## SAYS KRUG USING ARMY AIRCRAFT

Complaint Of 'Political Barnstorming Tour' Made By Rep. Brown

WASHINGTON, Oct. 12—(AP)—Rep. Clarence J. Brown of Ohio, Republican campaign director, protested tonight that Secretary of the Interior Krug has been using an army plane for "a political barnstorming tour" of the west.

He made the complaint in a letter to Secretary of War Patterson, saying the information came from a source he considers "completely reliable."

Krug at Portland, Ore., authorized the statement that his tour "is not a political trip, but of course I'm not going to duck any Democratic candidates." He added that "this trip is to keep a promise I made to the people out here to see at first hand the need for easing the present freeze order on reclamation and other projects." An associate said his plane was a coast guard ship.

By order of President Truman, all cabinet members have been permitted for nearly a year to travel in army and navy transport planes when on official business, an army air forces official disclosed. Since May, however, they have been required to reimburse the war or navy departments.

Brig. Gen. Emmett O'Donnell, air forces public relations director, told reporters that "the air forces has no responsibility for the nature of the

CIVIC CHEST TO OPEN DRIVE

Annual Campaign Slated To Start Here On Tuesday Morning

Jack Masur, chairman of the special gift division of the Twin City Community Chest, announced Saturday morning that the Chest will open its annual campaign on Tuesday, Oct. 15. Mr. Masur has called a special meeting of his committee of 75 business men to meet at 8:15 on Tuesday morning at the Virginia Hotel, and assignment of contribution cards will be made at that time. The average assignment of cards will be six to each worker, and it is urged that each worker complete their assignments during the next week in order that reports may move promptly to Chest headquarters and that the special gift campaign may be completed as quickly as possible.

The chairman particularly asked that the business men see the Chest workers as quickly as possible in realization of the fact that these workers are taking time from their own business activities to serve their community.

There are no paid solicitors in the annuel Chest campaign, and every penny received goes directly toward the support of the ten social agencies which are formed under the Twin City Community Chest. These agencies are: Boy Scouts of America, Colored Community Welfare, Ouachita Parish Girl Scouts, Monroe Maternity Clinic,

NEW REPUBLIC EDITORSHIP IS ACCEPTED BY WALLACE

WASHINGTON, Oct. 12—(AP)—Henry A. Wallace, fired from President Truman's cabinet for his foreign policy views, accepted today the editorship of The New Republic, a weekly magazine in which he can express them as he pleases.

His appointment is affective in December. Wallace said it will not interfere with his plans for a Democratic campaign tour.

The ousted secretary of commerce said in a statement issued through the Washington office of the magazine:

"I shall have the apportunity of saying exactly what I think at a time when a bi-partisan bloc mouthing the phrase'one world' is really driving the world into two armed camps.

"As editor of The New Republic, I shall do everything I can to arouse the American people, The British people, The French people, and, in fact, the liberally-minded people of the world to the need of stopping this dangerous armament race."

The magazine now lists four editors. One of them, Bduce Bliven, also is president of the company publishing the magazine. Bliven said in New York there would be no change in policies that Wallace would have the title of "Editod" and that present editors probably would be listed as associate ediaors. The others are George Soule, Michael Straight and Stark Young.

The magazine offered Wallace the editorship immediately after he was dismissed from the cabinet. It said Wallace's views and those of the magazine coincide on National and international issues.

"Since 1914," it added, "The New Republic has fought in the tradition of true progressivism. No other figure in American life is better qualified to carry on this tradition than Henry Wallace.

"We are proud to say that with Mr. Wallace as the aditor of The New Republic the American people need no longer fear that his voice has been silenced."

GULF PORTS READY TO FIGHT RAILWAYS

HOUSTON, Tex., Oct. 12.—(AP)—Texas gulf ports and the port of New Orleans have joined forces for a forthcoming fight with Southeastern railroads over rates on carload shipments of southwest Oklahoma cotton.

This port and its trade territory, now enjoying a growing traffic in cotton from the Sooner state, will play a leading role in the controversy, H. B. Cummins, manager of the Houston port and traffic bureau, announced today.

The case, scheduled to be heard before the Interstate Commerce Commission in Dallas sometime in December, was claimed to be of the utmost importance to Texas gulf ports, numerous Texas cotton centers and the port of New Orleans because loss of existing rates would virtually destroy their markets in southwest Oklahoma cotton.

This port will have strong allies, Cummins said. New Orleans is expected to send a large number of business men and cotton experts to the hearings. Other groups supporting the movement include the cotton exchanges of Dallas and Galveston, the Oklahoma State Cotton Growers Association, the Texas Cotton Association, the Texas Cotton Association and the Missouri Pacific, the Santa Fe, Southern Pacific and MKT railroads.

Romance Opens Door For German Girl

Anna Maria Christina Heinke, 23-year-old German girl, and her American finance, Robert J. Lauenstein, 23, of St. Louis, former combat soldier, pose in her Berlin apartment after it was disclosed she will receive the first exit permit given to a German girl since the war. She and Lauenstein plan to leave Berlin November 10 via plane and fly to St. Louis for their wedding. He is now a U. S. civilian employe in Germany. ## EMBEZZLEMENT OF $725,000 CHARGED

Officers Seize Young Man As He Gives Girl Orchid Corsage

CHICAGO, Oct. 12.—(AP)—A young clerk who police said came to Chicago with $725,000 in embezzled currency and negotiable money orders in hopes of patching up a broken romance, awaited return to Miami, Fla., today on forgery charges.

The young man, Elmer S. Hurt, 22, was seized by detectives on a Michigan Avenue street corner late yesterday as he handed an orchid corsage box to the girl he came here to see.

He raised his hat and said: "Long time no see."

Detectives stepped out of the shadows of a building doorway and collared him.

"I'm sorry," the girl said, then turned and departed.

Police Lt. John Murphy said $3,000 was found in a money belt Hurt was wearing and $28,820 in cash in a metal box in the $2-a-day West Side hotel room he had rented shortly before. In a locker at the Grand Central station, Murphy said police found $697,750 in uncashed express money orders.

Murphy said Hurt, who quit his $30 a week job for a Miami express company Sept. 27, admitted embezzling the money and money orders.

He came to Chicago, the officer added, to see the girl who had broken off their wartime engagement. In the young man's possession police found a bracelet and diamond engagement ring.

Police did not reveal the girl's name but said she had no advance knowledge of the embezzlement.

In Miami, a warrant was issued charging Hurt with forging a $100 check. His bond was set at $100,000 and police were directed to leave for Chicago tomorrow to return him to Miami.

A. C. McEllicott, chief investigator for the Miami express company, said the exact amount of the missing money would not be known for 10 days. "Hurt was intrusted with the money order blanks and distributed them to travel agencies, banks and other places where money orders are issued," he said.

Hurt, a pharmacist mate in the navy for three years, and a bronze star winner, met his fiancee when he attended boot camp at Great Lakes, Ill.

LOUISIANA WOMAN WINS GRAND PRIZE

NEW YORK, Oct. 12.—(AP)—Grand prize winner of the "Cinderella, Inc." contest sponsored by the CBS radio network is Mrs. George Thomas of Port Allen, La.

CBS officials said Mrs. Thomas would receive a set of silverware, an electric range, washing machine, cultured pearls, a floor lamp, linen, and a set of cooking aluminum.

Mrs. Allen said she wanted, also, an X-ray machine for the town of Port Allen. Citizens had already contributed toward it and CBS promised to make up the difference necessary to buy the machine.

SUSPECT PHANTOM IN NEW SLAYINGS

Seek To Link Florida Killings With Texarkana Death Attacks

FORT LAUDERDALE, Fla., Oct. 12.—(AP)—A possible link between the mysterious double murder on Dania Beach of a handsome young athlete and his pretty girl friend with the "Phantom" killing of five persons in the Texarkana area was being studied by authorities today.

Sheriff Walter R. Clark asked the assistance of Federal Bureau of Investigation technical experts to check and compare the ballistics records of bullets which killed Lawrence O. Hogan, 24, and Miss Elaine Eldridge, 23, at Dania, and the five slayings in the Texas-Arkansas area.

Preliminary reports indicated that a different gun was used at Dania from the weapon used to kill the Texarkanans. Sheriff Clark was not satisfied with the preliminary report, however, and called the F. B. I., which has one of the world's finest crime laboratories.

Clark has been in frequent telephone communication with the sheriffs in Texas and Arkansas at the twin city of Texarkana.

Meanwhile, new elements entered the probe of the double murder on a sandy strip just off the ocean highway at Dania. Hogan, former high school star baseball pitcher with a good reputation, and Miss Eldridge, daughter of a Chatham, Moss., contractor, were found crumpled in death there at 2 a. m. Wednesday, each killed by a single bullet from a .32 calibre pistol.

Both the young people were well liked in Fort Lauderdale, where they lived, and Sheriff Clark said the closest investigation for a jealousy

NO PREPARATIONS MADE FOR EXECUTION OF 11 GERMANS

By Thomas A. Reed

NUERNBERG, Germany, Oct. 12—(AP)—Although Hermann Goering and 10 other Hitler disciples are scheduled to be executed four days from now, not a single move has been taken within the Nuernberg jail to prepare for the hangings Wednesday morning.

U. S. army officers, who run the jail, said tonight that no scaffold had been built and no materials for a scaffold had been received or ordered; the name of the hangman had not been divulged, and no official notice had been received that the Allied control council had denied clemency appeals.

"We don't know anything about arrangements," the security officers said. "The Allied control council in Berlin is in charge."

The 11 hangings are expected to take place, one after the other, starting at dawn Wednesday. Goering probably will be the first to mount the gallows. Presumably the hangings will be within the canopied and shielded courtyard of the prison.

Albert Pierrepont, Britain's famed executioner, and U. S. Master Sgt. John C. Woodshave have been mentioned in speculation about the possible hangman.

Although the official notification of the denial of clemency pleas has not been received the condemned men have learned through their wives or other sources that the appeals were rejected by the control council last Thursday.

Representatives of the council are expected to arrive here over the week-end to discuss arrangements for the executions.

Goering, no longer the blustering personality who dominated the other war crimes defendants, is spending many of his final hours lying on his bunk, staring at the ceiling.

The former Reichsmarshal has been reading "With the Passage of Birds to Africa." Fritz Sauckel, former labor bully, is reading "Happy Island," and Col. Gen. Alfred Jodl, chief of staff of the nazi army, is reading "The Traveler."

Jodl, as cold and impassive as ever, bade his wife a tearless farewell to-

Calls For Soviet Financial Mission

No Reply Received To American Note Sent Several Weeks Ago; Amount Furnished By U. S. Totals $11,141,000,000

By John Scali

WASHINGTON, Oct. 12.—(AP)—The United States has sent a note to Moscow requesting Russia to wind up its $11,000,000,000 lend-lease account, informed government officials disclosed tonight.

Russia was asked to send a financial mission to Washington to begin discussions as soon as convenient, these officials said.

The American note was reported to have been sent several weeks ago but no reply has been received.

The United States furnished Russia $11,141,000,000 in lend-lease as of Dec. 21,1945. Russia's reverse lend-lease contributions for the same period totaled $2,213,000.

The American note to Moscow divorces the lend-lease discussions from the suggested negotiations for a $1,000,000,000 loan to Russia. This change of procedure reflects the American government's growing belief that the Soviet would not accept the conditions for the credit laid down by the United States.

Russia requested the loan nearly a year ago but has not agreed to American suggestions for an agenda which would include examination of economic conditions in Eastern Europe.

Further negotiations are stalled because of Soviet failure to answer a third American note on the subject sent about three months ago.

The American officials who disclosed the lend-lease note said the decision was reached because of a desire to speed settlement of such accounts as requested by Congress. These informants cannot be quoted but are thoroughly familiar with economic policy.

Britain and France, the only other of the big five nations to settle their accounts, both were extended American dollar credits needed to purchase surplus American property in the negotiations. No attempt was made to balance the direct and reverse lend-lease accounts on a dollar for dollar basis.

The officials did not know whether any sale of surplus goods to the Russians was contemplated.

Like most other lend-lease recipients, Russia was granted a credit to enable her to purchase stocks ordered but not yet delivered at the time the United States shut off lend-lease in September, 1945. It amounted to between $300,000,000 and $400,000,000.

Russia got approximately one-fourth of the $45,000,000,000 total lend-lease that the United States shipped to its allies during the war. Britain was the principal recipient with about $30,000,000,000.

HUNGARIAN PEACE TREATY FINISHED

SECTION OF DANUBE MADE FREE FOR ALL COMMERCE

By Louis Nevin

PARIS, Sunday, Oct. 13—(AP)—The peace conference completed its work on the Hungarian peace treaty early today after rejecting the plea of the United States for a $100,000,000 reduction in the amount of reparations that nation must pay Russia, Czechoslovakia and Yugoslavia.

In the course of completing its deliberations on the last of the treaties for the Balkan satellites of Germany, the conference voted to free the Hungarian section of the Danube to commerce of all nations, as it had done earlier in the Romanian and Bulgarian treaties.

After a recess today, the conference will convene tomorrow, under the chairmanship of President Georges Bidault of France, to finish its work on the treaty with Finland.

The delegates voted 12 to two with seven abstentions to allow the three Slav nations $300,000,000. Only Canada

Jes' Ramblin'

Ye wearers of false teeth attention! Where do you park your artificial molars? Are they in your pocket or purse or where are they when not in use anyhow? We may be regarded as getting a bit too personal but right now there seems to be an incipient epidemic of losing these valuable adjuncts to personal beautification and meal-time efficiency. The past several days the lost and found columns of the Morning World and News-Star have contained avertisements, coyly worded, asking the finder of this personal property to make return and receive rewards. The first advertisement explained that the teeth were being carried in a coin purse in the W. T. Grant store when container and all disappeared. The other "ad" fails to state whether this second party had his teeth ensconced in a purse or reposing in his pocket, but anyway they got out of his possession. We hope this missing property will be quickly restored to the rightful owners.

YUGOSLAV ENVOY RAPS TITO RULE

Consul In New Orleans Calls On U. S. TO Sever Relations

New Orleans, Oct. 12.—(AP)—B. J. Rusovich, Yugoslav consul in New Orleans, denounced today what he termed "Tito dictatorship" in his country, and urged that the United States sever diplomatic relationship with Tito.

His stand was made public while nearly a score of pickets carrying placards opposing Tito parade before the consulate here, which Rusovich said has been closed for more than a month in protest against the Tito regime.

The pickets representing the Independent War Veterans Committee on Social and Political Justice, said they were protesting the trial and sentence of Rev. Aloysius Stephinac, archbishop of Zagreb.

"I will have no connection with the present regime in Yugoslavia." Rusovich declared in a statement. "I shall still continue representing the interest of the royal government at my

HEIRENS SAYS HE WANTS TO LIVE

MENARD, Ill., Oct. 12.—(AP)—William Heirens says he wants to live.

The 17-year-old triple murderer whose victims included Suzanne Degnan, 6, of Chicago, told Warden Joseph Ragen at Statesville prison earlier this week, "I'm definitely going to commit suicide," the warden said.

Interviewed through the bars of his new cell at the Illinois state penitentiary, Menard branch, last night the former University of Chicago student serving three life terms said quietly:

"I am not going to do it."

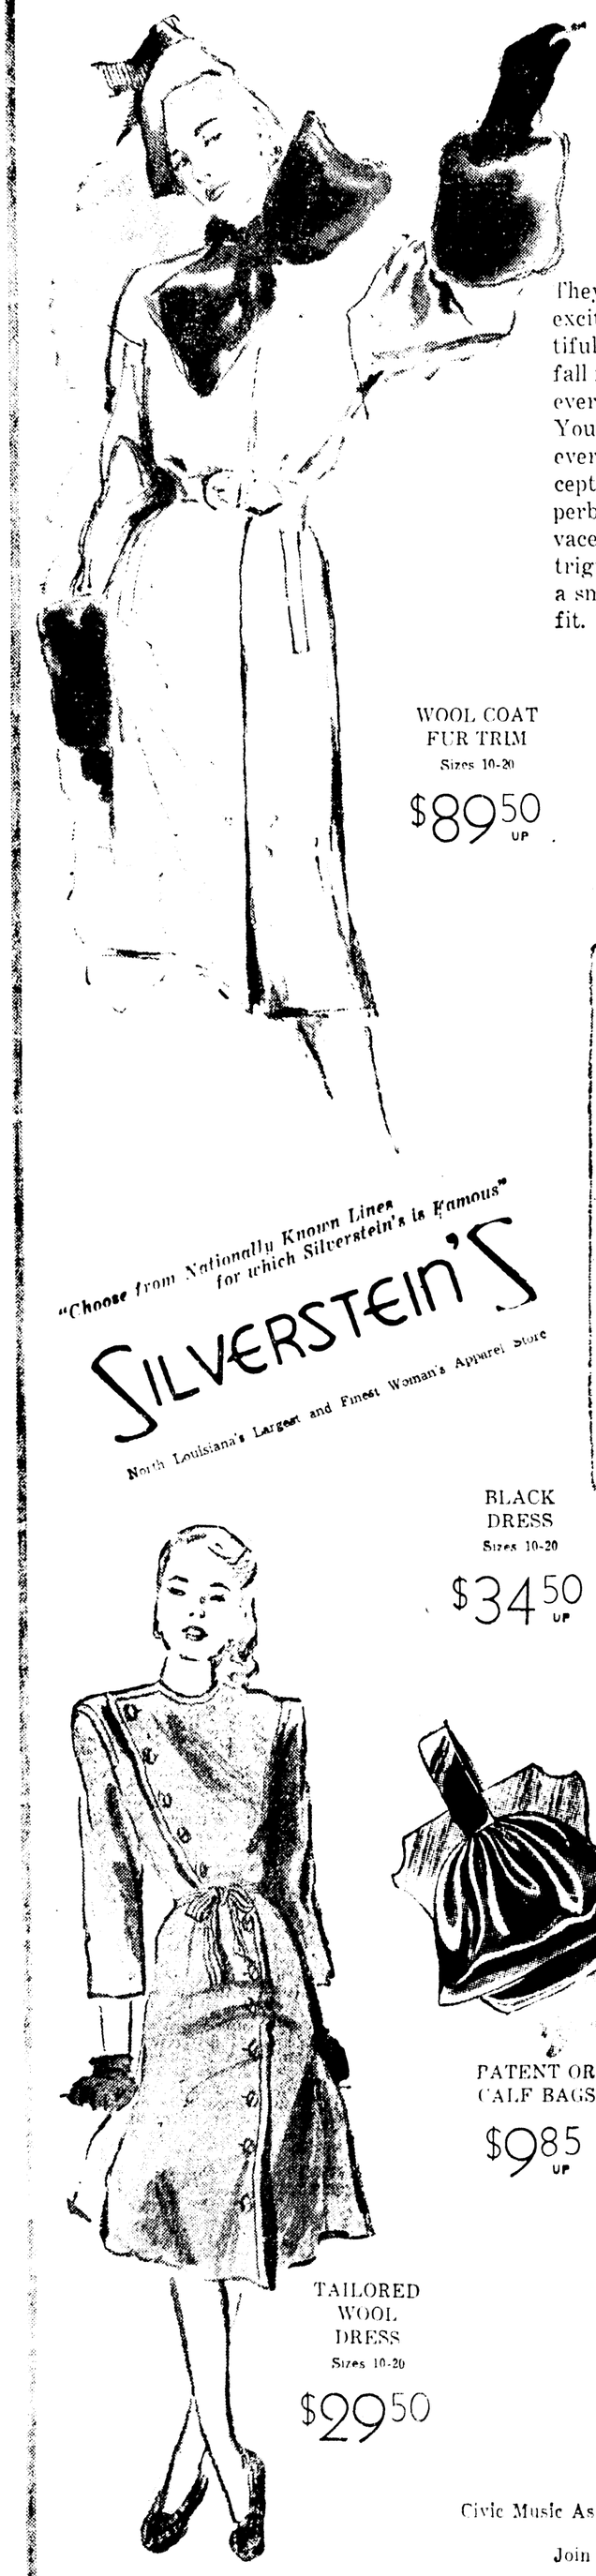

"You mean you have decided not to try to take your own life now?"

He repeated, this time more clearly: "I am not going to."

The boy arrived late yesterday in a bus with several other prisoners transferred from Stateville prison near Joliet.

TO GIVE ROSARY IN ST. MATTHEW'S

Animated Service Is Planned For Sunday Night

St. Matthew's Sodalities will sponsor an animated Rosary at the church Sunday at 7:30 p.m. The Rosary will be formed by the High School Sodality, the boys forming a cross and the Our Fathers and the girls representing the Hail Marys.

The Rosary will form at the school and march in procession to the church. Preceding this formation, a court in honor of the Blessed Virgin Mary will take their places in the church.

Miss Rita Laborde prefect of the Parish Sodality is queen, and the maid of honor will be Miss Melba Mezzel, vice-prefect, other members of the post-graduate Sodality serving as maids will comprise Misses Ann Soebbing, Frances Pecasting, Sarah Messina, Nancy D'Spenza, Josephine Anzalone, Alice Ticheli, Laura Leah Worsham, Wadel Elias.

After the high school group has finished the recitation of the Rosary, the court will proceed to the altar of the Blessed Virgin Mary and there unveil a picture of Our Lady of Fatima. Following this, a sermon will be preached on the Apparitions of Our Lady Fatima by Rev. H. W. Hubley.

The ceremony will close with Solemn Benediction of the Most Blessed Sacrament given by the Very Rev. J. C. Marsh.

The singing will be rendered by the men's choir, Philip Bernhardt, director, with Mrs. Lydia Oakland Nichols at the organ.

IN MOVIELAND

HOLLYWOOD, Oct. 12.—(AP)—"Now just lie down on that couch and let your mind relax. That's it—now tell me what you do for a living."

"I'm a movie reporter, doctor. I cover the Hollywood studios. I also see most of the pictures that are made. And that's why I came to see you."

"Supposing you describe these hallucinations to me."

"It's those psychoanalytical pictures, doctor. They're driving me mad. Mad, I tell you. The other night I saw 'The Dark Mirror' and that made it worse. There were two Olivia de Havillands being psychoanalyzed in that picture. Now at night I dream of four Bette Davises looking at ink blots and telling the doctor what they mean. Sometimes I see Gregory Peck shaving on a ski run with a straight razor. You know, doctor, you're beginning to look like Vincent Price."

"Hmmm, this is serious. Tell me, do any of the other pictures affect your dreams?"

"Yes, the 'Private Eye' films. Sometimes I dream I am Alan Ladd, or Dick Powell, or Humphrey Bogart, and I run a detective agency in Los Angeles. It's always Los Angeles. And I have a secretary who is Lucille Ball, or Veronica Lake, or on the best nights, Lauren Bacall. And I keep stumbling over corpses, see? And then I meet up with Bill Bendix who gives me a terrific beating. I do a fadeout and that's what's driving me nuts. I never get to the final reel and find out if Clifton Webb did the murders."

"Well, now, this isn't too bad. I've had many people come to me with the same symptoms. What you need is a change of diet. You should see some comedies."

"That's just it, doctor. Where am I going to find any? I've seen the latest Marx Brothers' picture five times. I haven't been able to find any other comedies that were worth seeing."

"Why not?"

"I don't know, doctor. Maybe Hollywood has lost its sense of humor."

"In that case, I can see no solution to your problem. You'll have to suffer these dreams until Hollywood turns to another cycle."

"I hope it's soon. Say, doc—did anybody ever tell you that you looked like Ingrid Bergman?"

Here is shown venerable old "Queen Topsy"—the "boss" of the Sparks Circus elephant herd as she steps forth from her private "Pullman" sleeping car at early dawn, ready for the day's performances which she will give on Tuesday, October 15th, on the Plum street showgrounds afternoon and night.

The "queen" is 80 years of age, was the first elephant owned by the Sparks Circus way back in 1891 and is the oldest performing elephant in America.

GI'S SHOULD GIVE INSURANCE DATA

J. Arthur Smith, Jr., local insurance man, received some information in connection with correspondence with the Veterans Administration office in Dallas, Tex., that he thinks may be helpful to GI's in connection with their insurance. A letter stated in part:

"In your contact with service men, it is urged in all cases that you recommend to them that they always give their policy number when writing. If the policy number is not available, they can give their service number. There are, at this time, 17,000 pieces of unidentified mail in this office.

"At the present time our service is slower than some commercial companies due to the tremendous task of decentralizing the records of one million service men. It is expected in the future that we will be able to render the same type of service as commercial companies."

SPARKS CIRCUS SHOWS TUESDAY

Outstanding Acts Listed For Presentation In Two Performances

Tuesday will be "Circus Day"—the nation's holiday—and children of all ages from six to ninety in Monroe and vicinity are awaiting the coming of the first "Big Show" of the season.

For the first time in several years the famous Sparks Circus will be here giving two performances, afternoon at 3 p.m. and the night show at 8 p.m. on the Plum Street circus grounds. This will be the 50th tour of the Sparks Circus which annually for many seasons visited Monroe and has always played to capacity audiences every season.

Now back on the road again, for the first time since the beginning of World War II, streamlined and modernized, the Sparks Circus is presented under a mammoth big top in three rings and a huge steel arena and with a galaxy of international arenic stars, greater than ever before and with everything new except the old established title.

The outstanding feature act of this year's Sparks Circus is the wild animal presentation staged by "Prince Damoo"—the "Man from India"—world famous Hindu wild animal subjugator and his mixed group of performing East Indian leopards, black jugors and panthers from Borneo and Sumatra and mountain lions from Panama in the big steel cage.

Other notable acts that will perform will be the Riding Conley troupe of seven bareback riders; the Maxmillian troupe of Mexican whirlwind acrobats; Senorita Anna Mendoza, the "Queen of the Air" from Venezuela; performing elephants, Liberty horses, dogs and ponies; Senor Don Jose Fernandez, wizard of the high wire; the Flying Jordans, aerialists supreme; funny clowns, and a host of others.

The advance sale of tickets for both performances, at no increase in the regular admission charges, will be held on Tuesday at the Walgreen Drug Store, from 10 a.m. until 5 p.m. for the convenience of patrons who wish to avoid the crowds at the circus grounds.

SUCCESS CROWNS STORE'S OPENING

The formal opening of Howard Bros. Jewelry store Friday was largely attended and proved an outstanding success. The stores was filled with flowers from localfriends and well wishers and numerous wires received expressing good will.

The store is owned by three Howard Brothers, natives of Union porish. They are V. E. Howard, W.L. (Jack) Howard and Alton H. Howard. V. E. Howard, general manager and owner, lives in Greenville, Tex., but attended the opening of th store.

Complete lines of fine jewelry and gifts of distinction will be carried in this modern store. The Howards expressed gratification Saturday at the remarkably fine reception they had been given at the formal opening of their establishment.

Sometimes I see Gregory Peck shaving on a ski run with a straight razor. You know, doctor, you're beginning to look like Vincent Price."

"Hmmm, this is serious. Tell me, do any of the other pictures affect your dreams?"

"Yes, the 'Private Eye' films. Sometimes I dream I am Alan Ladd, or Dick Powell, or Humphrey Bogart, and I run a detective agency in Los Angeles. It's always Los Angeles. And I have a secretary who is Lucille Ball, or Veronica Lake, or on the best nights, Lauren Bacall. And I keep stumbling over corpses, see? And then I meet up with Bill Bendix who gives me a terrific beating. I do a fadeout and that's what's driving me nuts—I never get to the final reel and find out if Clifton Webb did the murders."

"Well, now, this isn't too bad. I've had many people come to me with the same symptoms. What you need is a change of diet. You should see some comedies."

"That's just it, doctor. Where am I going to find any? I've seen the latest Marx Brothers' picture five times. I haven't been able to find any other comedies that were worth seeing."

"Why not?"

"I don't know, doctor. Maybe Hollywood has lost its sense of humor."

"In that case, I can see no solution to your problem. You'll have to suffer these dreams until Hollywood turns to another cycle."

"I hope it's soon. Say, doc—did anybody ever tell you that you looked like Ingrid Bergman?"

'THE QUEEN STEPS OUT'

Here is shown venerable old "Queen Topsy"—the "boss" of the Sparks Circus elephant herd as she steps forth from her private "Pullman" sleeping car at early dawn, ready for the day's performances which she will give on Tuesday, October 15th, on the Plum street showgrounds afternoon and night.

The "queen" is 80 years of age, was the first elephant owned by the Sparks Circus way back in 1891 and is the oldest performing elephant in America.

GI'S SHOULD GIVE INSURANCE DATA

J. Arthur Smith, Jr., local insurance man, received some information in connection with correspondence with the Veterans Administration office in Dallas, Tex., that he thinks may be helpful to GI's in connection with their insurance. A letter stated in part:

"In your contact with service men, it is urged in all cases that you recommend to them that they always give their policy number when writing If the policy number is not available, they can give their service number. There are, at this time, 17,000 pieces of unidentified mail in this office.

"At the present time our service is slower than some commercial companies due to the tremendous task of decentralizing the records of one million service men. It is expected in the future that we will be able to render the same type of service as commercial companies."

SPARKS CIRCUS SHOWS TUESDAY

Outstanding Acts Listed For Presentation In Two Performances

Tuesday will be "Circus Day"—the nation's holiday—and children of all ages from six to ninety in Monroe and vicinity are awaiting the coming of the first "Big Show" of the season.

For the first time in several years the famous Sparks Circus will be here giving two performances, afternoon at 3 p.m. and the night show at 8 p.m. on the Plum Street circus grounds. This will be the 50th tour of the Sparks Circus which annually for many seasons visited Monroe and has always played to capacity audiences every season.

Now back on the road again, for the first time since the beginning of World War II, streamlined and modernized, the Sparks Circus is presented under a mammoth big top in three rings and a huge steel arena and with a galaxy of international arenic stars, greater than ever before and with everything new except the old established title.

The outstanding feature act of this year's Sparks Circus is the wild animal presentation staged by "Prince Damoo"—the "Man from India"—world famous Hindu wild animal subjugator and his mixed group of performing East Indian leopards, black jugars and panthers from Borneo and Sumatra and mountain lions from Panama in the big steel cage.

Other notable acts that will perform will be the Riding Conley troupe of seven bareback riders; the Maxmillian troupe of Mexican whirlwind acrobats; Senorita Anna Mendoza, the "Queen of the Air" from Venezuela; performing elephants, Liberty horses, dogs and ponies; Senor Don Jose Fernandez, wizard of the high wire; the Flying Jordans, aerialists supreme; funny clowns, and a host of others.

The advance sale of tickets for both performances, at no increase in the regular admission charges, will be held on Tuesday at the Walgreen Drug Store, from 10 a.m. until 5 p.m. for the convenience of patrons who wish to avoid the crowds at the circus grounds.

SUCCESS CROWNS STORE'S OPENING

The formal opening of Howard Bros. Jewelry store Friday was largely attended and proved an outstanding success. The stores was filled with flowers from localfriends and well wishers and numerous wires received expressing good will.

The store is owned by three Howard Brothers, natives of Union porish. They are V. E. Howard, W.L. (Jack) Howard and Alton H. Howard. V. E. Howard, general manager and owner, lives in Greenville, Tex., but attended the opening of th store.

Complete lines of fine jewelry and gifts of distinction will be carried in this modern store. The Howards expressed gratification Saturday at the remarkably fine reception they had been given at the formal opening of their establishment.

YES MAN

My name is Vernon Adkins. I'm the "Yes" man at Personal Finance Co. . . . that is—I'm the man who likes to say "Yes" to requests for Personal loans.

You see—I'm the manager of our office—the man who's responsible for building up our business. The more times I say "yes" to requests for loans—the more business we do. And since making Personal Loans of $25 to $900 or more is our ONLY business—that's mighty important to me.

Therefore, if you need extra cash at any time—whether a little for a short time or a lot for a long time—you can depend on my doing my best to say "yes" to you.

Next time you can use a loan give me a chance to say "Yes"—won't you? I'll consider it a favor. See me at Personal Finance Co., 2nd floor, 217 Bernhardt Bldg., or phone me at 1288.

Fifty thousand American business men can't be wrong: the fifty thousand who spend $18.00 each for a weekly news letter, the news letter entitled "What's Going On In Washington," edited by James L. Wick, who has been invited to speak at the next meeting of Town Hall which will be held at Ouachita High School auditorium on Monday, October 14, at 8 p.m.

Mr. Wick is a charming and gracious speaker and even though his remarks deal with serious problems of this post-war era he is able to present them in such a way as to make them entertaining and delightful. There is a punch in every sentence he utters but the effect of it is pleasing as well as important.

Although he is quite familiar with Europe and has, indeed, interviewed most of the important men on that unhappy continent, the men who are currently in power or soon will be, Mr. Wick is an American and his viewpoint is that of an average intelligent American business man.

Because of his connections and his almost uncanny ability to forecast successfully the trends of the immediate future, Mr. Wick, on the platform, as well as through his weekly letter, is able to give hard-to-get information about matters which are pending or which have already been put into action though their results may not yet be perceived generally, and so be of real help to business and economic leaders throughout the country.

Though he speaks with authority, his remarks sparkle with humor and this quality combined with a charming personality serve to make his appearance an event.

SHANGHAI, Oct. 12 (AP)—American greenbacks, however highly rated elsewhere on the globe, are dismally deflated by Shanghai money-changers unless they're fresh and c-r-r-r-isp as toasted breakfast cereal.

Even so, if it isn't a 10 or 20-dollar bill, the black market financial wizard fixes you with a baleful eye and calmly discounts the currency like a used toothbrush. And, at the going exchange rate of 4,100 Chinese dollars to one United States, he hands you bills that look like they had been used as innersoles for Chinese army shoes.

This is a city where a United States dollar is worth anything from 93 to 95 cents, but never a dollar. Shanghai's financial foundations shift like desert sands, with the value of American money there, it's called gold, subject to more changes than an old maid's mind.

An unidentified but expert engraver somewhere in the city began turning out a remarkable likeness of a United States $50 bill, which resulted overnight in a substantial reduction of the value of the real thing on the Shanghai black market. Some merchants, even after a minute scrutiny, flatly refuse to accept a fifty.

If a genuine United States $50 note appears as if it has changed hands as few as a half-dozen times, it's worth only $9.60 (or 39,360 Chinese dollars). If it has seen more wear, although undamaged and relatively clean, it's worth only $9.30. Ten one-dollar bills, according to Shanghai's self-made banking rules, brings only slightly more than the equivalent of 90 cents apiece in tattered Chinese "lettuce."

A United States $100 note, regardless of its newness, is worth United States $92.

No bank has dealt in foreign exchange since the end of the war, and most money-changers on the black market view with dark suspicion any currency other than American.

The Philippine peso, while worth 50 cents American anywhere in the islands, is treated like an outcast in Shanghai. Those Chinese who can be persuaded to accept the peso at all discount it drastically.

A businessman, who concluded a United States $10,000 deal recently, delivered the money in $10 and $20 bills, as requested. Nearly $4,000 was returned as unacceptable. The notes were neither old nor damaged—just not crisp enough.

Interest rates are equally puzzling. Interest on inflated Chinese dollars is more than double that on United States dollars. A loan of United States $5,000 on good security brings United States $400 a month interest. A millionaire, in Chinese currency (less than $250 United States) can get C$180,000 a month interest on his C$1,000,000. If he let the loan ride for a year, he would have C$2,000,000 at the current interest rates. The catch is that by then his C$3,000,000 might be worth no more than his C$1,000,000 is now.

The flustered newcomer may want to try his luck in some other Chinese city. On the books, a trip on a Chinese vessel costs C$18,000 (U. S. $4.40), but bookings are closed. However, if he is willing to pay U. S. $25 on the black market, he finds there actually is plenty of space.

Some visitors are surprised to learn that it costs considerably more to unload and deliver a cargo locally than to ship it across the Pacific. It's part of the "squeeze" which has been applied to virtually everything. Apartment rental could be considered fairly reasonable, if it were not for the U. S. $5,000 to U. S. $10,000 or more, demanded as "key money"—to obtain entry into the dwelling.

No one can guarantee that the renter will get his "key money" returned upon leaving the place. As one veteran Shanghai businessman put it, no one here can guarantee anything.

Some authorities say that suicide is more prevalent among educated than illiterate groups.

Freedom of the Danube, which the Paris peace conference has included in the Romanian draft treaty over the fierce objections of the Russian dominated Slavic bloc, is of vast importance to world peace and progress.

The battle which has been raging over this issue represents a major effort by the western Allies, led by America and Britain, to penetrate the "iron curtain"—which divides Europe into two camps.

Whether that effort will succeed along these lines remains in grave doubt, despite the action of the conference. The draft treaty now has to be passed to the council of big four foreign ministers for approval—and approval must be unanimous in order to stick. If Russia vetoes the Danubian clause, out it goes.

United States Senator Arthur H. Vandenberg, in fighting for this clause, put the matter thus:

The United States delegation "believes a free Danube is indispensable to the economic health, and therefore to the peace, of central Europe. . . . The United States has no direct commercial interest of its own in the Danube. . . . But the larger problem of the general peace . . . Which is the responsibility of every nation in this conference, is substantially related to the avoidance of international trade barriers which invite discrimination and dangerous frictions."

Both Soviet Foreign Minister Molotov and Edvard Kardelj of Yugoslavia rejected the arguments of Senator Vandenberg and British Foreign Minister Bevin with strong words. The former charged in effect that the capitalistic nations were trying to establish economic imperialism in the Danubian theater.

And why all this fuss and feathers over a river? To the world at large the Danube is associated mainly with the name of a lovely and imperishable waltz. Romance tells us this great waterway is blue, and he would indeed be a sorry fellow who was prosaic enough to present factual arguments to controvert that. Your correspondent who knows it well can at least testify that at times it is bewitching.

More to the point is the fact that the Danube—second largest river in Europe—provides a water highway through the heart of the continent and washes the boundaries of eight nations, including Soviet Russia. The other seven are Germany, Austria, Czechoslovakia, Hungary, Yugoslavia, Romania and Bulgaria. Of this Senator Vandenberg said:

"It is historically clear that Danubian commerce cannot prosper if it is at the mercy of various uncoordinated, restrictive and discriminatory administrations which respond to the local judgments of the eight national jurisdictions through which the Danube flows. . . ."

The Danube rises in the Black forest hills of Baden, Germany, and flows 2,000 miles to the Black sea. It is connected with one of the Rhine tributaries by the Ludwigs-Kanal, and these two rivers provide communication between the North and the Black seas. Only small craft at present can make the full course, but larger ships navigate the lower reaches of both rivers.

A huge amount of commerce moves over the Danube and it is an integral part of the economic life of that part of Europe. But it is more than that, for in time of war it provides a strategic water route for military operations. During both world wars there were great troop movements in that theater, and heavy fighting. The Danube has been tinged with the crimson of many other conflicts through the centuries.

An International Danube Navigation Commission was established in 1856 and the navigation of the river was declared free to all nations. Barring the duration of the first world war the river remained open until Germany withdrew from the commission in 1936 and later took complete control through domination of central Europe.

Now the Danube again has been closed off by the Slavic bloc. And unless the big four foreign ministers accept the Danubian clause in the Romanian treaty, the mighty river will remain sequestered.

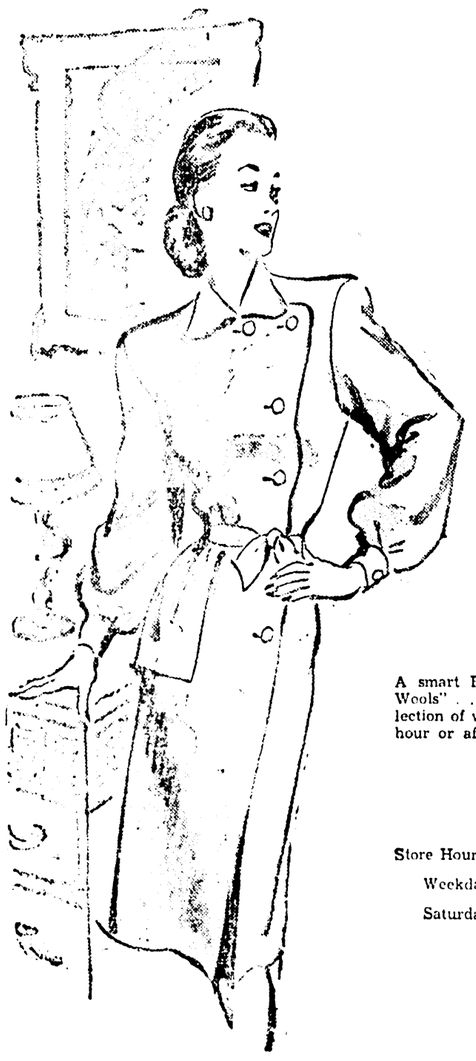

Sulphur, which is also called "brimestone" has been known to man from remote times.

If This Be Vengeance . . .

Sen. Robert A. Taft's academic sensibilities are offended by the death sentences given 11 Nazi war criminals at Nuernberg. He feels that the sentences, if not the verdict, were a miscarriage of justice, and that life imprisonment would have been punishment enough. He expresses the opinion that most Americans "viewed with discomfort" the Nuernberg and Japanese war crime trials.

Senator Taft is a lawyer, and his objections may be legally sound. But we doubt that most Americans were outraged by the Nuernberg verdict—unless, indeed, because Hitler's second political heir escaped the gallows and three of his top advisers and assistants went scot free.

The whole judgment, Mr. Taft feels, was one of vengeance rather than justice. He thinks that we have violated a fundamental principle of American law by trying the Nazis under an ex-post-facto statute. Further, he believes that hanging 11 men won't discourage future aggressive war, "for no one makes aggressive war unless he expects to win."

There is a temptation at this point to paraphrase Patrick Henry and say, "If this be vengeance, make the most of it!" Where does justice end and vengeance begin? Is there no element of vengeance in American laws which permit the execution of men for an individual murder or kidnaping or rape? And why should that element be absent in the trial of men who planned, ordered or executed these crimes by the millions?

Senator Taft implies that the element of vengeance might have been ruled out if the Nazi war leaders had been given only life imprisonment. But, if the vengeance motive is wrong, why would not any punishment be equally vengeful?

The senator also is disturbed by the ex-post-facto law under which the Nazis were tried. It is true that the nations of the world waited until after a war that took the lives of an estimated 30,000,000 persons to decide that causing the death of 30,000,000 persons was a crime. But to have avoided a legal faux pas at Nuernberg it would have been necessary to wait for another world war before trying its instigators—provided, of course, that any instigators, counsel or judges survived.

Then there is Mr. Taft's contention that outlawing aggression won't do much good, since no one makes aggressive war unless he expects to win. That, from a lawyer, seems inconsistent. For it might be argued with equal logic that there isn't much point in a law against individual murder, since it doesn't seem to discourage the practice.

But, sound or unsound, Senator Taft's legal hair-splitting is in questionable taste, to say the very least. How must it seem to the families of those who were tortured and starved and slain at the will and knowledge and order of these Nazi war lords to hear the solemn senator pleading, in effect, for their lives?

However honest Mr. Taft may have been in estimating American public opinion in this matter, we hope and believe that his finger has slipped off the public pulse. We should rather think that Americans have "viewed with discomfort" his condemnation of the Nuernberg sentences.

ON THE WEATHER JOB

The anonymous scientists of the United States Weather Bureau are largely unhonored, generally unsung. When people think of them at all it is likely to be with irritation because a forecast hasn't turned out 100 per cent correct. People don't often think of meteorologists as a dramatic, life-saving group.

Yet that is in effect what the weather bureau men are—long-distance life-savers. An estimated 8,000 people who are alive today would have perished in the last 10 years had it not been for the bureau's hurricane warning service. The front pages of a few days ago disclosed how Florida west coast residents, alerted by the bureau, boarded up homes, fled to cities, and in some cases evacuated en masse from areas which might have been devastated.

This service dates back to 1873, but it is only in recent years, with modern communications, that it has reached its present effectiveness. As recently as 15 years ago hurricanes were taking a toll of 161 lives for each $10,000,000 worth of property destroyed. Today, using the same yardstick of property damage to estimate a hurricane's "killing power," fatalities per $10,000,000 of damage number only four.

The reason for this saving in lives is that people, warned of a hurricane's approach, are generally able to keep out of its way. More than 80 per cent of the storms' victims have death by drowning, which generally can be avoided if people are warned in time to seek high ground and safety.

To be sure, the weather bureau does not claim all the credit for saving these lives. It points out that public and private organizations, pooling their resources and personnel when hurricanes threaten, are responsible for the actual evacuation of as many as 50,000 persons from a storm's path.

But unless the weather observers, some of them in bleak and lonely outposts, faithfully compiled and passed along their data; unless the meteorologists consolidated the reports and drew from them their conclusions, and unless their warnings were issued with consummate accuracy as to where and when a hurricane will strike, all the personnel and resources in the world would be powerless to act in time.

REMARKABLE AGREEMENT

We see where the French Constituent Assembly passed in the short space of one day the first two clauses of the country's proposed new constitution. They were:

"France is an indivisible, lay (non-clerical), democratic and social republic.

"The national emblem is the tri-color flag, blue, white, red in three vertical bands. The republic's motto is: 'Liberty, equality, fraternity.'"

Well, that's something, in these days of disagreement—especially coming from Paris. But we'll bet that if Mr. Molotov had been a member of the Assembly the tri-color would be cut up into small squares by now, with Mr. Molotov threatening to walk out if the flag weren't redesigned in a red-white-and-blue checkerboard pattern.

IN HOLLYWOOD

HOLLYWOOD, Oct. 12.—If it's true, as reported, that James Cagney is being paid $5,000 a week for 14 weeks' work in the 20th Century-Fox film, "13 Rue Madelon," he's established a new all-time salary record . . . Ha! Actor Jay Norris, whose marriage to an L. A. socialite is being delayed because they can't rent a suitable house, inherited an entire hotel the other day—but it's in Atlanta, Ga.! . . . Pals say all's not well with the Gene Tierney-Oleg Cassini union . . . Charles Boyer has agreed to make a political documentary film in France for the French government.

Kathryn Grayson and actor Johnny Johnston, reported secretly wed in Mexico, says 'tain't so . . . No foolin' there's a Negro porter at Paramount whose legal name is Douglas Fairbanks . . . Looks like Fred Astaire, who announced his "definite retirement" from pictures some months ago, spoke too soon; he's on the verge of inking a new contract . . . Bill "Bojangles" Robinson and his missus have a spring date with Doc Stork . . . Expect Claire Trevor and John Shelton to swap "I do's" when her divorce is final.

After conning John Hersey's authoritative tome on the bombing of Hiroshima, MGM is re-filming much of the footage already shot for its atomic bomb epic, "The Beginning Or the End" . . . Joe Kirkwood, Jr., star of the "Joe Palooka" series, is duffle-packing for an exhibition golf tour with his famous dad . . . Now that Irene Manning's seven-year marriage to a LA businessman has been annulled, she'll altar-trek with her business manager, Robert Carey.

PREVIEW NIGHTS: Pic of a lackluster week: Universal-International's "The Dark Mirror" (Olivia de Havilland-Lew Ayres-Thomas Mitchell). Psychological crime drama with enough gasps to satisfy the most thrill-greedy . . . GOOD: Metro-Goldwyn-Mayer's "Undercurrent" (Robert Taylor-Katharine Hepburn-Robert Mitchum). Above par acting, offset by a rather boresome plot . . . FAIR: Universal-International's "A Lady Surrenders" (Margaret Lockwood-Stewart Granger). The surrender is too-long delayed in a typical slow-paced British manner . . . LOW BRIDGE: Republic's "Traffic In Crime" (Kane Richmond-Adele Mara-Anne Nagel). There'll be no traffic problem at the box office . . . Columbia's "Sing While You Dance" (Ellen Drew-Robert Stanton). Nothing to sing about. . . BEST PERFORMANCE: Lew Ayres in "The Dark Mirror."

Diana Barrymore, who's grabbed a lot of newspaper space by throwing punches—both verbal and physical—in interviews, still seems to be nursing a grudge against Hollywood. She told a New York columnist last week that she won't make any more movies because "American pictures haven't anything to do with acting." That statement, in my opinion, covers a bit too much territory. If Miss Barrymore had confined her remark to the pictures which she made while under contract to Universal, I'd be inclined to agree with her—those films certainly had little or nothing to do with acting.

Movie fans who have shared my feeling of irritation while trying to run down, in a welter of jumbled advertisements, the current bookings of pictures they want to see, will welcome an innovation in the St. Louis Star-Times. Starting on Sept. 30, that very progressive paper has been arranging its theatre ads in two sections. In one, all pictures playing in St. Louis are listed alphabetically, so that readers can ascertain where they are playing at a glance. In section two, all St. Louis theatres are listed alphabetically, together with their current programs. It's as simple as one plus one—and it's mighty efficient.

At a meeting of the directors of the United Artists Corporation the other day, Mary Pickford protested that the company must stop releasing "low-budget" films. I think her choice of words was unfortunate. It reflects the Hollywood habit of judging all pictures arbitrarily by their cost. As a matter of sober fact, several of the best movies in screen history were made for little money, and several of the worst lemons ever screened were super-colossals costing millions. To assume that good pictures can be made only through the expenditure of big money seems a bit ridiculous, unless you're prepared to believe that lavish "production values" are more important than honest creative talent.

When Ann Todd, the British star, arrived in New York, she was met at the boat by a battery of reporters. In commenting on the American hobby-soxers, she referred to them as "bodysockers." Hailed as a "twist of the tongue," her remark was reported with much amusement. But I wonder if Miss Todd's tongue wasn't in her cheek when she, supposedly, made that slip?

OUR CHILDREN

ALL AROUND ACCOMPLISHMENT

These are days of specialization. One physician attends to one special field of disease, one teacher teaches one subject, one factory worker sets one bit of a great whole in order. Machines tend to increase this tendency and make us all specialists in some one field.

That is not too bad in the field of labor. The machine makes it possible for a man to do what once was a whole day's work in an hour or so. That should mean that before many years pass working people, and all people are working people if they are worthwhile, will have a few hours a day of work and many hours in which to do what he likes best to do.

When people have time to devote to their personal interests they know the real richness, the true flavor of life, work that expresses their true selves. They will use their hands, their heads and their hearts in creative work—and there is no higher happiness on this earth than this accomplishment.

The time to train those hands and heads and stimulate those hearts is in schooldays. No schooling is worthy that does not allow for the instruction, the experiences, the creative impulses of childhood. The schools of today that force children to sit in benches and listen to a teacher's voice hours on end, with no chance to be active, creative, inquisitive, venturesome, is a crime against the people of the future, these children in the benches.

We are gravely concerned—in the newspapers — about the waywardness of children. We may well be, for it is very present and closer to us than in the press. The real cause of this trouble does not lie in the children, nor is it poverty, nor is it the parents' fault. It is the fault of the authorities who allocate funds for education, who lay down the policies of the schools, and of the handful of noisy taxpayers who hate to pay a tax for their own preservation. The schools are starved in every town in this land and this starvation policy is what is causing the waywardness of children.

Children must be kept busy, interested, at work. Schools must provide the background, the equipment, the teaching staffs, the materials, this requires. Good sense, an eye to our future national life, would dictate activity programs, long school days, all the teachers necessary to give children the all around education that will equip them for life in a world that will require their labor for but a few hours a day but which will need desperately their creative talents for the remainder of the time. Today's life requires the training of hand, head and heart, and tomorrow will require it, demand it, suffer for lack of it. What about it, parents, teachers, leading citizens?

A bad habit pattern in a child should be broken before it becomes too set. Angelo Patri tells you now it may be done in his leaflet P-10, "Changing Habits."

SUNDAY SCHOOL LESSON

The Sunday School Lesson for Oct. 27 Scripture: Act: 9:19-22; 11:25-26; Galatians 1:17-24

By William E. Gilroy, D. D.

Paul was not long in finding Christian friends, though at first the disciples feared him, as well they might in view of his so recent persecuting zeal against them.

Ananias, a saintly Christian in Damascus (not the notorious liar of Acts 5), who was prepared for Paul's coming in a vision, though he at first doubted that so terrible a persecutor could so suddenly have become a disciple, welcomed Paul as a Christian brother and pronounced the blessing that restored to Paul his eyesight.

The disciples at Jerusalem were somewhat harder to convince, as they had suffered more from the persecutor's fury. But Barnabas, the rich disciple who had sold and given all for the Christian cause, vouched for Paul, relating how he had been converted and how boldly Paul had proclaimed Christ among the Jews at Damascus.

It was not unnatural that Paul's former associates in his persecuting days should have been aroused to anger at his defection. So intense was their fury and purpose to kill him that Paul's new-found Christian friends had to effect his escape, letting him down in a basket from the walls of the city.

It was thus that he made his way to Jerusalem, and here also he proclaimed boldly his new faith in the Lord Jesus. But he did not stay long in Jerusalem, and his public preaching was abated while he sought fuller preparation for his life mission.

Scant attention has been paid to what have been called "Paul's silent years," but Paul underwent years of meditation before he embarked upon his missionary career. Just what Paul did during this period of silence—and how many years it lasted—is not clear.

It is difficult to think of a man of Paul's intensity as being in retreat, and probably those years were spent in pursuing his own course, studying, praying, conversing with others, feeling his way into the richness and fullness of his missionary activity, waiting for the Master's call and guidance.

There is a lesson for us all in the fact that so great and wise a man as Paul should need preparation. Zeal, even in a Paul-like man, is not enough.

If we would do great work for God, zeal must be fortified with knowledge and discipline. The church has suffered greatly from those who have never learned that lesson.

News BEHIND THE NEWS
By PAUL MALLON

(Distributed by King Features Syndicate, reproduction in whole or in part, strictly prohibited).

WASHINGTON, Oct. 12—Republican Campaign Manipulator Halleck made some election claims to reporters so modest they did not get into most newspapers. When a Republican claims an expected Republican victory, it is not news. But privately Mr. Halleck had more sensational views, expressing a hunch he would get a tremendous sweep Nov. 5 of far greater scope than expected, winning a strong majority in the house and a slight control in the senate. His view was that the Democratic party is split, and the fissure will be widened in the voting, the party not even getting its usual union labor support which was its backbone in the last seven congressional elections.

The campaign has been so quiet you could hear a Pepper drop or a Wallace fall. But padded rolling pins have been flying in the Democratic camp. The meat famine coming atop the Wallace affair has spread a panic among Democratic candidates in eastern cities. They have been screaming to Mr. Truman privately and publicly for relief of some sort, which will return beef to all Democratic tables at least, before the voting starts. Indeed, the Republicans believe a report they have heard from the Democratic camp, that Mike Monroney, chairman of the Democratic congressional campaign committee, chosen for that job because his district was safe, and therefore he could campaign for others in need, instead of for himself, had to rush back to his home district in Oklahoma City on a well concealed trip to mend his own fences.

This much I know—Democratic Senate Leader Barkley has embarked on 25 campaign speeches in Kentucky. When a man of Barkley's official connection with the White House, age and health, goes into such incessant and strenuous activity merely to save a Democratic senate seat and perhaps a Louisville congressman or two, you may be sure the inner demo reports are very bad.

The spots where the Republicans expect to gain most are the large industrial states like Massachusetts, Pennsylvania, New York, Ohio—places in which the unions have been strongest. They cannot expect to reap much in Illinois or Indiana where they are already strong. In Illinois they might pick up a district or two in Ed Kelley's Chicago, and in Indiana their hopes are centered in the Gary district, where the foreign language groups have split over the peace troubles. But their hopes even extend to wild and wooly Washington, in which the unions have been dominant, and to California.

Out of Pennsylvania they expect to promote a new presidential candidacy in the size of the majority by which their Gov. Martin beats Joe Guffey. Certainly Mr. Guffey has been getting prominent Democrats from outside the state to undertake the argument for him and lend respectability to his claims. He is thoroughly CIO, but what John Lewis' miners may do to him in the coal districts will be shown only by the counted votes.

The polls have been slow and inconclusive. Actually some of the Republican leaders are waiting to hear what Mr. Gallup says, as he never says much until the last week before election, these Republican bigwigs, if not the nation, will remain on tiptoe for a couple of weeks yet. Certainly, however, the Democrats have not been able to match the Republican slogan: "Had Enough?"

The fundamental political situation from the Republican or any other standpoint in my opinion is simply this:

The Roosevelt regime managed to perpetuate itself by an unreasonable and purely political alliance of southern Democrats, city unions and city political machines in the north and east, and even the Communists. This alliance was maintained by the genius of Mr. Roosevelt. Signs that it is cracking are unmistakable. The pressure of international and domestic events have forced open breaks wider and wider in the coalition, and it cannot be maintained much longer.

Yet the machines of the cities and unions are the best organized political pressure groups in the country. A union may fine a member for not voting. It provides automobiles, pressure and instruction to get its vote recorded 100 percent. The city machines do fairly well in this respect also. The public at large is not organized. If the vote of the middle class, the white collar worker and the average citizen is more than 60 per cent recorded, in an off-year election, the movement to get out the vote will be considered a success. Only the ballots actually cast will count.

In view of the dismal condition of the Democrats, my election prediction is this:

The Republicans will gain firm control of the house perhaps by 16 or 17 votes or more and will come close to controlling the senate, perhaps within one or two votes. If the split among the unions eventuates at the polls, the scope of the victory will be enlarged to the same extent as the split widens. In that case, the Republicans may win more than they claim.

SHERIFF RECEIVES TAX ROLL FOR 1946

Sheriff Milton Coverdale, tax collector of Ouachita parish, last night announced the 1946 tax roll had been filed with his office and that all state and parish taxes due for 1946 are now payable.

Taxes become delinquent after December 31 of this year, and Sheriff Coverdale is urging that as many as possible make their payments early to avoid the usual "last minute" rush and congestion in the tax collecting department.

FAIR RIDES WILL OPERATE ALL WEEK

The Ouachita Valley Fair has been well attended, stated the general manager, John H. Birdsong, Saturday. He states that this afternoon, the rides and other concessions will be in operation, starting at 1 p.m. and continuing until 6 p.m. The price of rides for the occasion will be cut to nine cents, he said.

The concessions are called the best that have been provided for any similar previous fair and will be continued on the fair grounds all through the present week so that the children may have opportunity to enjoy them.

He is the only newscaster whom I've never been able to tag with any kind of error, grammar, pronunciation, enunciation, or taste. If I were a Rockefeller I'd hire him to teach my grandchildren the American language . . . and where did he learn all this? Public school, Harrisburg. Later on, a bit here and there in France and other countries . . . American is not a difficult language to learn, especially if you happen to be lucky enough to be born in this country. It requires only about the same exactitude that it needed by a housewife in keeping all the corners clean.

As for technical knowledge of written American, two entirely different persons rank number one. With neither do I agree on all occasions, but that doesn't seem to bother them.

Wilfred Funk and Henry Mencken know so much more about the language than I do that my opinion of them probably is inconsequential.

Funk is the generation's top lexicographer in our speech. Mencken has a widely diffused knowledge of the language, a curiosity about peculiarities of expression, and a tireless urge of research. Though he did not intend to become a scholar, he makes scholars ponder.

The official indignation about horse parlors and bookies, high and low, has worn out. No more publicity to be got out of raiding a few joints. We will have to think up some new indignation for the New York politicians.

Still, the bookies sit all day at the end of the counters or bars, in East Side bars and restaurants. Horses are running somewhere, every day of the year. And if they don't run, you can buy numbers.

Some of the most notorious bookie joints on the East Side, frequented by policemen, among others, have never been touched.

There is a prosperous Italian place on Third avenue, once celebrated for Mama's cooking, where eaters are casually brushed off. The money is on the ponies. If you don't bet, you're unwelcome.

No, the police don't know about it. It's a public secret.

I'm all for the National Arthritis Research Foundation, although its expensive launching, coincident with a motion picture release, was heralded by a dinner at the Waldorf and tons of expensive publicity.

Whether or not a commercial interest is involved (and we who write for the papers are inclined to be suspicious), I believe that a setup for study of arthritis, its cause, prognosis, diagnosis, and possible control, might eventuate in enormous good to mankind.

There does not live a human being who doesn't know somebody who suffers from arthritis, possibly the greatest curse of the human race.

Doctors who are honest admit that they know little or nothing about it. I am inclined to believe that nothing is the better word.

So, if the movie men can dump some trivial bit of their profits into this enterprise, I'm for 'em.

It is amazing to a seasoned newspaperman that Stalin's recent propaganda release on "no more war" should have been taken so seriously by so many people.

The Stalin blurb was about as important as the Atlantic Charter, the fourteen points, or a Henry Wallace speech.

Is there any government bonus for roasted chestnuts?

On a chilly night they are better for olfactory nerves and worse for digestion than any speech out of Washington.

FATHER-IN-LAW SUIT HITS ORLEANS MAYO

NEW ORLEANS, Oct. 11.—(AP)—A political rift between the mayor of New Orleans and his father-in-law has been brought into the open again by a suit filed by the father-in-law in civil district court here.

The suit, filed by John S. Waterman, Jr., father-in-law of Mayor deLesseps S. Morrison, asks annulment of the city's "permit fund" ordinance which has existed during previous administrations.

A break between Waterman and the mayor became public recently when Waterman issued a critical statement as a result of the mayor's shutdown of racing news services here.

Waterman now is seeking annulment of the ordinance which provides for a "contingent fund for the mayor to be expended by the mayor at his discretion." When the fund drops below $1,000, the suit says, it may be replenished to that amount by proper procedure.

"Many thousands of dollars," the petition says, "are used illegally by the mayor of New Orleans out of such contingent fund which otherwise could be used for the benefit of your petitioner and others similarly situated, in reducing the cost of government."

Mayor Morrison, commenting on the suit, said, "the city ordinances covering the operation of the permit fund have been in effect for more than a quarter of a century. During the past five months the permit fund has been administered more publicly and more properly than at any other time."

DENTIST FACES BRIBERY CHARGE

NEW ORLEANS, La., Oct. 12.—(AP)—C. E. Weeks, special agent in charge of the New Orleans office of the federal bureau of investigation, said Lamar E. Little, Winnsboro dentist, has been charged with attempting to bribe a war assets administration official.

Weeks said the charge alleges that Little mailed $100 to the official in an attempt to influence him in the disposal of surplus dental equipment.

A criminal complaint, Weeks said, had been filed with United States Commissioner R. H. Carter, Jr., charging the dentist with violating the federal bribery statute.

If This Be Vengeance . . .

Sen. Robert A. Taft's academic sensibilities are offended by the death sentences given 11 Nazi war criminals at Nuernberg. He feels that the sentences, if not the verdict, were a miscarriage of justice, and that life imprisonment would have been punishment enough. He expresses the opinion that most Americans "viewed with discomfort" the Nuernberg and Japanese war crime trials.

Senator Taft is a lawyer, and his objections may be legally sound. But we doubt that most Americans were outraged by the Nuernberg verdict—unless, indeed, because Hitler's second political heir escaped the gallows and three of his top advisers and assistants went scot free.

The whole judgment, Mr. Taft feels, was one of vengeance rather than justice. He thinks that we have violated a fundamental principle of American law by trying the Nazis under an ex-post-facto statute. Further, he believes that hanging 11 men won't discourage future aggressive war, "for no one makes aggressive war unless he expects to win."

There is a temptation at this point to paraphrase Patrick Henry and say, "If this be vengeance, make the most of it!" Where does justice end and vengeance begin? Is there no element of vengeance in American laws which permit the execution of men for an individual murder or kidnaping or rape? And why should that element be absent in the trial of men who planned, ordered or executed these crimes by the millions?

Senator Taft implies that the element of vengeance might have been ruled out if the Nazi war leaders had been given only life imprisonment. But, if the vengeance motive is wrong, why would not any punishment be equally vengeful?

The senator also is disturbed by the ex-post-facto law under which the Nazis were tried. It is true that the nations of the world waited until after a war that took the lives of an estimated 30,000,000 persons to decide that causing the death of 30,000,000 persons was a crime. But to have avoided a legal faux pas at Nuernberg it would have been necessary to wait for another world war before trying its instigators—provided, of course, that any instigators, counsel or judges survived.

Then there is Mr. Taft's contention that outlawing aggression won't do much good, since no one makes aggressive war unless he expects to win. That, from a lawyer, seems inconsistent. For it might be argued with equal logic that there isn't much point in a law against individual murder, since it doesn't seem to discourage the practice.

But, sound or unsound, Senator Taft's legal hair-splitting is in questionable taste, to say the very least. How must it seem to the families of those who were tortured and starved and slain at the will and knowledge and order of these Nazi war lords to hear the solemn senator pleading, in effect, for their lives?

However honest Mr. Taft may have been in estimating American public opinion in this matter, we hope and believe that his finger has slipped off the public pulse. We should rather think that Americans have "viewed with discomfort" his condemnation of the Nuernberg sentences.

ON THE WEATHER JOB

The anonymous scientists of the United States Weather Bureau are largely unhonored, generally unsung. When people think of them at all it is likely to be with irritation because a forecast hasn't turned out 100 per cent correct. People don't often think of meteorologists as a dramatic, life-saving group.

Yet that is in effect what the weather bureau men are—long-distance life-savers. An estimated 8,000 people who are alive today would have perished in the last 10 years had it not been for the bureau's hurricane warning service. The front pages of a few days ago disclosed how Florida west coast residents, alerted by the bureau, boarded up homes, fled to cities, and in some cases evacuated en masse from areas which might have been devastated.

This service dates back to 1873, but it is only in recent years, with modern communications, that it has reached its present effectiveness. As recently as 15 years ago hurricanes were taking a toll of 161 lives for each $10,000,000 worth of property destroyed. Today, using the same yardstick of property damage to estimate a hurricane's "killing power," fatalities per $10,000,000 of damage number only four.

The reason for this saving in lives is that people, warned of a hurricane's approach, are generally able to keep out of harm's way. More than 80 per cent of the storms' victims meet death by drowning, which generally can be avoided if people are warned in time to seek high ground and safety.

To be sure, the weather bureau does not claim all the credit for saving these lives. It points out that public and private organizations, pooling their resources and personnel when hurricanes threaten, are responsible for the actual evacuation of as many as 50,000 persons from a storm's path.

But unless the weather observers, some of them in bleak and lonely outposts, faithfully compiled and passed along their data; unless the meteorologists consolidated the reports and drew from them their conclusions, and unless their warnings were issued with consummate accuracy as to where and when a hurricane will strike, all the personnel and resources in the world would be powerless to act in time.

REMARKABLE AGREEMENT

We see where the French Constituent Assembly passed in the short space of one day the first two clauses of the country's proposed new constitution. They were:

"France is an indivisible, lay (non-clerical), democratic and social republic.

"The national emblem is the tri-color flag, blue, white, red in three vertical bands. The republic's motto is: 'Liberty, equality, fraternity.'"

Well, that's something, in these days of disagreement—especially coming from Paris. But we'll bet that if Mr. Molotov had been a member of the Assembly the tri-color would be cut up into small squares by now, with Mr. Molotov threatening to walk out if the flag weren't redesigned in a red-white-and-blue checkerboard pattern.

IN HOLLYWOOD

HOLLYWOOD, Oct. 12.—If it's true, as reported, that James Cagney is being paid $25,000 a week for 14 weeks work in the 20th Century-Fox film, "13 Rue Madelon," he's established a new all-time salary record . . . Ha! Actor Jay Norris, whose marriage to an L. A. socialite is being delayed because they can't rent a suitable house, inherited an entire hotel the other day—but it's in Atlanta, Ga.! . . . Pals say all's not well with the Gene Tierney-Oleg Cassini union . . Charles Boyer has agreed to make a political documentary film in France for the French government.

Kathryn Grayson and actor Johnny Johnston, reported secretly wed in Mexico, says 'tain't so . . . No foolin' there's a Negro porter at Paramount whose legal name is Douglas Fairbanks . . . Looks like Fred Astaire, who announced his "definite retirement" from pictures some months ago, spoke too soon; he's on the verge of inking a new contract . . . Bill "Bojamgles" Robinson and his missus have a spring date with Doe Stork . . . Expect Claire Trevor and John Shelton to swap "I do's" when her divorce is final.

After conning John Hersey's authoritative tome on the bombing of Hiroshima, MGM is re-filming much of the footage already shot for its atomic bomb epic, "The Beginning Or the End" . . . Joe Kirkwood, Jr., star of the "Joe Palooka" series, is dufflepacking for an exhibition golf tour with his famous dad . . . Now that Irene Manning's mixed up marriage to a LA businessman has been annulled, she'll altar-trek with her business manager, Robert Carey.

PREVIEW NIGHTS: Pic of a lackluster week: Universal-International's "The Dark Mirror" (Olivia de Havilland-Lew Ayres-Thomas Mitchell). Psychological crime drama with enough gasps to satisfy the most thrill-greedy . . . GOOD: Metro-Goldwyn-Mayer's "Undercurrent" (Robert Taylor - Katharine Hepburn - Robert Mitchum.) Above par acting, offset by a rather boresome plot . . . FAIR: Universal - International's "A Lady Surrenders" (Margaret Lockwood - Stewart Granger). The surrender is too-long delayed in a typical slow-paced British manner . . . LOW BRIDGE: Republic's "Traffic In Crime" (Kane Richmond-Adele Mara-Anne Nagel). There'll be no traffic problem at the box office . . . Columbia's "Sing While You Dance" (Ellen Drew-Robert Stanton). Nothing to sing about. . . BEST PERFORMANCE: Lew Ayres in "The Dark Mirror."

Diana Barrymore, who's grabbed a lot of newspaper space by throwing punches—both verbal and physical—in interviews, still seems to be nursing a grudge against Hollywood. She told a New York columnist last week that she won't make any more movies because "American pictures haven't anything to do with acting." That statement, in my opinion, covers a bit too much territory. If Miss Barrymore had confined her remark to the pictures which she made while under contract to Universal, I'd be inclined to agree with her—those films certainly had little or nothing to do with acting.

Movie fans who have shared my feeling of irritation while trying to run down, in a welter of jumbled advertisements, the current bookings of pictures they want to see, will welcome an innovation in the St. Louis Star-Times. Starting on Sept. 30, that very progressive paper has been arranging its theatre ads in two sections. In one, all pictures playing in St. Louis are listed alphabetically, so that readers can ascertain where they are playing at a glance. In section two, all St. Louis theatres are listed alphabetically, together with their current programs. It's as simple as one plus one—and it's mighty efficient.

At a meeting of the directors of the United Artists Corporation the other day, Mary Pickford protested that the company must stop releasing "low-budget" films. I think her choice of words was unfortunate. It reflects the Hollywood habit of judging all pictures arbitrarily by their cost. As a matter of sober fact, several of the best movies in screen history were made for little money, and several of the worst lemons ever screened were super-colossals costing millions. To assume that good pictures can be made only through the expenditure of big money seems a bit ridiculous, unless you're prepared to believe that lavish "production values" are more important than honest creative talent.

When Ann Todd, the British star, arrived in New York, she was met at the boat by a battery of reporters. In commenting on the American bobby-soxers, she referred to them as "body-sockers." Hailed as a "twist of the tongue," her remark was reported with much amusement. But I wonder if Miss Todd's tongue wasn't in her cheek when she, supposedly, made that slip?

OUR CHILDREN

ALL AROUND ACCOMPLISHMENT

These are days of specialization. One physician attends to one special field of disease, one teacher teaches one subject, one factory worker sets one bit of a great whole in order. Machines tend to increase this tendency and make us all specialists in some one field.

That is not too bad in the field of labor. The machine makes it possible for a man to do what once was a whole day's work in an hour or so. That should mean that before many years pass working people, and all people are working people if they are worthwhile, will have a few hours a day of work and many hours in which to do what he likes best to do.

When people have time to devote to their personal interests they know the real richness, the true flavor of life, work that expresses their true selves. They will use their hands, their heads and their hearts in creative work—and there is no higher happiness on this earth than this accomplishment.

The time to train those hands and heads and stimulate those hearts is in schooldays. No schooling is worthy that does not allow for the instruction, the experiences, the creative impulses of childhood. The schools of today that force children to sit in benches and listen to a teacher's voice hours on end, with no chance to be active, creative, inquisitive, venturesome, is a crime against the people of the future, these children in the benches.

We are gravely concerned—in the newspapers — about the way-wardness of children. We may well be, for it is very present and closer to us than in the press. The real cause of this trouble does not lie in the children, nor is it poverty, nor is it the parents' fault. It is the fault of the authorities who allocate funds for education, who lay down the policies of the schools, and of the handful of noisy taxpayers who hate to pay a tax for their own preservation. The schools are starved in every town in this land and this starvation policy is what is causing the waywardness of children.

Children must be kept busy, interested, at work. Schools must provide the background, the equipment, the teaching staffs, the materials, this requires. Good sense, an eye to our future national life, would dictate activity programs, long school days, all the teachers necessary to give children the all around education that will equip them for life in a world that will require their labor for but a few hours a day but which will need desperately their creative talents for the remainder of the time. Today's life requires the training of hand, head and heart, and tomorrow will require it, demand it, suffer for lack of it. What about it, parents, teachers, leading citizens?

A bad habit pattern in a child should be broken before it becomes too set. Angelo Patri tells you how it may be done in his leaflet P-10, "Changing Habits."

SUNDAY SCHOOL LESSON

The Sunday School Lesson for Oct. 20
Scripture: Act: 9:19-22; 11:25-26; Galatians 1:17-24
By William E. Gilroy, D. D.

Paul was not long in finding Christian friends, though at first the disciples feared him, as well they might in view of his so recent persecuting zeal against them.

Ananias, a saintly Christian in Damascus (not the notorious liar of Acts 5), who was prepared for Paul's coming in a vision, though he at first doubted that so terrible a persecutor could so suddenly have become a disciple, welcomed Paul as a Christian brother and pronounced the blessing that restored to Paul his eyesight.

The disciples at Jerusalem were somewhat harder to convince, as they had suffered more from the persecutor's fury. But Barnabas, the rich disciple who had sold and given all for the Christian cause, vouched for Paul, relating how he had been converted and how boldly Paul had proclaimed Christ among the Jews at Damascus.

It was not unnatural that Paul's former associates in his persecuting days should have been aroused to anger at his defection. So intense was their fury and purpose to kill him that Paul's new-found Christian friends had to effect his escape, letting him down in a basket from the walls of the city.

It was thus that he made his way to Jerusalem, and here also he proclaimed boldly his new faith in the Lord Jesus. But he did not stay long in Jerusalem, and his public preaching was abated while he sought fuller preparation for his life mission.

Scant attention has been paid to what have been called "Paul's silent years," but Paul underwent years of meditation before he embarked upon his missionary career. Just what Paul did during this period of silence—and how many years it lasted—is not clear.

It is difficult to think of a man of Paul's intensity as being in retreat, and probably those years were spent in pursuing his own course, studying, praying, conversing with others, feeling his way into the richness and fullness of his missionary activity, waiting for the Master's call and guidance.

There is a lesson for us all in the fact that so great and wise a man as Paul should need preparation. Zeal, even in a Paul-like man, is not enough.

If we would do great work for God, zeal must be fortified with knowledge and discipline. The church has suffered greatly from those who have never learned that lesson.

News BEHIND THE NEWS
By PAUL MALLON

(Distributed by King Features Syndicate, reproduction in whole or in part, strictly prohibited).

WASHINGTON, Oct. 12—Republican Campaign Manipulator Halleck made some election claims to reporters so modest they did not get into most newspapers. When a Republican claims an expected Republican victory, it is not news. But privately Mr. Halleck had more sensational views, expressing a hunch he would get a tremendous sweep Nov. 5 of far greater scope than expected, winning a strong majority in the house and a slight control in the senate. His view was that the Democratic party is split, and the fissure will be widened in the voting, the party not even getting its usual union labor support which was its backbone in the last seven congressional elections.

The campaign has been so quiet you could hear a Pepper drop or a Wallace fall. But padded rolling pins have been flying in the Democratic camp. The meat famine coming atop the Wallace affair has spread a panic among Democratic candidates in eastern cities. They have been screaming to Mr. Truman privately and publicly for relief of some sort, which will return beef to all Democratic tables at least, before the voting starts. Indeed, the Republicans believe a report they have heard from the Democratic camp, that Mike Monroney, chairman of the Democratic congressional campaign committee, chosen for that job because his district was safe, and therefore he could campaign for others in need, instead of for himself, had to rush back to his home district in Oklahoma City on a well concealed trip to mend his own fences.

This much I know—Democratic Senate Leader Barkley has embarked on 35 campaign speeches in Kentucky. When a man of Barkley's official connection with the White House, age and health, goes into such incessant and strenuous activity merely to save a Democratic senate seat and perhaps a Louisville congressman or two, you may be sure the inner demo reports are very bad.

The spots where the Republicans expect to gain most are the large industrial states like Massachusetts, Pennsylvania, New York, Ohio—places in which the unions have been strongest. They cannot expect to reap much in Illinois or Indiana where they are already strong. In Illinois they might pick up a district or two in Ed Kelley's Chicago, and in Indiana their hopes are centered in the Gary district, where the foreign language groups have split over the peace troubles. But their hopes even extend to wild and wooly Washington, in which the unions have been dominant, and to California.

Out of Pennsylvania they expect to promote a new presidential candidacy in the size of the majority by which their Gov. Martin beats Joe Guffey. Certainly Mr. Guffey has been getting prominent Democrats from outside the state to undertake the argument for him, and lend respectability to his claims. He is thoroughly CIO, but what John Lewis' miners may do to him in the coal districts will be shown only by the counted votes.

The polls have been slow and inconclusive. Actually some of the Republican leaders are waiting to hear what Mr Gallup says, as he never says much until the last week before election, these Republican bigwigs, if not the nation, will remain on tiptoe for a couple of weeks yet. Certainly, however, the Democrats have not been able to match the Republican slogan: "Had Enough?"

The fundamental political situation from the Republican or any other standpoint in my opinion is simply this:

The Roosevelt regime managed to perpetuate itself by an unreasonable and purely political alliance of southern Democrats, city unions and city political machines in the north and east, and even the Communists. This alliance was maintained by the genius of Mr. Roosevelt. Signs that it is cracking are unmistakable. The pressure of international and domestic events have forced open breaks wider and wider in the coalition, and it cannot be maintained much longer.

Yet the machines of the cities and unions are the best organized political pressure groups in the country. A union may fine a member for not voting. It provides automobiles, pressure and instruction to get its vote recorded 100 percent. The city machines do fairly well in this respect also. The public at large is not organized. If the vote of the middle class, the white collar worker and the average citizen is more than 60 per cent recorded, in an off-year election, the movement to get out the vote will be considered a success. Only the ballots actually cast will count.

In view of the dismal condition of the Democrats, my election prediction is this:

The Republicans will gain firm control of the house perhaps by 16 or 17 votes or more and will come close to controlling the senate, perhaps within one or two votes. If the split among the unions eventuates at the polls, the scope of the victory will be enlarged to the same extent as the split widens. In that case, the Republicans may win more than they claim.

SHERIFF RECEIVES TAX ROLL FOR 1946

Sheriff Milton Coverdale, tax collector of Ouachita parish, last night announced the 1946 tax roll had been filed with his office and that all state and parish taxes due for 1946 are now payable.

Taxes become delinquent after December 31 of this year, and Sheriff Coverdale is urging that as many as possible make their payments early to avoid the usual "last minute" rush and congestion in the tax collecting department.

FAIR RIDES WILL OPERATE ALL WEEK

The Ouachita Valley Fair has been well attended, stated the general manager, John H. Birdsong, Saturday. He states that this afternoon, the rides and other concessions will be in operation, starting at 1 p.m. and continuing until 6 p.m. The price of rides for the occasion will be cut to nine cents, he said.

The concessions are called the best that have been provided for any similar previous fair and will be continued on the fair grounds all through the present week so that the children may have opportunity to enjoy them.

New York Day By Day
By CHARLES B. DRISCOLL
This Reg U. S. Patent Office

NEW YORK—The purest American English on the air is spoken by Arthur Hale, news commentator. He is the only newscaster whom I've never been able to tag with any kind of error, grammar, pronunciation, enunciation, or taste. If I were a Rockefeller I'd hire him to teach my grandchildren the American language . . . and where did he learn all this? Public school, Harrisburg. Later on, a bit here and there in France and other countries . . . American is not a difficult language to learn, especially if you happen to be lucky enough to be born in this country. It requires only about the same exactitude that it needed by a housewife in keeping all the corners clean.

As for technical knowledge of written American, two entirely different persons rank number one. With neither do I agree on all occasions, but that doesn't seem to bother them.

Wilfred Funk and Henry Mencken know so much more about the language than I do that my opinion of them probably is inconsequential.

Funk is the generation's top lexicographer in our speech. Mencken has a widely diffused knowledge of the language, a curiosity about peculiarities of expression, and a tireless urge of research. Though he did not intend to become a scholar, he makes scholars ponder.

The official indignation about horse parlors and bookies, high and low, has worn out. No more publicity to be got out of raiding a few joints. We will have to think up some new indignation for the New York politicians.

Still, the bookies sit all day at the end of the counters or bars, in East Side bars and restaurants. Horses are running somewhere, every day of the year. And if they don't run, you can buy numbers.

Some of the most notorious bookie joints on the East Side, frequented by policemen, among others, have never been touched.

There is a prosperous Italian place on Third avenue, once celebrated for Mama's cooking, where eaters are casually brushed off. The money is on the ponies. If you don't bet, you're unwelcome.

No, the police don't know about it. It's a public secret.

I'm all for the National Arthritis Research Foundation, although its expensive launching, coincident with a motion picture release, was heralded by a dinner at the Waldorf and tons of expensive publicity.

Whether or not a commercial interest is involved (and we who write for the papers are inclined to be suspicious), I believe that a setup for study of arthritis, its cause, prognosis, diagnosis, and possible control, might eventuate in enormous good to mankind.

There does not live a human being who doesn't know somebody who suffers from arthritis, possibly the greatest curse of the human race.

Doctors who are honest admit that they know little or nothing about it. I am inclined to believe that nothing is the better word.

So, if the movie men can dump some trivial bit of their profits into this enterprise, I'm for 'em.

It is amazing to a seasoned newspaperman that Stalin's recent propaganda release on "no more war" should have been taken so seriously by so many people.

The Stalin blurb was about as important as the Atlantic Charter, the fourteen points, or a Henry Wallace speech.

Is there any government bonus for roasted chestnuts?

On a chilly night they are better for olfactory nerves and worse for digestion than any speech out of Washington.

FATHER-IN-LAW SUIT HITS ORLEANS MAYOR

NEW ORLEANS, Oct. 11.—(AP)—A political rift between the mayor of New Orleans and his father-in-law has been brought into the open again by a suit filed by the father-in-law in civil district court here.

The suit, filed by John S. Waterman, Jr., father-in-law of Mayor de Lesseps S. Morrison, asks annulment of the city's "permit fund" ordinance which has existed during previous administrations.

A break between Waterman and the mayor became public recently when Waterman issued a critical statement as a result of the mayor's shutdown of racing news services here.

Waterman now is seeking annulment of the ordinance which provides for a "contingent fund for the mayor to be expended by the mayor at his discretion." When the fund drops below $5,000, the suit says, it may be replenished to that amount by proper procedure.

"Many thousands of dollars," the petition says, "are used illegally by the mayor of New Orleans out of said contingent fund which otherwise could be used for the benefit of your petitioner and others similarly situated, in reducing the cost of government."

Mayor Morrison, commenting on the suit, said, "the city ordinances covering the operation of the permit fund have been in effect for more than a quarter of a century. During the past five months the permit fund has been administered more publicly and more properly than at any other time."

DENTIST FACES BRIBERY CHARGE

NEW ORLEANS, La., Oct. 12.—(AP)—C. E. Weeks, special agent in charge of the New Orleans office of the federal bureau of investigation, said Dr. Lemar E. Little, Winnsboro dentist, has been charged with attempting to bribe a war assets administration official.

Weeks said the charge alleges Dr. Little mailed $100 to the official in an attempt to influence him in the sale of surplus dental equipment.

GIRL SCOUTING CHIEFS TO MEET

Four Leaders Of Ouachita Parish Will Attend Regional Conference

Four leaders of the Ouachita Parish Girl Scouts will attend the fifth regional conference in Nashville, Tenn., October 15, 16 and 17 with headquarters at the Hermitage Hotel. The Meeting was called by Mrs. Malcolm Williams of New Orleans, chairman of the Dixie Regional committee of Girl Scouts. It will be the first conference since the war of Region 5 which comprises Louisiana, Mississippi, Alabama, Arkansas and Tennessee.

Representatives from Monroe who left Sunday morning for the meeting are Miss Alice Stanford, executive secretary of the Ouachita Parish Girl Scout Council, Mrs. P. G. Rowe, Girl Scout commissioner, Mrs. R. W. Hair and Mrs. Frances Brennan.

The opening session will be held Tuesday morning. Mrs. C. Vaughn Ferguson, national president, will speak on "Better Scouting for more Girls," which is the keynote of the conference.

The afternoon session will be devoted to a meeting of work groups, following a talk on "Better Camping for More Gorls" by Mre. Keendall Bryan, camp bureau. Mrs Rowe is to participate in the afternoon program by discussing "How To Strengthen Local Groups Tarough Training" and "How the Membership- Nominating Committee Brings in New Blood."

Conference guests will include not only official representatives from the five states in the fifth region but the following special guests: Gov. Jim Nance McCord, who will give the welcome address; Mrs. C. Vaughn Ferguson; Mrs Chester Farnswarth, chairman, national Publications public relations committee; Mrs. Beulah Van Wagonen, director, organization and education; Mrs; Sally B. Stickney, executive secretary, field division; Miss Leah Parker, Personnel division Mrs Katie Lee Johnson, convention manager; Miss Frances Morse, rural adviser; Mrs. Kendall Bryan, camp bureau.

Added features of the meeting include the commissioners' luncheon Wednesday and a trip Thursday to The Hermitage, historic home of Andrew Jackson.

Nashville and Davidson County Girl Scouts will serve as hostesses to the conference group.

In calling the conference, Mrs. Williams declared: "Each conference guest will long remember the stirring experience of being a part of the meeting in beautiful and interesting Nashville, and each will take back to the Girl Scout folk who stayed at home a new bag of tricks for bringing "Better Scouting to More Girls."

Mark Twain refused to invest money in Alexander Graham Bell's telephone.

PLEDGE STRICT RENT CONTROL

Dallas Headquarters For Monroe Area Issues Statement

DALLAS Tex., Oct. 12.—(Special) Rent ceilings on Dallas homes and apartments will be maintained and there will be no relaxing of enforcement, R. S. Stephens, regional rent executive of the OPA, declared emphatically Saturday.

This statement released Saturday made unequivocally clear the OPA's stand on enforcement of rent regulations.

"Let us remember that Congress voted overwhelmingly to leave the rent clause in the Price Control Act essentially as it was," Mr. Stephens urged.

"A majority of American landlord's are better off now than they were in 1930-40," he continued.

Survey Made

"After an extensive survey of 64 cities, CPA accountants who had the help of members of the National Association of Real Estate Boards and of the American Mortgage Bankers Association—reached this conclusion," he said.

Complaints of landlords have now become "numerous and frequent," Mr. Stephens said, and the time has come to reiterate "our stand on the rent problem."

"During hearings before the House and Senate banking and currency committee, we presented results of another survey of rental housing in 24 cities under rent control, showing that net operating income of apartment house owners was 38 per cent higher during the year ending June 30, 1945, than in 1939," Ivan Carson deputy CPA administrator for rent added. "Net operating income has risen 37 per cent for small structures in the same period."

VISITING TEACHER GROUP IN MEET

The Visiting Teachers of the Fifth District met in Miss Gladys Gregg's office, October 8, at 10 a.m.

The meeting was called to order by the president, Walter Hohman, Visiting Teacher, from Morehouse parish.

J. A. McBride, the secretary, read the minutes of the last meeting which were approved.

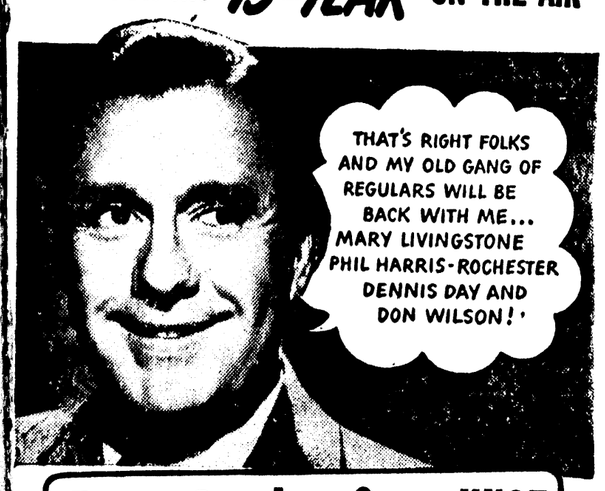

The purpose of the meeting was that the visiting teachers of this area might discuss together their various problems.

Those in attendance were: L. C. Starr, Webster parish; C. J. Sullivan, Concordia parish; Kermit L. Walters, Richland parish; Doris Gaston, Union parish; B. F. Barron, West Carroll parish; W. C. Hohman, Morehouse parish; J. M. McBride, Jackson parish; W. L. Richardson, Franklin parish; J. W. Harris, East Carroll parish; Lucile Wooldridge, Caldwell parish; DeLeta Peniston, Cataboula parish; H. D. Payne, Madison parish; Eleona Brinsmade, City of Monroe; and Gladys Gregg, Ouachita parish.

George Bernard Shaw's total income for the first nine years he devoted to writing was only $30.

REV. CURRAN IS NAMED PASTOR

Local Assistant At St. Matthew's To Leesville Church

Rev. Father D. A. Curran, assistant pastor of St. Matthew's Catholic Church here for more than a year, has just been assigned by the bishop of Alexandria to the pastorate of the St. Michael's Church in Leesville. This church has been a mission and now for the first time will have Rev. Curran as its first full-time pastor. The assignment will be effective at once.

Rev. Curran was assigned to the present charge in August, 1945, and he has made a great circle of friends in all groups of residents of Monroe and vicinity, who, while pleased that his new charge will comprise a promotion, are regretful that he is to remove from Monroe.

He came to Monroe from Alexandria where he served as assistant pastor at the cathedral in that city. Previous to that he was from 1942 to 1944 assigned to Loyola University in New Orleans. He is a native of New Orleans where many of his relatives reside.

Incidentally he is not only a priest but is a great baseball fan, having played with the St. Louis Cardinals back in 1919.

George Bernard Shaw wrote for nine years before he could make a living at writing.

More than 30,000,000 acres of U. S. forest land are burned annually.

THE NATION TODAY

By JAMES MARLOW

WASHINGTON, Oct. 12.—(AP)—Housing shortages?

The National Association of Real Estate Boards came up today with what, it thinks, is a way to ease the housing shortage.

It's this:

1. Raise rents.

2. Then a lot of people, unable to pay the higher rents, will have to move out of their present homes.

3. As they move out, people able to pay the higher rents will move in.

But where will the people, who have to move out, find another place to live?

The real estate boards don't say, directly but maybe they mean that:

At least the single people, who move out, will be forced to double-up with someone else. But this would mean:

1. These single people would have to find someone to double-up with.

2. They'd have to find a place where they could double-up.

But the boards, in a lengthy statement, warn against letting the public be "bamboozled."

They also tie in the meat shortage with the housing shortage, blaming both on politics.

The president of the boards, Boyd T. Barnard, of Philadelphia, says:

"One way to relieve the housing demand immediately is to get rid of rent control.

"There is over-consumption of our existing space. We have several million people who, because of frozen rents, are able to buy more housing space than their income would normally allow.

"Approximately 1,500,000 living units which were designed for two or more people are now occupied by only one person because of frozen rents. Everybody knows cases of this kind.

"The stenographer who used to live doubled-up with another now has her own individual apartment. This situation is excellent for her and we do not begrudge it—but it certainly is over-consumption of space due to rent control.

"If rents were increased no more than is fair to property owners, I predict that about a million added units of rental space would immediately be available for veterans and others.

"These units would take the edge off the immediate housing demand."

Then, digging further into the housing shortage, and linking it with the scarcity of meat, Barnard says:

"Our own studies indicate that if we were allowed to build 700,000 or 800,000 units a year without the red tape of government, just as we built them during the war, and before the war, in two years the whole housing shortage would be a thing of the past.

"This is the plain simple fact which politics has obscured. It is just like the meat crisis. We could have plenty of meat, and our shortages are due solely to politics."

Barnard doesn't say who is playing politics with the meat shortage, or who's responsible for it, but he has some positive ideas about the housing shortage.

He says the meaning which the government puts on figures in the housing shortage is "not to be trusted."

Further, Barnard says: "No good is accomplished by trying to bamboozle everybody."

He doesn't say directly who is trying to do the bamboozling.

Jimmy Doolittle was the first man to fly across the American continent in one day.

PROPOSES NEW CONSTITUTION

Law Institute Council Sets Up Committee To Draft Plan

NEW ORLEANS, Oct. 12.—(AP)—A proposed new constitution for the state of Louisiana was adopted today at a meeting of the council of the Louisiana State Law Institute which set up a committee for preparation of the new instrument.

John B. Hargrave, Jr., of Shreveport, past president of the state bar association, was authorized to appoint a general committee for the statement of work in that will select a general committee.

The latter body will determine major questions of policy pending final action by the institute council on arrangements for the annual meeting of the council in New Orleans, Dec. 7. Dr. J. Denson Smith is director of the council.

The general committee will set up seven subcommittees, each of which will be given responsibility of preparation of drafts of their assigned titles of the constitution.

The Louisiana State Law Institute was created in a legislative act of 1938 as an official law advisory and legal reform agency of the legislature. It has been instructed to turn in the draft of a new constitution for legislative consideration between March 1 and December 1, 1947.

President Fuller will also appoint a general coordinator, who will have supervision and direction over the entire project as assistant coordinator; a director of research with a staff of assistants, and a group of consultants.

The consulting body is to be composed of one member each from the Louisiana supreme court, the courts of appeal, the New Orleans district court, other district courts of the state and a member of the federal courts resident in Louisiana, Dr. Smith said.

A committee on public information will also be established, Dr. Smith continued, to keep the public informed on the progress made on the new constitution.

At the council meeting Friday, revisions of the statute titles were approved for submission to the legislature. It is expected they will be the first statutory revisions in the state since 1870, Dr. Smith said.

OFFICERS OF TECH ALUMNI REELECTED

RUSTON, La., Oct. 12.—(Special)—All officers of the Louisiana Tech Alumni Association were reelected at a meeting here today in connection with the college homecoming.

They are: W. H. McLaurin, Jonesboro, president; A. T. Givens, Arcadia, vice president; Berry Hinton, Ruston, secretary-treasurer.

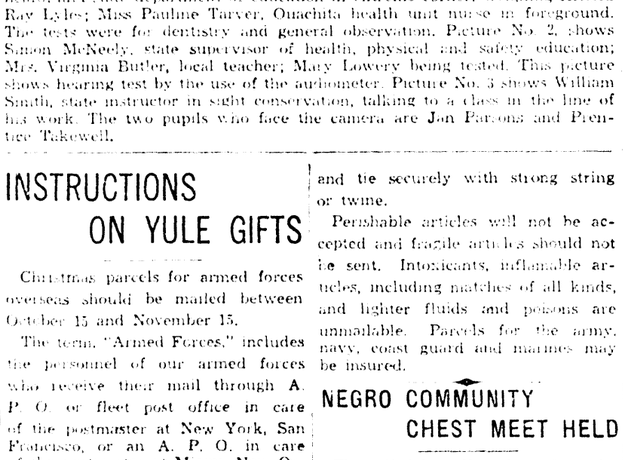

Members of the alumni executive council were reelected with the exception of George Welch, Monroe, who resigned and was replaced by James Perrin, Bunkie.

The association's biennial plan of giving a scholarship during the

INSTRUCTIONS ON YULE GIFTS

Christmas parcels for armed forces overseas should be mailed between October 15 and November 15.

The term, "Armed Forces," includes the personnel of our armed forces who receive their mail through A. P. O. or fleet post office in care of the postmaster at New York, San Francisco, or an A. P. O. in care of the postmaster at Miami, New Orleans or Seattle, Wash. During this period no requests are required from personnel of the army. Each parcel must be endorsed, "Christmas Parcel."

Christmas parcels for overseas shall not exceed 70 pounds in weight or 100 inches in length and girth combined. Not more than one parcel per week shall be accepted when sent by or in behalf of the same person or concern to or for the same addressee. On account of the distance Christmas parcels will have to be transported they must be packed in much stronger boxes than those for transportation within the United States. Fill the boxes full so there will be no loose articles, use double face corrugated cardboard, fiber board or wooden boxes. If cardboard boxes are used wrap several times in strong paper and tie securely with strong string or twine.

Perishable articles will not be accepted and fragile articles should not be sent. Intoxicants, inflamable articles, including matches of all kinds, and lighter fluids and poisons are unmailable. Parcels for the army, navy, coast guard and marines may be insured.

NEGRO COMMUNITY CHEST MEET HELD

The official staff and workers for the Community Chest drive for Negroes held their first meeting of the year yesterday in the library of Monroe Colored High School to map plans for the official opening of the drive October 14 although it was announced many contributions have already been made.

HOME EXEMPTIONS REACH PEAK LEVEL

Ouachita parish was $142,390.86 richer yesterday following receipt of a check for that amount by Tax Assessor Bert Coverdale from the state treasury department as payment for homestead tax exemptions in Ouachita parish, and Assessor Coverdale immediately turned the check over to collectors in the parish tax department.

The check, along with the state's approval of Assessor Coverdale's report on assessable properties in Ouachita, was received Friday, and Mr. Coverdale declared the check was the biggest of its kind ever received on exemptions and that home owners claiming exemptions had jumped 718 over 1945.

Assessor Coverdale's report showed the assessed valuation of property in the parish for 1946 as $52,002,431 against $49,283,876 for 1945, representing an increase of $2,718,555.

Total taxes for this year were $997,-897.15, showing an increase of $36,-149.24 over last year's $961,447.81.

Homestead exemptions this year totalled 7,755 against 7,037 claims in 1945.

The 1946 exemptions save Ouachita parish home owners $142,390.86. The saving to home owners in 1945 was $150,120.17.

Law Institute Council Sets Up Committee To Draft Plan

NEW ORLEANS, Oct. 12.—(AP)—A new constitution for the state of Louisiana was proposed today at a meeting of the council of the Louisiana State Law Institute, which set up a committee organization plan for preparation of a draft of the new instrument.

John H. Tucker, Jr., of Shreveport, president of the institute, was authorized to name a special committee for appointments, which in turn will select a general committee.

The latter body will determine interim questions of policy pending final action by the institute council on arrangements for the annual meeting of the council on arrangements in New Orleans Dec. 7. Dr. J. Denson Smith is director of the council.

The general committee will set up seven subcommittees, each of which will be given responsibility of preparing drafts of their assigned titles of the constitution.

The Louisiana State Law Institute was created in a legislative act of 1938 as an official law advisory and legal reform agency of the legislature. It has been requested to turn in the draft of a new constitution for legislative approval between March 1 and Dec. 32, 1948.

President Tucker will also appoint a general co-ordinator, who will have supervisory direction over the entire project; an assistant co-ordinator; a director of research with a staff of assistants, and a group of consultants.

The consulting body is to be composed of one member each from the Louisiana supreme court, the courts of appeal, the New Orleans district courts, other district courts of the state, and a member of the federal courts resident in Louisiana, Dr. Smith said.

A committee on public information will also be established, Dr. Smith pointed out, to keep the public informed as to progress made on the new constitution.

At the council's meeting Friday, revision of state statute titles were approved for submission to the legislature. If accepted they will be the first statutory revisions in the state since 1870, Dr. Smith said.

'Alabamy Bound' Is To Be Presented By Local Kiwanians

Keith Gingles, representative of the John B. Rogers Producing Co., world's largest producers of amateur theatricals, arrived in Monroe the past week and at once assumed his duties as director of the Monroe Kiwanis Club's annual musical and minstrel review "Alabamy Bound," a John B. Rogers production.

Those who are in the cast and other members of the club who have been privileged to listen in on the rehearsals the past week state that Mr. Gingles long training and experience in the show business have well qualified him to handle the present assignment.

There are scores of girls with unlimited degree of pulchritude, hundreds of costumes and scenic and lighting effects that insure a most colorful production and together with the always-expected minstrel routine, are such as to assure the greatest possible entertainment value.

The John B. Rogers Producing Company not only provides the director, but the countless costumes, scenery and the benefit of their long and successful experience in directing and producing plays.

Lillian and Dorothy Gish, Buddy Rogers and John Boles are among the stage celebrities who first faced an audience in a John B. Rogers show.

HOME EXEMPTIONS REACH PEAK LEVEL

Ouachita parish was $142,390.83 richer yesterday following receipt of a check for that amount by Tax Assessor Bert Coverdale from the state treasury department as payment for homestead tax exemptions in Ouachita parish, and Assessor Coverdale immediately turned the check over to collectors in the parish tax department.

The check, along with the state's approval of Assessor Coverdale's report on assessable properties in Ouachita, was received Friday, and Mr. Coverdale declared the check was the biggest of its kind ever received on exemptions and that home owners claiming exemptions had jumped 718 over 1945.

Assessor Coverdale's report showed the assessed valuation of property in the parish for 1946 as $52,002,431 against $49,283,876 for 1945, representing an increase of $2,718,555.

Total taxes for this year were $997,897.15, showing an increase of $36,449.34 over last year's $961,447.81.

Homestead exemptions this year totalled 7,755 against 7,037 claims in 1945.

The 1946 exemptions save Ouachita parish home owners $142,390.86. The saving to home owners in 1945 was $130,120.17.

INSTRUCTIONS ON YULE GIFTS

Christmas parcels for armed forces overseas should be mailed between October 15 and November 15.

The term, "Armed Forces," includes the personnel of our armed forces who receive their mail through A. P. O. or fleet post office in care of the postmaster at New York, San Francisco, or an A. P. O. in care of the postmaster at Miami, New Orleans or Seattle, Wash. During this period no requests are required from personnel of the army. Each parcel must be endorsed, "Christmas Parcel."

Christmas parcels for overseas shall not exceed 70 pounds in weight or 100 inches in length and girth combined. Not more than one parcel per week shall be accepted when sent by or in behalf of the same person or concern to or for the same addressee. On account of the distance Christmas parcels will have to be transported they must be packed in much stronger boxes than those for transportation within the United States. Fill the boxes full so there will be no loose articles, use double face corrugated cardboard, fiber board or wooden boxes. If cardboard boxes are used wrap several times in strong paper and tie securely with strong string or twine.

Perishable articles will not be accepted and fragile articles should not be sent. Intoxicants, inflamable articles, including matches of all kinds, and lighter fluids and poisons are unmailable. Parcels for the army, navy, coast guard and marines may be insured.

REVIVAL WILL START SUNDAY

Rev. G. P. Comer, Noted Leader, To Direct Services In West Monroe

Rev. W. H. Giles, pastor of the First Methodist Church, North Second at Park Avenue, West Monroe, announces evangelistic services opening Sunday, October 13. Rev. G. P. Comer, evangelist, of Dallas, Tex., and former pastor of the First Methodist Church, Waco, Tex., for over nine years, having resigned his pastorate to enter the evangelistic field last February will be the preacher and direct his own music. Mrs. Nan Frazier, organist and pianist, of Waco, Tex., will preside at the piano. The music will be a special feature of the meetings with a large choir under the direction of Rev. Comer.

Rev. Giles states that Evangelist Comer is one of the outstanding evangelists of the Methodist Church and pastors say of him that he is the greatest evangelist in the southwest. Rev. Comer was born in Kentucky and is known as "The Kentucky Wonder" because of his unique way of bringing his messages and because he hails from that state. They say of him that he has the enthusiasm of Billy Sunday, the boldness of Sam Jones, the spirit of Dwight L. Moody, great evangelists of other days. He has held evangelistic campaigns in twenty states of the south, east, north and southwest. Since giving up his church in February he has held twelve revivals and the one in West Monroe will be his thriteenth thus far. Having been a pastor for eighteen years until recent months, he knows the church and her program. He pulls no punches in his messages and preaches without fear or favor.

Going to the First Methodist Church of Waco over nine years ago and raising its membership from 892 to 1,789. This downtown church had a debt of $42,129 hanging over it when Rev. Comer became pastor. He left the church debt-free and with a reserve fund of $4,000, with his salary increased from $1,800 to $5,500 with the full world services asking of $2,500 accepted, with the Crusade for Christ offering of $5,030 paid in full.

First Church, West Monroe, is fortunate in getting this outstanding man for a revival campaign and all churches in Monroe and West Monroe are invited to hear him twice daily at 10 a.m. and 7:30 p.m., Rev. Giles states.

Sulphur is widely and abundantly distributed throughout the world.

NEW REPUBLIC

as Secretary of Agriculture and four as Vice-President came shortly before Wallace gave his daughter, Jean, in marriage.

He told a reporter just before the ceremony there would be no change in his plans to stump the country for democratic canidates during the current congressional campaign.

Wallace plans to leave here next week and to speak in Michigan, Indiana, Cadifornia, Washington, Minnesota, Wisconsin and perhaps Ohio and Illinois.

Editing a magazine will be no new profession for the Iowan whose views economics, government and foreign affairs have stirred up a multitude of controversies in the past.

Before coming to Washington as the late president Roosevelt's agriculture secretary, he was editor of Wallace's Farmer and Iowa Home-Stead at Des Moines. He took a leave of absence to work for the government.

The first word of the new connection came from Des Moines. Dante M. Pierce, Publisher of the Farm Papers, had wired Wallace that "your desk is waiting for you here." Wallace replied that he was going to the New Republic. Pierce made the exchange of messages public.

In his statement here, Wallace said he is taking on his new task with the greatest enthusiasm "because I know there are millions of progressive-minded Americans who want to cooperate to usher in the peaceful century of the common man."

A speech and a letter led to Wallace's resignation as commerce secretary—by presidential request.

In a New York address a month ago today he assailed what he termed a "get tough with Russia policy."

President Truman told a news conference the same day he had approved the speech. Later he said he had intended to say merely that he approved Wallace's right to make the address.

But by then the American delegation at the Paris Peace Conference was disturbed. And the concern was heightened by publication of a letter Wallace had written the president last July. It said that at the risk of" epithets of appeasement" the United States should agree to "Reasonable Russian Guarantees of Security."

Mr. Truman said on Sept. 20 there was a fundamental conflict" between Wallace's views and those of the administration on foreign policy. He called for Wallace's resignation and got it.

OFFER OF EDITORSHIP ACCEPTED BY WALLACE

DES MOINES, Oct. 12—(AP)—Henry Wallace, ousted secretary of commerce told Dante M. Pierce, Publisher of The Wallaces' Farmer and Iowa Home-Stead, in a telegram today he had accepted the editorship of the magazine, New Republic.

The telegram was in reply to Pierce's telegraphic request that Wallace return to his post as editor of the Iowa Farm Publications, from which he had been on leave while serving as Secretary of Agriculture, Vice-President and Secretary of Commerce.

Pierce released to the press this afternoon copies of his telegram and Wallace's reply.

"We have loaned you to the government for 13 years," Pierce's telegram said. "For 13 years we have been eagerly waiting for your return so that we again might work together for maintaining and increasing the purchasing power of the Iowa Farmer.

"Your desk is waiting for you here. The sooner you rejoin us the better. May I have your early reply."

Wallace's reply said:

"Many times during the last 13 years I have looked forward to rejoining the staff in order to talk again to my old friends of the "odds and ends" column.

"I still have that desire, but the recent turn of events makes me believe that I can serve the Iowa farmer and the peace loving people of America best by working from another editorial platform which appears to me to afford an exceptional opportunity.

"You will be happy I know to hear that I have accepted the editorship of the New Republic. I have assurance of complete cooperation in expanding the field of the usefulness of the New Republic to reach all the forward looking people of America and the world on behalf of peace and rising standards of living.

"We are entering upon a world wide debate in which all thinking people will be engaged. There will be no peace without a thoroughly educated public opinion. The New Republic has long believed in this approach, but it now also believes in carrying the message not merely to the select few but to the farmer, the worker and the small businessmen in every county of America.

"Knowing you as I do, I am sure you will wish me Godspeed in the effort."

In Washington, Wallace announced he would assume his new duties Dec. 16.

"I shall have the opportunity of saying exactly what I think at a time when a bi-partisan bloc mouthing the phrase 'one world' is really driving the world into two armed camps," the former cabinet officer said in a statement issued through the magazine's Washington offices.

"As editor of the New Republic, I shall do everything I can to arouse the American people, the British people, the Russian people, the French people, and, in fact, the liberally-minded people of the whole world to the need of stopping this dangerous armament race.

"Peace can never be imposed for long by unilateral forces.

"Peace will come if all nations are willing to practice mutual understanding and good will."

Wallace said he assumed his task "with the greatest enthusiasm because I know there are millions of progressive-minded Americans who want to cooperate to usher in the peaceful century of the common man."

Pierce said in an interview later Wallace no longer would be considered on leave.

"He has made his choice," Pierce said. Pierce explained that since 1933, when Wallace left to become secretary of agriculture in the cabinet of Franklin D. Roosevelt, Don Murphy has been filling Wallace's place. Wallace had been editor for several years before going to Washington.

Wallaces' Farmer was established many years ago by Wallace's grandfather, Henry Wallace; his father, Henry C. Wallace, and his uncle, John P. Wallace. His father served as secretary of agriculture in the cabinet of former President Warren G. Harding.

Wallaces' Farmer and the Iowa Homestead were consolidated in 1929.

Wallace was dismissed as secretary of commerce by President Truman Sept. 20 after a speech critical of the administration's foreign policy.

Almost immediately the former cabinet member took to the air with a plea for a popular crusade to "win the peace."

In ousting Wallace, Truman fully endorsed the policy of his secretary of state, James Byrnes, and prohibited all officials in the executive branch of the federal government from taking public issue with the established foreign policy.

Wallace followed Truman's action in dismissing him by publicly charging that the government's foreign policy was blind to "basic realities" which threaten "an atomic war."

Later he became engaged in a controversy with Bernard M. Baruch over the United States atomic control plan.

He said the plan backed by Baruch had failed to head off "a frantic atomic bomb race."

Wallace's statement was in reply to Baruch's charges that Wallace had created "confusion and division among our people" by failing to correct his "errors" regarding the control plan.

Baruch's charge stemmed from previous criticism by Wallace. The former commerce secretary, an advocate of more conciliatory treatment of Russia, had said among other things that the United States was asking foreign nations to agree not to conduct A-bomb research while keeping its own know-how a secret until it was satisfied that international control was working.

In New York City Bruce Bliven, a member of the board of editors of the New Republic and president of Editorial Publications, Inc., publishers of the magazine, said in confirming that Wallace would be the magazine's new editor:

"I wish to emphasize that this means no change in the policies of the magazine or the status of the present editors." Bliven said "Mr. Wallace will be an additional editor; he is not replacing anyone."

Bliven said Wallace would have the title of "editor" and that himself and other members of the editorial board would be listed as associate editors.

PARISH GETS BIG TAX CHECK

BANQUET TO BE HELD BY WOMEN

Business And Professional Club To Hear Talk By M. L. Miles

M. L. Miles, secretary-manager of the Vicksburg Chamber of Commerce, will be guest speaker at a formal banquet Tuesday, October 15, at the Frances Hotel, at 7:00 p.m., highlighting the nineteenth observance of National Business Women's Week by the Monroe Business and Professional Women's Club. His subject will be "Let's Work Together for Better Communities."

Before accepting his position with the Chamber of Commerce, Vicksburg, Mr. Miles was a member of the legal department of the Coca-Cola Co., Atlanta, Ga., later serving as manager of Coca-Cola plants in London and Toronto, Ontario, Canada, St. Paul, Milwaukee, and then part-owner of plant at Clinton, Ia.

Mr. Miles is collector of rare coins and stamps and an outstanding student of ornithology. He has made two scientific expeditions to Mexico and more than 30,000 feet of kodachrome moving picture film have been taken of birds in their natural habitat. He has an unusual collection of over 1,000 bird specimens, doing his own taxidermy.

During the four years Mr. Miles has been connected with the Vicksburg Chamber of Commerce the membership of that organization has increased from 210 individual members to 685, and the income from $10,000 annually to approximately $25,000.

The Monroe Business and Professional Women's Club is to be congratulated on securing a speaker so well qualified to talk on the subject, "Working Together for Better Communities."

Mrs. Miles will accompany Mr. Miles to Monroe and will be a guest of the Monroe B. and P. W. Club.

NON-UNION MIDGET DOES PAINTING JOB

TRENTON, N. J., Oct. 12.—(AP)—When Dewey D'Agostino, Trenton painting contractor, hired a midget he thought he had solved the problem of painting the almost inaccessible underside of the Lee avenue bridge.

But, he reported today, along came local 301 of the painters union, A. F. of L., and, according to D'Agostino, said: "You'll have to have a union midget."

The contractor didn't have one and his non-union midget, Carl Schielke of Windsor, said he wasn't interested in becoming a union midget.

D. Agostino finally resorted to his rights under his contract. He asked the union to produce a union midget in two hours so the job could go on. When the desired individual failed to appear, Schielke went back to work.

The union was not available for comment.

REVIVAL WILL START SUNDAY

Rev. G. P. Comer, Noted Leader, To Direct Services In West Monroe

Rev. W. H. Giles, pastor of the First Methodist Church, North Second at Park Avenue, West Monroe, announces evangelistic services opening Sunday, October 13. Rev. G. P. Comer, evangelist, of Dallas, Tex., and former pastor of the First Methodist Church, Waco, Tex., for over nine years, having resigned his pastorate to enter the evangelistic field last February will be the preacher and direct his own music. Mrs. Nan Frazier, organist and pianist, of Waco, Tex., will preside at the piano. The music will be a special feature of the meetings with a large choir under the direction of Rev. Comer.

Rev. Giles states that Evangelist Comer is one of the outstanding evangelists of the Methodist Church and pastors say of him that he is the greatest evangelist in the southwest. Rev. Comer was born in Kentucky and is known as "The Kentucky Wonder" because of his unique way of bringing his messages and because he hails from that state. They say of him that he has the enthusiasm of Billy Sunday, the boldness of Sam Jones, the spirit of Dwight L. Moody, great evangelists of other days. He has held evangelistic campaigns in twenty states of the south, east, north and southwest. Since giving up his church in February he has held twelve revivals and the one in West Monroe will be his thriteenth thus far. Having been a pastor for eighteen years until recent months, he knows the church and her program. He pulls no punches in his messages and preaches without fear or favor.

Going to the First Methodist Church of Waco over nine years ago and raising its membership from 892 to 1,789. This downtown church had a debt of $42,129 hanging over it when Rev. Comer became pastor. He left the church debt-free and with a reserve fund of $4,000, with his salary increased from $1,800 to $5,500 with the full world services asking of $2,500 accepted, with the Crusade for Christ offering of $5,000 paid in full.

First Church, West Monroe, is fortunate in getting this outstanding man for a revival campaign and all churches in Monroe and West Monroe are invited to hear him twice daily at 10 a.m. and 7:30 p.m., Rev. Giles states.

Sulphur is widely and abundantly distributed throughout the world.

NEW REPUBLIC

as Secretary of Agriculture and four as Vice-President came shortly before Wallace gave his daughter, Jean, in marriage.

He told a reporter just before the ceremony there would be no change in his plans to stump the country for democratic canidates during the current congressional campaign.

Wallace plans to leave here next week and to speak in Michigan, Indiana, Cadifornia, Washington, Minnesota, Wisconsin and perhaps Ohio and Illinois.

Editing a magazine will be no new profession for the Iowan whose views economics, government and foreign affairs have stirred up a multitude of controversies in the past.

Before coming to Washington as the late president Roosevelt's agriculture secretary, he was editor of Wallace's Farmer and Iowa Home-Stead at Des Moines. He took a leave of absence to work for the government.

The first word of the new connection came from Des Moines. Dante M. Pierce, Publisher of the Farm Papers, had wired Wallace that "your desk is waiting for you here." Wallace replied that he was going to the New Republic. Pierce made the exchange of messages public.

In his statement here, Wallace said he is taking on his new task with the greatest enthusiasm "because I know there are millions of progressive-minded Americans who want to cooperate to usher in the peaceful century of the common man."

A speech and a letter led to Wallace's resignation as commerce secretary—by presidential request.

In a New York address a month ago today he assailed what he termed a "get tough with Russia policy."

President Truman told a news conference the same day he had approved the speech. Later he said he had intended to say merely that he approved Wallace's right to make the address.

But by then the American delegation at the Paris Peace Conference was disturbed. And the concern was heightened by publication of a letter Wallace had written the president last July. It said that at the risk of" epithets of appeasement" the United States should agree to "Reasonable Russian Guarantees of Security."

Mr. Truman said on Sept. 20 there was a fundamental conflict" between Wallace's views and those of the administration on foreign policy. He called for Wallace's resignation and got it.

OFFER OF EDITORSHIP ACCEPTED BY WALLACE

DES MOINES, Oct. 12—(AP)—Henry Wallace, ousted secretary of commerce told Dante M. Pierce, Publisher of The Wallaces' Farmer and Iowa Home-Stead, in a telegram today he had accepted the editorship of the magazine, New Republic.

The telegram was in reply to Pierce's telegraphic request that Wallace return to his post as editor of the Iowa Farm Publications, from which he had been on leave while serving as Secretary of Agriculture, Vice-President and Secretary of Commerce.

Pierce released to the press this afternoon copies of his telegram and Wallace's reply.

"We have loaned you to the government for 13 years," Pierce's telegram said. "For 13 years we have been eagerly waiting for your return so that we again might work together for maintaining and increasing the purchasing power of the Iowa Farmer.

"Your desk is waiting for you here. The sooner you rejoin us the better. May I have your early reply."

Wallace's reply said:

"Many times during the last 13 years I have looked forward to rejoining the staff in order to talk again to my old friends of the "odds and ends" column.

"I still have that desire, but the recent turn of events makes me believe that I can serve the Iowa farmer and the peace loving people of America best by working from another editorial platform which appears to me to afford an exceptional opportunity.

"You will be happy I know to hear that I have accepted the editorship of the New Republic. I have assurance of complete cooperation in expanding the field of the usefulness of the New Republic to reach all the forward looking people of America and the world on behalf of peace and rising standards of living.

"We are entering upon a world wide debafe in which all thinking people will be engaged. There will be no peace without a thoroughly educated public opinion. The New Republic has long believed in this approach, but it now also believes in carrying the message not merely to the select few but to the farmer, the worker and the small businessmen in every county of America.

"Knowing you as I do, I am sure you will wish me Godspeed in the effort."

In Washington, Wallace announced he would assume his new duties Dec. 16.

"I shall have the opportunity of saying exactly what I think at a time when a bi-partisian bloc mouthing the phrase 'one world' is really driving the world into two armed camps," the former cabinet officer said in a statement issued through the magazine's Washington offices.

"As editor of the New Republic, I shall do everything I can to arouse the American people, the British people, the Russian people, the French people, and, in fact, the liberally-minded people of the whole world to the need of stopping this dangerous armament race.

"Peace can never be imposed for long by unilateral forces.

"Peace will come if all nations are willing to practice mutual understanding and good will."

Wallace said he assumed his task "with the greatest enthusiasm because I know there are millions of progressive-minded Americans who want to cooperate to usher in the peaceful century of the common man."

Pierce said in an interview later Wallace no longer would be considered on leave.

"He has made his choice," Pierce said. Pierce explained that since 1933, when Wallace left to become secretary of agriculture in the cabinet of Franklin D. Roosevelt, Don Murphy has been filling Wallace's place. Wallace had been editor for several years before going to Washington.

Wallaces' Farmer was established many years ago by Wallace's grandfather, Henry Wallace; his father, Henry C. Wallace, and his uncle, John P. Wallace. His father served as secretary of agriculture in the cabinet of former President Warren G. Harding.

Wallaces' Farmer and the Iowa Homestead were consolidated in 1929.

Wallace was dismissed as secretary of commerce by President Truman Sept. 20 after a speech critical of the administration's foreign policy.

Almost immediately the former cabinet member took to the air with a plea for a popular crusade to "win the peace."

In ousting Wallace, Truman fully endorsed the policy of his secretary of state, James Byrnes, and prohibited all officials in the executive branch of the federal government from taking public issue with the established foreign policy.

Wallace followed Truman's action in dismissing him by publicly charging that the government's foreign policy was blind to "basic realities" which threaten "an atomic war."

Later he became engaged in a controversy with Bernard M. Baruch over the United States atomic control plan.

He said the plan backed by Baruch had failed to head off "a frantic atomic bomb race."

Wallace's statement was in reply to Baruch's charges that Wallace had created "confusion and division among our people" by failing to correct his "errors" regarding the control plan.

Baruch's charge stemmed from previous criticism by Wallace. The former commerce secretary, an advocate of more conciliatory treatment of Russia, had said among other things that the United States was asking foreign nations to agree not to conduct A-bomb research while keeping its own know-how a secret until it was satisfied that international control was working.

In New York City Bruce Bliven, a member of the board of editors of the New Republic and president of Editorial Publications, Inc., publishers of the magazine, said in confirming that Wallace would be the magazine's new editor:

"I wish to emphasize that this means no change in the policies of the magazine or the status of the present editors," Bliven said "Mr. Wallace will be an additional editor; he is not replacing anyone."

Bliven said Wallace would have the title of "editor" and that himself and other members of the editorial board would be listed as associate editors.

BANQUET TO BE HELD BY WOMEN

Business And Professional Club To Hear Talk By M. L. Miles

M. L. Miles, secretary-manager of the Vicksburg Chamber of Commerce, will be guest speaker at a formal banquet Tuesday, October 15, at the Frances Hotel, at 7:00 p.m., highlighting the ninteenth observance of National Business Women's Week by the Monroe Business and Professional Women's Club. His subject will be "Let's Work Together for Better Communities."

Before accepting his position with the Chamber of Commerce, Vicksburg, Mr. Miles was a member of the legal department of the Coca-Cola Co., Atlanta, Ga., later serving as manager of Coca-Cola plants in London and Toronto, Ontario, Canada, St. Paul, Milwaukee, and then part-owner of plant at Clinton, Ia.

Mr. Miles is collector of rare coins and stamps and an outstanding student of ornithology. He has made two scientific expeditions to Mexico and more than 30,000 feet of kodachrome moving picture film have been taken of birds in their natural habitat. He has an unusual collection of over 1,000 bird specimens, doing his own taxidermy.

During the four years Mr. Miles has been connected with the Vicksburg Chamber of Commerce the membership of that organization has increased from 210 individual members to 685, and the income from $10,000 annually to approximately $25,000.

The Monroe Business and Professional Women's Club is to be congratulated on securing a speaker so well qualified to talk on the subject, "Working Together for Better Communities."

Mrs. Miles will accompany Mr. Miles to Monroe and will be a guest of the Monroe B. and P. W. Club.

NON-UNION MIDGET DOES PAINTING JOB

TRENTON, N. J., Oct. 12.—(AP)—When Dewey D'Agostino, Trenton painting contractor, hired a midget he thought he had solved the problem of painting the almost inaccessible underside of the Lee avenue bridge.

But, he reported today, along came local 301 of the painters union, A. F. of L., and, according to D'Agostino, said: "You'll have to have a union midget."

The contractor didn't have one and his non-union midget, Carl Schielke of Windsor, said he wasn't interested ir. becoming a union midget.

D. Agostino finally resorted to his rights under his contract. He asked the union to produce a union midget in two hours so the job could go on. When the desired individual failed to appear, Schielke went back to work.

The union was not available for comment.

ESPICOPALS PLAN CONFERENCE HERE

Outstanding Speakers To Address Meeting At Grace Church Tuesday

A post general convention conference of Episcopal Church members will be held at Grace Episcopal Church Tuesday at 7:30 p. m., it was announced yesterday by Rev. Edward Farren Hayward, rector of the church. The conference will be held in the Grace Church parish house, with Harry G. Frazier chairman of the meeting.

Episcopalians from Bastrop, Mer Rouge, Rayville and Ruston will attend the conference, which will be one of nine to be held throughout the diocese.

Speakers at the conference will include the Very Rev. William H. Nes, of Christ Church cathedral, New Orleans, who will speak on the general convention, and Arthur Allen, a missionary, who will give an address on China, and Bishop Jackson, whose address will be "Diocesan and National Budget." The Rev. George Wharton, chairman of the diocesan department of promotion, will accompany the bishop.

Arthur J. Allen is a layman who was on education missionary of the Episcopal Church, working in Boone School, Wuchang, China, from 1932 to 1937. Mr. Allen had went to China in 1918 as a secretary of the international committee of the Y. M. C. A., and has a wide knowledge of the country and its people as well as of the work of the church in that field.

Mr. Allen was a graduate of Colorado College and took post-graduate work at Columbia University and Union Theological Seminary, though he never took Holy Orders. Returning to China in 1938 after a brief furlough, Mr. Allen was first allocated by Bishop Gilman to the National Christian Council's work for wounded soldiers in transit. That task took him over large sections of Free China and Occupied China a year and a half. After that he was secretary for the International Red Cross in Kweiyang, then the only agency for getting drugs into China, and distributed to the mission hospitals all over the unoccupied areas. Six months in the treasurer's office of the American Church Mission in Shanghai followed that, and early in 1941 he and Mrs. Allen went back to West China, sailing around to Rangoon and going in over the Burma Road in the mission's truck. A year and a half at the combined Boone and St. Hilda's refugee school in Yunnan was climaxed by the entry of the Japanese into Western Yunnan, resulting in practical panic in the school and its removal eastward again. The Allens then separated themselves from the school as Mr. Allen's work as mission treasurer was becoming so arduous that they both had to devote full time to it, and the school was settling in a remote place where banking facilities and cables were hard to get. Thus, from 1942 to February 1946 the Allens lived and worked in Kunming.

The primary job there was that of American church mission West China treasurer, (and there was no East China at that time) but added to that were treasurerships for various other missions and branches of missions, and besides that, the Allens ran a "house by the side of the road," taking in many of the hundreds of missionaries of all denominations from all parts of China who entered or left the country by that famous gateway to "The Hump," the one way in and out during those war years.

Red Shield Boys Club, Salvation Army, Social Service Exchange, Y. W. C. A., Twin Cities P. T. A. Schools' Lunch Program, West Monroe Welfare.

In a message to the special gift division Mr. Mastar said, "The decision as to whether or not the campaign goes over rests in your ability to meet the quota. A gift to the Chest is recognized as a necessary business expense, and is subject to deduction as a tax item. Increased costs have materially affected the budgets of the 10 agencies just as they have your own business, and if their work in this community is to be effective we must see that they are properly financed. The people of the Twin cities recognize the Chest as a business asset and know that unless certain services are provided by a community it becomes a less desirable place in which to live and to work, and a more difficult place to carry on business successfully."

A considerable number of pledges have already been received at Chest headquarters from corporations which operate on a national scale and which maintain business houses in Monroe and West Monroe. Not a single one of these firms has reduced their contributions and without exception they have stated their pleasure in recognizing work of the Twin City Community Chest in wishing them well in their current campaign.

Thomas W. Davenport has been named general chairman of the Twin City Community Chest. He named Jack Masar, chairman of the special gifts committee, and R. C. Brice is chairman of the general gifts committee.

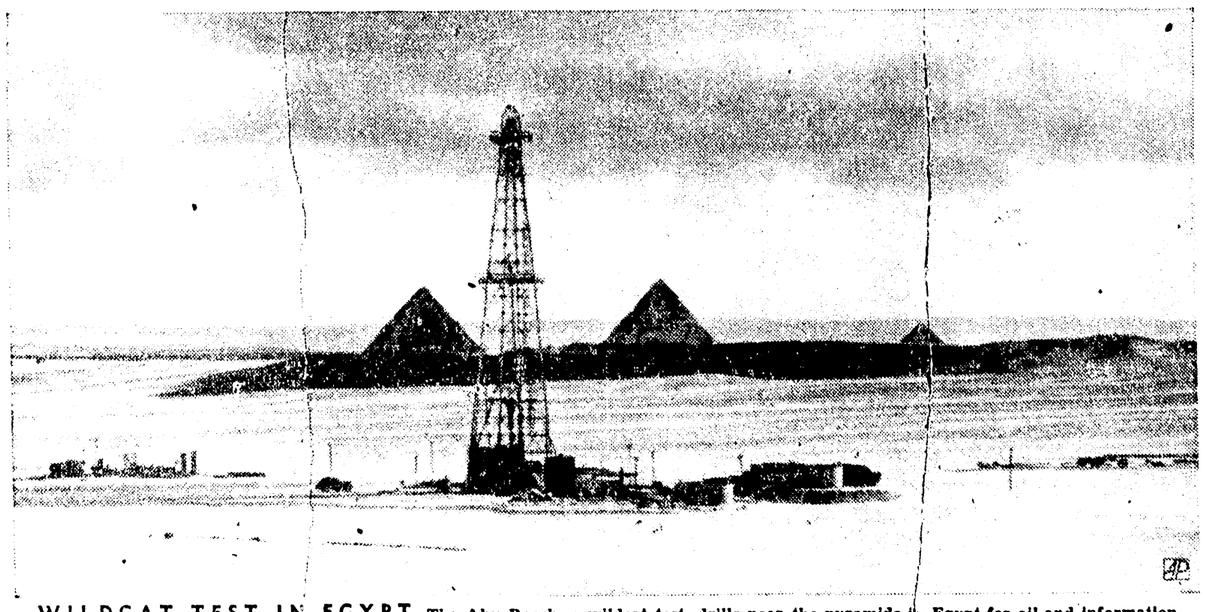

Mr. Davenport is president of the Chest and has served on the board three years. He is a well known attorney and is now president of the Fourth Judicial District Bar Association, and member of Louisiana State Bar Association and of the American Bar Association. He has had extensive experience in campaigns of the American Red Cross, War Bond drives and the Navy Relief Fund drive. He is director of the general counsel of the Twin City Industrial Foundation.

The goal of the campaign has been set at $55,000 with complete cooperation of the people of the two cities, it is expected that the goal will be easily reached.

HUNGARIAN

joined the United States, Australia, Belgium, Brazil, Greece, Norway, New Zealand and the Netherlands abstained.

Shortly before midnight the conference, over Russian opposition, wrote into the Hungarian treaty as it had in the Rumanian and Bulgarian treaties provisions to free the Danube Riparian states and the foreign ministers council to internationalize the river.

The vote on the reopening of the Danube was 15 to 6, with the Slav group opposing it as it had in the other Balkan treaties. The vote on calling the congress was carried by a 14 to 7 vote.

Willard Thorp, U. S. state department economic expert, appealing for the reduction in order to keep Hungary from "economic disintegration," spoke just before the delegates of the 21 nations began to vote on final approval of the Hungarian treaty, fourth and next to last treaty to be passed upon by the conference.

A member of the secretariat announced that the conference now ending its 11th week, would conclude with three sessions on Monday to complete the Finnish treaty and a final meeting on Tuesday morning. French Premier Georges Bidault will be the chairman. There will be no Sunday session.

Thorp also led the campaign to reduce Hungarian reparations in the conference's Balkan economic commission. A member of the American delegation said a similar effort would be made on Monday to reduce reparations Russia has demanded of Finland.

Thorp was one of the final speakers at the two sessions preceding the evening meeting at which the vote was taken on the treaty. He followed Soviet Deputy Foreign Minister Feodor Gusev, who confined himself almost entirely to a defense of Slavic reparations demands.

Gusev said the American campaign was directed at "the legitimate rights of the Soviet Union, Czechoslovakia and Yugoslavia," who would receive $260,000,000, $200,000,000 and $70,000,000, respectively, under article 21 of the draft treaty.

Gusev admitted the Hungarian economy was "badly shattered" but said the real cause was the need for $3,000,000,000 worth of Hungarian railroad and other material which he said the Germans carted off during their retreat and which he said the Americans were retaining in Austria and Germany.

Thorp retorted that the $3,600,000,000 figure was "fantastic" and denied that the American occupation authorities were holding up the return of any Hungarian material.

Thorp said that the American representative on the allied control council in Berlin had suggested on June 26, 1946, that "certain ex-enemy countries, including Hungary, be made eligible for restitution," of German-seized property, but that "despite the continued efforts of the United States' the necessary four-power agreement has not been obtained.

He declared that the United States has "done all that it could to alleviate the situation" in Hungary. He said American authorities in Austria, where four-power agreement for restitution was unnecessary, have returned $32,000,000 worth of Hungarian gold and the Hungarians have been asked to submit lists of their property in the American zones of Germany and Austria.

Earlier in the day Lt. Gen. Walter Bedell Smith, U. S. ambassador to Moscow speaking on the political clauses of the treaty, said the United States sympathized with Czechoslovak demands for the forced transfer of 200,000 Hungarians from Czech territory to Hungary.

But, he added, "for humanitarian reasons we could not look with favor on the incorporation into a treaty of peace the principle of forced unilateral transfer of populations."

He spoke in defense of a Czechoslovak amendment, subsequently substituted in substitution of their original demands, providing that the two countries should settle the problem within six months by bilateral negotiations.

A. V. Alexander of Britain, who followed Thorp, said Britain believed everything possible should be done to alleviate Hungary's tragic economic situation, but he did not say whether the British delegate would vote for or against article 21.

He said Britain would support any satisfactory accord reached on the minority problem by bilateral negotiations between the Czechs and Hungarians.

Stanoje Simic of Yugoslavia opened the morning session with a short speech in which he accused certain unnamed countries of "trying to play one Balkan country against the other."

He was followed by Dr. Vlado Clementis of Czechoslovakia, who spoke of the "sincere collaboration and alliance between the Slavic peoples and the Soviet Union," but said this should not be termed "satellitism."

"The Slavic peoples are linked by a long and often tragic common destiny," he said. "Their collaboration cannot and never will be a menace for others."

but the men who fought it can possibly realize how tough."

Returning to the United States after deactivation of the Tenth Army, Stilwell became commander of the reactivated Sixth Army Feb. 23, 1946. His command consolidated army forces in the western part of the nation and succeeded the war-time western defense command.

The general's knowledge of China stemmed from long tours of duty in the Orient, beginning in 1920, when he went to Peiping as a language student.

When he was named Chiang's chief of staff in 1942, the Chinese army organ said the appointment was worth 100,000 new troops added to China's forces.

Stilwell's life and talents were given to soldiering. He was born at Palatka, Fla., in 1883, and was graduated in 1904 from the U. S. Military Academy at West Point, where he established a record as an athlete.

He fought through major engagements in France during the first World War and received the distinguished service medal. His son, Lt. Col. Joseph W. Stilwell, Jr., pinned the distinguished service cross on his famous father in a surprise ceremony in Chungking during World War II.

The general's widow is the former Winifred Alison Smith of Syracuse, N. Y. The surviving members of the family include his son, Col Stilwell, liason officer to the Canadian army at Edmonton, Alberta, and Benjamin W., student at Stanford University; three daughters, Mrs. E. F. Easterbrook of Fort Benning, Ga.; Mrs. William E. Cox of San Francisco and Miss Alison Stilwell of San Francisco; a brother, John, of Ardenwold, N. Y., and a sister, Mrs. Stuart Wilder of Newton, Conn.

The Stilwell family home is in Carmel, Calif.

clue or motive showed that Miss Eldridge's reputation was unsullied.

"She had a splendid character," said the sheriff.

Clark for the first time today disclosed that the keys for Hogan's car had never been found, nor had a pocketbook which might have been carried by Miss Eldridge been located. No one knew whether she carried a purse.

One girl's pocketbook was found beneath the seat of Hogan's car, but it belonged to his niece. Car keys in it did not fit Hogan's machine.

Clark said all his clues had dissipated with the release of four men and the clearing of two others who were held, however, on an unconnected robbery charge.

He was preparing detailed information on the double murder for broadcast to police and sheriffs' offices throughout the country.

Meantime Clark offered a $500 reward and Hogan's father, E. M. Hogan, posted a $1,000 reward for information leading to the arrest of the killer.

PRESIDENT

was between steaks and stabilization, was silent on the meat question in his weekly broadcast today. He discussed housing.

One thing appeared certain—that Mr. Truman would announce some kind of action and not confine himself to mere discussions of the scarcity of meat and the dangers of inflation.

But even officials familiar with what has happened in the top-rung conferences had different ideas of the course the president would set.

One said he believed Mr. Truman would pick a middle path—a boost in present meat ceilings, or some kind of insured profit for livestock producers. Another said he thought it would be either complete decontrol or retention of the existing clamps on prices.

Still in the picture as a possibility was the importing of meat to whittle down the American shortage. Some politicians and the domestic industry have criticized that idea severely.

Argentina has offered 4,000,000 pounds of canned meat. To bring fresh meat from Argentina would necessitate suspending restrictions now imposed on the ground that they are necessary to prevent spreading the hoof and mouth disease.

Mr. Truman might work into Monday's report to the nation the government's decision on a formal petition from the beef industry for an end to price ceilings.

The petition was filed with Secretary of Agriculture Anderson. He farmed it out to aides for study and recommendations. Their reports came back today.

Whether the scheduling of the speech meant that Mr. Truman had made up his mind on the meat problem, Ross would not say. He told reporters the president would speak for about 15 minutes "on the stabilization program."

"Does that mean meat" a newsman asked.

"Meat, of course, is part of that program," the secretary responded.

Strain is showing on all the Hitler henchmen. Rudolf Hess, unpredictable as ever, talks about forming another Reich government. The former deputy fuehrer, who was sentenced to life imprisonment, complained today that he was getting too much meat to eat, and would like to swap some of it for prunes.

Capt. Sam Binder of the U. S. security detail said "I assure you he isn't getting too much meat."

Julius Streicher, Hitler's No. 1 Jew-baiter, has asked a prison psychologist to tell him how all the other condemned men are bearing up.

Hans Frank, former governor general of Poland who recently has become deeply religious, always greets the prison doctor with the same query: "How are you feeling?"

Wilhelm Frick, former interior minister, says "all is finished and there isn't much use waiting around." Field Marshal Wilhelm Keitel, chief of the German high command, sleeps well. Alfred Rosenberg, official philosopher of the nazi party, is constantly pacing his cell.

ALL WILL BE HANGED BEFORE NEWS RELEASED

NUERNBERG, Oct. 12.—(AP)—No word will be sent from Nuernberg on next Wednesday's nazi executions until the 11th man has been hanged, under regulations announced tonight by the four-power commission in charge of the executions.

The commission ruled that only official U. S. army photographers will be allowed to photograph the executions, and unless the commission changes its decision all pictures will be for "record and historical purposes" and not for publication.

The commission issued this statement:

"The only pictures will be official pictures taken by official United States army photographers.

"This is, in part, some answers to questions propounded by members of the press to the quadripartite commission. The quadripartite commission is anxious in every way to cooperate fully with the press within the limits set for them by the Allied control council.

"There will be no release of the names of or home addresses of any person on duty in connection with carrying out of the sentences of the international military tribunal. Any such release of names or home addresses will come from the Allied control council.

"The quadripartite commission has designated Col. B. C. Andrus or, in his absence, Col. Selby E. Little, to act as liaison with the public relations officer to furnish press releases from time to time. There will be one or two every day but these officers are not authorized to answer questions of individual correspondents; therefore, any release concerning the executions will be made at the regularly scheduled press conference except when something special happens.

"Executions will be carried out under the control of the quadripartite commission.

"All press representatives will be returned to the press room in a group.

"Colonel Andrus will brief the authorized correspondents at a later date."

Two correspondents from each of the four nations represented—the U. S., Britain, Russia and France—will attend the executions.

Among others indicted were Elmore T. Harris, accused of a crime against nature; Joe Looney, charged with indecent behavior with juveniles; S. T. Rusovich asserted that relief shipments to Yugoslavia "should be stopped immediately" because they "are being diverted to Tito's army."

In urging suspension of diplomatic relations, he said such a move "might bring enough pressure on that government to force Tito's abdication."

Rusovich added that the people of Yugoslavia "are as democratic as those of the United States," and said they are "awaiting eagerly the time when America will free them from the Tito dictatorship.

He said further that the consulates in New York and Chicago would remain open. Those consuls were appointed by the Yugoslav embassy in Washington "and are 100 per cent with Yugoslavia's present dictatorship," he said.

2 NEGROES ACCUSED OF STEALING SHOES

Two Negroes, George Schoby, 300 Marks street, and Henry Reed, 500 Lamyville lane, were arrested yesterday by police on charges of larceny of two pair of shoes from Sears, Roebuck Company here, and Chief J. D. Busby said a subsequent investigation had led to other charges of shoplifting against the Reed Negro.

Police Officers Jack Oglesbee and H. R. Wall took the Negroes into custody and then they obtained search warrants and conducted a search of premises at the Negroes' homes.

Chief Busby said the investigation uncovered a large quantity of merchandise at the Reed Negro's home that had allegedly been taken from Sears, Roebuck. Chief Busby said the property at the Negro's home was valued at $219.26 but that some of it was not stolen property, having been purchased at Sears.

The Reed Negro was transferred to the Ouachita parish jail to face state charges. The Schoby Negro will be tried in city court.

speeches any cabinet member may make when on a trip in one of its planes." Patterson himself was away for the weekend.

The text of Brown's letter follows: "Information has come to me, from a source which I believe to be completely reliable, that the secretary of the interior, the honorable Julius A. Krug, has been traveling through the western part of the United States in an army plane with four members of the army air forces in attendance, and that at least a substantial part of his activity has consisted of making political speeches on behalf of Democrat candidates for the house and senate. More specifically, I am informed that at Billings, Montana, on October 9 he made a speech calling for the election of the Democrat candidate for the senate, Mr. Leif Erickson, and the Democrat candidate for the house from that district. I am also informed that prior to his appearance in Montana, Democrat state headquarters there announced that he was coming into the state to speak for Mr. Erickson. By way of adding to the political complexion of Mr. Krug's travels in Montana, I am told that he was accompanied by Charles Murray, son of Senator Murray of that state.

"The purpose of this letter is to inquire by what authority the army is supplying transportation for Democrat political speakers during this campaign. Also, I would like to have your opinion as to whether or not participation by members of the army air force in a political barn-storming tour renders them liable under the Hatch Act. I am assuming, of course, that these members of the air force were acting under orders and, if so, I am inquiring by whose orders?

"I am not, of course, questioning the right of Secretary Krug, or any other official not barred from such activity by the Hatch Act, to engage in political campaign speechmaking, but I wish to point out most emphatically that appropriations voted by congress for the support of the military establishment are not intended to be used in the interest of any political party. I am sure that such mis-use of public funds will be resented by a vast majority of members of congress.

"May I have an early and responsive answer to this letter."

O'Donnell said the air forces received a letter dated last Nov. 2, signed by Maj. Gen. Harry H. Vaughan, President Truman's military aide, which said that "the President directs me to say he is of the opinion that all cabinet members should have the same facility for air travel as is accorded the secretaries of war and navy."

In May the war and navy departments advised the other departments that for economy reasons, they should be reimbursed for the use of air transport.

Accordingly, O'Donnell said, army planes since then have been paid for at the rate of $55 an hour for two-engine planes and $130 an hour for four-engine aircraft, the estimated cost of operation.

O'Donnell said the record shows Krug used an army plane on a trip to Alaska June 6-19, for which the air forces was reimbursed by the interior department.

Mrs. C. M. Ponder heard Saturday that her son, Seaman Second Class William Ponder, member of the crew of the U. S. S. Constellation, prize naval trophy, is safe with the ship in Boston after a hair-raising storm at sea. The hurricane that swept the sea when the vessel was en route from Newport News to Boston to get into drydock, fought a 40-mile wind which sprang a leak and threw four feet of water into the hole. Only the most strenuous efforts of the crew resulted in saving the Constellation which is 149 years old and which was a heroic participant in the War of 1812. The battle raged for 36 hours and the commanding officer, Albert Schoelppe, stated that it was a miracle that the navy's greatly-prized relic came through with flying colors. # ESPICOPALS PLAN CONFERENCE HERE

Outstanding Speakers To Address Meeting At Grace Church Tuesday

A post general convention conference of Episcopal Church members will be held at Grace Episcopal Church Tuesday at 7:30 p. m., it was announced yesterday by Rev. Edward Farren Hayward, rector of the church. The conference will be held in the Grace Church parish house, with Harry G. Frazier chairman of the meeting.

Episcopalians from Bastrop, Mer Rouge, Rayville and Ruston will attend the conference, which will be one of nine to be held throughout the diocese.

Speakers at the conference will include the Very Rev. William H. Nes, of Christ Church cathedral, New Orleans, who will speak on the general conviction, and Arthur Allen, a missionary, who will give an address on China, and Bishop Jackson, whose address will be "Diocesan and National Budget." The Rev. George Wharton, chairman of the diocesan department of promotion, will accompany the bishop.

Arthur J. Allen is a layman who was an education missionary of the Episcopal Church, working in Boone School, Wuchang, China, from 1932 to 1937. Mr. Allen first went to China in 1918 as a secretary of the international committee of the Y. M. C. A., and has a wide knowledge of the country and its people as well as of the work of the church in that field.

Mr. Allen is a graduate of Colorado College and took post-graduate work at Columbia University and Union Theological Seminary, though he never took Holy Orders. Returning to China in 1938 after a brief furlough, Mr. Allen was first allocated by Bishop Gilman to the National Christian Council's work for wounded soldiers in transit. That task took him over large sections of Free China and Occupied China a year and a half. After that he was secretary for the International Red Cross in Kweiyang, then the only agency for getting drugs into China, and distributed to the mission hospitals all over the unoccupied areas. Six months in the treasurer's office of the American Church Mission in Shanghai followed that, and early in 1941 he and Mrs. Allen went back to West China, sailing around to Rangoon and going in over the Burma Road in the mission's truck. A year and a half at the combined Boone and St. Hilde's refugee school in Yunnan was climaxed by the entry of the Japanese into Western Yunnan, resulting in practical panic in the school and its removal eastward again. The Allens then separated themselves from the school as Mr. Allen's work as mission treasurer was becoming so arduous that they both had to devote full time to it, and the school was settling in a remote place where banking facilities and cables were hard to get. Thus, from 1942 to February 1946 the Allens lived and worked in Kunming.

The primary job there was that of American church mission West China treasurer, (and there was no East China at that time) but added to that were treasurerships for various other missions and branches of missions, and besides that, the Allens ran a "house by the side of the road," taking in many of the hundreds of missionaries of all denominations from all parts of China who entered or left the country by that famous gateway to "The Hump," the one way in and out during those war years.

Red Shield Boys Club, Salvation Army, Social Service Exchange, Y. W. C. A., Twin Cities P. T. A. Schools' Lunch Program, West Monroe Welfare.

In a message to the special gift division Mr. Masur said: "The decision as to whether or not the campaign goes over rests in your ability to meet the quota. A gift to the Chest is recognized as a necessary business expense, and is subject to deduction as a tax item. Increased costs have materially affected the budgets of the ten agencies just as they have your own business, and if their work in this community is to be effective we must see that they are properly financed. The people of the Twin cities recognize the Chest as a business asset and know that unless certain services are provided by a community it becomes a less desirable place in which to live and to work, and a more difficult place to carry on business successfully."

A considerable number of pledges have already been received at Chest headquarters from corporations which operate on a national scale and which maintain business houses in Monroe and West Monroe. Not a single one of these firms has reduced their contributions and without exception they have stated their pleasure in recognizing work of the Twin City Community Chest in wishing them well in their current campaign.

Thomas W Davenport has been named general chairman of the Twin City Community Chest. He named Jack Masur, chairman of the special gifts committee, and R. C. Brice is chairman of the general gifts committee.

Mr. Davenport is president of the Chest and has served on the board three years. He is a well known attorney and is now president of the Fourth Judicial District Bar Association, and member of Louisian State Bar Association and of the American Bar Association. He has had extensive experience in campaigns of the American Red Cross, War Bond drives and the Navy Relief Fund drive. He is director of the general counsel of the Twin City Industrial Foundation.

The goal of the compaign has been set at $45,000 with complete cooperation of the people of the two cities, it is expected that the goal will be easily reached.

joined the United States, Australia, Belgium, Brazil, Greece, Norway, New Zealand and the Netherlands abstained.

Shortly before midnight, the conference, over Russian opposition, wrote into the Hungarian treaty as it had in the Romanian and Bulgarian treaties provisions to free the Danube Riparian states and the foreign ministers council to internationalize the river.

The vote on the reopening of the Danube was 15 to 6, with the Slav group opposing it as it had in the other Balkan treaties. The vote on calling the congress was carried by a 14 to 7 vote.

Willard Thorp, U. S. state department economic expert, appealing for the reduction in order to keep Hungary from "economic disintegration," spoke just before the delegates of the 21 nations began to vote on final approval of the Hungarian treaty, fourth and next to last treaty to be passed upon by the conference.

A member of the secretariat announced that the conference now ending its 11th week, would conclude with three sessions on Monday to complete the Finnish treaty and a final meeting on Tuesday morning. French Premier Georges Bidault will be the chairman. There will be no Sunday session.

Thorp also led the campaign to reduce Hungarian reparations in the conference's Balkan economic commission. A member of the American delegation said a similar effort would be made on Monday to reduce reparations Russia has demanded of Finland.

Thorp was one of the final speakers at the two sessions preceding the evening meeting at which the vote was taken on the treaty. He followed Soviet Deputy Foreign Minister Feodor Gusev, who confined himself almost entirely to a defense of Slavic reparations demands.

Gusev said the American campaign was directed at "the legitimate rights of the Soviet Union, Czechoslovakia and Yugoslavia," who would receive $200,000,000, $30,000,000 and $70,000,000, respectively, under article 21 of the draft treaty.

Gusev admitted the Hungarian economy was "badly shattered" but said the real cause was the need for $3,000,000,000 worth of Hungarian railroad and other material which he said the Germans carted off during their retreat and which he said the Americans were retaining in Austria and Germany.

Thorp retorted that the $3,000,000,000 figure was "fantastic" and denied that the American occupation authorities were holding up the return of any Hungarian material.

Thorp said that the American representative on the allied control council in Berlin had suggested on June 26, 1946, that "certain ex-enemy countries, including Hungary, be made eligible for restitution," of German-seized property, but that "despite the continued efforts of the United States" the necessary four-power agreement has not been obtained.

He declared that the United States has "done all that it could to alleviate the situation" in Hungary. He said American authorities in Austria, where four-power agreement for restitution was unnecessary, have returned $32,000,000 worth of Hungarian gold and the Hungarians have been asked to submit lists of their property in the American zones of Germany and Austria.

Earlier in the day Lt. Gen. Walter Bedell Smith, U. S. ambassador to Moscow, speaking on the political clauses of the treaty, said the United States sympathized with Czechoslovak demands for the forced transfer of 200,000 Hungarians from Czech territory to Hungary.

But, he added, "for humanitarian reasons we could not look with favor on the incorporation into a treaty of peace the principle of forced unilateral transfer of populations."

He spoke in defense of a Czechoslovak amendment, submitted in substitution of their original demands, providing that the two countries should settle the problem within six months by bilateral negotiations.

A. V. Alexander of Britain, who followed Thorp, said Britain believed everything possible should be done to alleviate Hungary's tragic economic situation, but he did not say whether the British delegate would vote for or against article 21.

He said Britain would support any satisfactory accord reached on the minority problem by bilateral negotiations between the Czechs and Hungarians.

Stanoje Simic of Yugoslavia opened the morning session with a short speech in which he accused certain unnamed countries of "trying to play one Balkan country against the other."

He was followed by Dr. Vlado Clementis of Czechoslovakia, who spoke of the "sincere collaboration and alliance between the Slavic peoples and the Soviet Union," but said this should not be termed "satellitism."

"The Slavic peoples are linked by a long and often tragic common destiny," he said. "Their collaboration cannot and never will be a menace for others."

but the men who fought it can possibly realize how tough."

Returning to the United States after deactivation of the Tenth Army, Stilwell became commander of the reactivated Sixth Army Feb. 23, 1946. His command consolidated army forces in the western part of the nation and succeeded the war-time western defense command.

The general's knowledge of China stemmed from long tours of duty in the Orient, beginning/ in 1920, when he went to Peiping as a language student.

When he was named Chiang's chief of staff in 1942, the Chinese army organ said the appointment was worth 100,000 new troops added to China's forces.

Stilwell's life and talents were given to soldiering. He was born at Palatka, Fla., in 1883, and was graduated in 1904 from the U. S. Military Academy at West Point, where he established a record as an athlete.

He fought through major engagements in France during the first World War and received the distinguished service medal. His son, Lt. Col. Joseph W. Stilwell, Jr., pinned the distinguished service cross on his famous father in a surprise ceremony in Chungking during World War II.

The general's widow is the former Winifred Alison Smith of Syracuse, N. Y. The surviving members of the family include his son, Col Stilwell, liason officer to the Canadian army at Edmonton, Alberta, and Benjamin W, student at Stanford University; three daughters, Mrs. E. F. Easterbrook of Fort Benning, Ga.; Mrs. William E. Cox of San Francisco and Miss Alison Stilwell of San Francisco; a brother, John, of Ardenwold, N. "She had a splendid character," said the sheriff.

Clark for the first time today disclosed that the keys for Hogan's car had never been found, nor had a pocketbook which might have been carried by Miss Eldridge been located. No one knew whether she carried a purse.

One girl's pocketbook was found beneath the seat of Hogan's car, but it belonged to his niece. Car keys in it did not fit Hogan's machine.

Clark said all his clues had dissipated with the release of four men and the clearing of two others who were held, however, on an unconnected robbery charge.

He was preparing detailed information on the double murder for broadcast to police and sheriffs' offices throughout the country.

Meantime Clark offered a $500 reward and Hogan's father, E. M. Hogan, posted a $1,000 reward for information leading to the arrest of the killer.

was between steaks and stabilization, was silent on the meat question in his weekly broadcast today. He discussed housing.

One thing appeared certain—that Mr. Truman would announce some kind of action and not confine himself to mere discussions of the scarcity of meat and the dangers of inflation.

But even officials familiar with what has happened in the top-rung conferences had different ideas of the course the president would set.

One said he believed Mr. Truman would pick a middle path—a boost in present meat ceilings, or some kind of insured profit for livestock producers. Another said he thought it would be either complete decontrol or retention of the existing clamps on prices.

Still in the picture as a possibility was the importing of meat to whittle down the American shortage. Some politicians and the domestic industry have criticized that idea severely.

Argentina has offered 4,000,000 pounds of canned meat. To bring fresh meat from Argentina would necessitate suspending restrictions now imposed on the ground that they are necessary to prevent spreading the hoof and mouth disease.

Mr. Truman might work into Monday's report to the nation the government's decision on a formal petition from the beef industry for an end to price ceilings.

The petition was filed with Secretary of Agriculture Anderson. He farmed it out to aides for study and recommendations. Their reports came back today.

Whether the scheduling of the speech meant that Mr. Truman had made up his mind on the meat problem, Ross would not say. He told reporters the president would speak for about 15 minutes "on the stabilization program."

"Does that mean meat" a newsman asked.

"Meat, of course, is part of that program," the secretary responded.

day after she visited for an hour in his tiny cell.

Strain is showing on all the Hitler henchmen. Rudolf Hess, unpredictable as ever, talks about forming another Reich government. The former deputy fuehrer, who was sentenced to life imprisonment, complained today that he was getting too much meat to eat, and would like to swap some of it for prunes

Capt. Sam Binder of the U. S. security detail said "I assure you he isn't getting too much meat."

Julius Streicher, Hitler's No. 1 Jewbaiter, has asked a prison psychologist to tell him how all the other condemned men are bearing up.

Hans Frank, former governor general of Poland who recently has become deeply religious, always greets the prison doctor with the same query: "How are you feeling?"

Wilhelm Frick, former interior minister, says "all is finished and there isn't much use waiting around." Field Marshal Wilhelm Keitel, chief of the German high command, sleeps well. Alfred Rosenberg, official philosopher of the nazi party, is constantly pacing his cell.

ALL WILL BE HANGED BEFORE NEWS RELEASED

NUERNBERG, Oct. 12.—(AP)—No word will be sent from Nuernberg on next Wednesday's nazi executions until the 11th man has been hanged, under regulations announced tonight by the four-power commission in charge of the executions.

The commission ruled that only official U. S. army photographers will be allowed to photograph the executions, and unless the commission changes its decision all pictures will be for "record and historical purposes" and not for publication.

The commission issued this statement:

"The only pictures will be official pictures taken by official United States army photographers

"This is, in part, some answers to questions propounded by members of the press to the quadripartite commission. The quadripartite commission is anxious in every way to cooperate fully with the press within the limits set for them by the Allied control council.

"There will be no release of the names of or home addresses of any person on duty in connection with carrying out of the sentences of the international military tribunal. Any such release of names or home addresses will come from the Allied control council.

"The quadripartite commission has designated Col. B. C. Andrus or, in his absence, Col. Selby E. Little, to act as liaison with the public relations officer to furnish press releases from time to time. There will be one or two every day but these officers are not authorized to answer questions of individual correspondents; therefore, any release concerning the executions will be made at the regularly scheduled press conference except when something special happens.

"Executions will be carried out under the control of the quadripartite commission.

"The maximum facilities will be afforded the press at the executions but there will be no telephone line to the outside and no departures permitted until authorized by the quadripartite commission.

"All press representatives will be returned to the press room in a group.

"Colonel Andrus will brief the authorized correspondents at a later date."

Two correspondents from each of the four nations represented—the U. S., Britain, Russia and France—will attend the executions.

The grand jury returned indictments against six other persons, two of whom have not been arrested, and their names and the charges against them were withheld by District Attorney George W. Lester.

Among others indicted were Elmore T. Harris, accused of a crime against nature; Joe Looney, charged with indecent behavior with juveniles; S. T. Williams, Negro, charged with manslaughter in connection with the death of Mary Perkins Williams last June 22; and Rube Dean, alias W. E. The persons indicted and now under arrest or under bond will be arraigned next Thursday to be given an opportunity to plead guilty or maintain their innocence and have dates fixed for their trials during the November term of court.

residence, but I shall never open the consulate as long as Tito is in power."

Rusovich asserted that relief shipments to Yugoslavia "should be stopped immediately" because they "are being diverted to Tito's army."

In urging suspension of diplomatic relations, he said such a move "might bring enough pressure on that government to force Tito's abdication."

Rusovich added that the people of Yugoslavia "are as democratic as those of the United States," and said they are "awaiting eagerly the time when America will free them from the Tito dictatorship.

He said further that the consulates in New York and Chicago would remain open. Those consuls were appointed by the Yugoslav embassy in Washington "and are 100 per cent with Yugoslavia's present dictatorship," he said.

2 NEGROES ACCUSED OF STEALING SHOES

Two Negroes, George Schoby, 300 Marks street, and Henry Reed, 500 Lamyville lane, were arrested yesterday by police on charges of larceny of two pair of shoes from Sears, Roebuck Company here, and Chief J. D. Busby said a subsequent investigation had led to other charges of shoplifting against the Reed Negro.

Police Officers Jack Oglesbee and H. R. Wall took the Negroes into custody and then they obtained search warrants and conducted a search of premises at the Negroes' homes.

Chief Busby said the investigation uncovered a large quantity of merchandise at the Reed Negro's home that had allegedly been taken from Sears, Roebuck. Chief Busby said the property at the Negro's home was valued at $219.26 but that some of it was not stolen property, having been purchased at Sears.

The Reed Negro was transferred to the Ouachita parish jail to face state charges. The Schoby Negro will be tried in city court.

speeches any cabinet member may make when on a trip in one of its planes." Patterson himself was away for the weekend.

The text of Brown's letter follows: "Information has come to me, from a source which I believe to be completely reliable, that the secretary of the interior, the honorable Julius A. Krug, has been traveling through the western part of the United States in an army plane with four members of the army air forces in attendance, and that at least a substantial part of his activity has consisted of making political speeches on behalf of Democrat candidates for the house and senate. More specifically, I am informed that at Billings, Montana, on October 9 he made a speech calling for the election of the Democrat candidate for the senate, Mr. Leif Erickson, and the Democrat candidate for the house from that district. I am also informed that prior to his appearance in Montana, Democrat state headquarters there announced that he was coming into the state to speak for Mr. Erickson. By way of adding to the political complexion of Mr. Krug's travels in Montana, I am told that he was accompanied by Charles Murray, son of Senator Murray of that state.

"The purpose of this letter is to inquire by what authority the army is supplying transportation for Democrat political speakers during this campaign. Also, I would like to have your opinion as to whether or not participation by members of the army air force in a political barn-storming tour renders them liable under the Hatch Act. I am assuming, of course, that these members of the air force were acting under orders and, if so, I am inquiring by whose orders?

"I am not, of course, questioning the right of Secretary Krug, or any other official not barred from such activity by the Hatch Act, to engage in political campaign speechmaking, but I wish to point out most emphatically that appropriations voted by congress for the support of the military establishment are not intended to be used in the interest of any political party. I am sure that such mis-use of public funds will be resented by a vast majority of members of congress.

"May I have an early and responsive answer to this letter."

O'Donnell said the air forces received a letter dated last Nov. 2, signed by Maj. Gen. Harry H. Vaughan, President Truman's military aide, which said that "the President directs me to say he is of the opinion that all cabinet members should have the same facility for air travel as is accorded the secretaries of war and navy."

In May the war and navy departments advised the other departments that for economy reasons, they should be reimbursed for the use of air transport.

Accordingly, O'Donnell said, army planes since then have been paid for at the rate of $65 an hour for two-engine planes and $130 an hour for four-engine aircraft, the estimated cost of operation.

O'Donnell said the record shows Krug used an army plane on a trip to Alaska June 6-19, for which the air forces was reimbursed by the interior department.

That new five-cent airmail stamp, we are told, may soon join the list of scarce items. The postoffice department states that nickel airmail has met with such spontaneous approval that the postoffices are hard pressed to meet current demands. Working around the clock, the bureau of engraving is producing 15 million airmail stamps each day in an effort to keep postoffices supplied, a department statement explains. Incidentally, the week of October 13-19 has been set aside for "Letter Writing Week." Postmaster J. R. Mrs. C. M. Ponder heard Saturday that her son, Seaman Second Class William Ponder, member of the crew of the U. S. S. Constellation, prized naval trophy, is safe with the ship in Boston after a hair-raising storm at sea. The hurricane that swept the sea when the vessel was en route from Newport News to Boston to go into drydock, fought a 40-mile wind which sprang a leak and threw four feet of water into the hole. Only the most strenuous efforts of the crew resulted in saving the Constellation which is 149 years old and which was a heroic participant in the War of 1812. The battle raged for 36 hours and the commanding officer, Albert Schoelppe, stated that it was a miracle that the navy's greatly-prized relic came through with flying colors. It will now be completely overhauled in the Boston drydocks.

CARDS LEAN ON BRECHEEN TO STOP RED SOX

SOCKERS CALL ON FERISS TO HURL 6TH GAME TODAY

St Louis, Trailing 3 Games To 2, Must Win Today To Stay In Fight

By Gayle Talbot

ST. LOUIS, Oct. 12—(AP)—Only the speed and the cunning in the left arm of Harry (The Cat) Brecheen stands tonight between the Cardinals and sudden death in the 1946 World Series.

Harry Brecheen

Trailing two games to three to the revivified Boston Red Sox in the big autumn playoff, the National League champions must win here tomorrow behind their acrobatic little southpaw star or accept second money.

Opposing Brecheen, will be the burly Dave (Boo) Ferriss, the 25-game winner, out to throttle the Cards for the second time and bring the Red Sox their first championship since 1918.

Both pitched shutouts in their previous series starts. Brecheen, the little fellow with the big screwball, baffled the Sox sluggers in the second game, setting them down with four widely spaced hits to square the play-off at a victory apiece.

Ferriss came right back in the third game at Boston to handcuff the Red Birds with six blows and again put the American Leaguers out in front. The meeting of the two shutout artists at Sportsman's Park tomorrow is a natural.

Manager Joe Cronin of the Sox declined to say for certain that Ferriss would be his nominee, but most series observers considered the choice a foregone conclusion. The other possibility, Cronin said, was Mickey Harris, the lefthander whom the Cards clumbed aboard and beat in the second game.

Ferriss, in only his second year as a big leaguer, is as strong as a horse, and almost as large. He will have had three full days of rest.

Yesterday's sensational four-hit triumph by Joe Dobson, one of Boston's junior varsity flingers, came as manna to Cronin, who had about run out of pitchers after Thursday's holocaust in which the Cards battered six of his hirelings for 20 hits.

But for Dobson's sparkling performance, Cronin probably would have felt it necessary to use a lessor workman than Ferriss tomorrow and save him for a possible seventh and deciding struggle on Tuesday. But now he can send his sophomore star out for the kill—match him against the Cards' best bet—and know that he still has Dobson handy in the event Brecheen has another shutout in his wiry system.

Perhaps the most amazing feature of the play-off up to this point has been the impunity—one might almost say the impudence—with which the Cardinals have pitched to Ted Williams.

In five games the big threat of the ox had made only four hits, all singles and one of them a bunt that rolled unprotected territory. Until he delivered the single that knocked Howie Pollet from the hill in yesterday's first inning, Williams had not batted in a run.

Four times thereafter they tossed the ball up to Ted, and he never again got it out of the infield. Twice he whiffed, once after he had winked at his wife while going to bat and told her "this is the time."

It seemed highly unlikely that such a batsman as Williams would go through the series without getting some pitcher's scalp.

GRAYSON'S SCOREBOARD

By HARRY GRAYSON

BOSTON, Oct. 11.—(NEA)—Rudolph Preston York's 375-foot smash into the futhermost reaches of the left field stands at Sportsman Park, breaking up the first game of the World Series, quickly demonstrated that the American League has something besides a pitching bulge on the National.

Just as the elder circuit had no pitcher matching Newhouser, Feller or Ferriss, it had no distance hitter comparable to Greenberg, Williams or Keller.

This doesn't mean, however, that the Cardinals entered the series entirely without pitching, as Howie Polett so aptly showed in the opener and The Cat Brecheen further proved by turning in his sixth straight shutout.

But figures give you the best slant on where the balance of power lies.

American Leaguers manufactured 82 more home runs than National Leaguers during the campaign, the full count being 631 as against 549. This despite the fact that the junior loopers tackled more formidable pitching in more spacious arenas. Outside of the right field wall at Cleveland's antiquated League Park, for example, there is nowhere that home runs are as cheap as those made possible by the short foul lines of the Polo Grounds.

American League had 15 players who swatted that many home runs or more, the National only six.

Freshman Ralph Kiner of the Pirates won the National League home run championship with 23, which was exceeded by Joe DiMaggio's 25, Pat Seery's 26, King Kong Keller's 30, Ted Williams' 38 and Hank Greenberg's 44 in the American.

For some unexplainable reason the long ball hitters seem to gravitate to the American League. This was true before Babe Ruth revolutionized the game. It was so back in the dear old dead ball days, when in 1911 J. Franklin Baker earned the tag, Home Run, by belting a grand total of nine in a season.

It may be, of course, that the American League's foxy foragers search longer and farther for the big brawny boys, yet you hardly can say that they outscout National League sleuths, especially those of the St. Louis and Brooklyn clubs.

Generally speaking, American League clubs more richly recompense the superior athletes, although comparatively few prospects take the pay envelope into consideration at the outset, so eager are they to break in.

Home run hitters just naturally run to the American League.

York's poke giving the Red Sox the jump in the World Series was again reminsful of the Detroit front office committing the unforgivable sin of strengthening a contender when they swapped the Injun to the Bosox for shortstop Eddie Lake.

Nor did the Detroit moguls do the Red Sox any harm when they let Joe Cronin take Mike Higgins on waivers.

Steve O'Neill suspected Rudy York and Pinky Higgins were washed up, but all they did was help take the Tigers and Yankees to the cleaners.

Men are much more prone to commit suicide than are women.

ATLANTA, Oct. 12.—(AP)—Stopped on the ground at crucial moments by an alert Mississippi line, Georgia Tech struck through the air for a 24-7 victory today before an estimated 25,000 in the first football meeting between the two Southeastern Conference teams.

The Jackets scored three times on passes in the first half, and after a scoreless third period drove 46 yards for a final touchdown in the last period, a 20-yard aerial featuring the effort. The Rebels scored with three minutes to play on a 26-yard pass, Bobby Wilson to Everette Harder.

Tech moved 80 yards for the first score, a six-yard pass from Frank Broyles to Bob Jordan paying off after two passes, Broyles to B. Jordan for 42 yards and Broyles to George Broadnax for 12, had kept the march underway.

In the second period, Ewell Pope, Tech guard, blocked Charles Conerly's kick on the Rebel 19 and Tech recovered on the visitor's four. Jack Bils threw a fourth down pass three yards to Pat McHugh for the score.

Jim Petit, Tech Pony back, returned a punt 33 yards to the Mississippi 13 to set up the last score. Broyles passed to McHugh in the end zone.

In the fnal period, Tech went 46 yards for a clincher touchdown. Allen Bowen, Tech fullback and brother of Mississippi's fullback, Buddy Bowen, smashed 10 yards to the Rebel's 36, Bill passed 18 to B. Jordan and Petit squirted through the line the rest of the way.

Conerly was the offensive light of the visitors, in a triple threat role. He connected on three passes to carry the ball deep into Tech territory in the final period from where the Rebels scored.

Tech led in first downs, 12 to three, in net yards rushing, 121 to 60, and in yards passing, 148 to 60. The Jackets completed 11 of 21 passes while the Rebels connected on five.

The lineups:

DUKE SCORES 1ST WIN OF SEASON OVER NAVY

MALTIMORE, Oct. 12.—(AP)—Helped mightily by brilliant George Clark, Duke's Blue Devils steamed into the winners' circle today for the first time this season with a 21-6 decision over a Navy team that was superior in most all departments except touchdowns.

The Midshipmen, as green and uncertain as they were in their first two games with Villanova and Columbia, ripped through the Dukes consistently, but when they got into scoring territory, the Tars just couldn't produce.

Clark, Leo Long, Howard (Rabbit) Hartley and their Duke mates didn't waste chances when they were offered.

To illustrate, Duke failed to complete any of its pass attempts, while Navy clicked with four out of 14 for 64 yards. Navy gained 192 yards by rushing to Duke's 128.

DELHI CRUSHES L. T. I. PELICANS

Bruins Score First Victory Of Season In Beating Pels, 33 To 0

The Delhi High School Bears showed a vastly improved team here Friday in beating a weakened Louisiana Training Institute eleven, 33 to 0. The Bruins had been able to gain only a tie while losing two in their first three games, but they served notice on other Class B opponents that they'll be hard to handle the rest of the way by the manner in which they disposed of the Pels.

Delhi showed a hard running backfield in Harrel, Daffer, Bryan and Coleman, and the Bruins' two big tables, Garrett and French, stopped the L. T. I. running attack cold except for a few smashes through center by Elmo LeVasseur, L. T. I.'s captain and converted tackle who was playing his first game at fullback.

L. T. I. played without the services of Leonard Demaree, stellar quarterback who left the team and returned to his home in Shreveport earlier in the week, and without Joe Bodin, right half, out with an elbow injury. The Pels used a makeshift backfield to offset their manpower losses.

Running from the T formation, the Bears rolled up three touchdowns in the first half to lead, 19 to 0, at the rest period.

The Delhi scoring was distributed between Bryan, who scored three touchdowns, Coleman, who got one, and Harrel, who added one T. D. and drop kicked three extra points. Daffer did no scoring but was Delhi's outstanding broken field runner of the day. Best in the Delhi line, in addition to Garrett and French, were Center Nash and End Robertson.

L. T. I.'s Bobby Boudoin played his usual good game at guard, while Hughes and Lott also played good ball in the local line.

The lineups:

| Delhi | Pos. | L. T. I. |
|---|---|---|
| Robertson | LE | Singletary |
| Garret | LT | Roberts |
| Stephens | LG | Baudoin |
| Nash | C | Doyle |
| Newton | RG | Gay |
| French | RT | Robertson |
| Erwin | RE | Hughes |
| Harrell | QB | Parker |
| Daffer | LH | Stockwell |
| Bryan | RH | Keever |
| Coleman | FB | LeVasseau |

Substitutes: Delhi—Mangum, Hopkins, Moore, Roberts, Williams, Brown, May, Farmer, Snider. L. T. I.—Gaspard, Weed, Lott, Simpson, Fisette, Keneker, Mitchell, Haney.

GORDON TO TRIBE IN YANK SHAKEUP

Star Second Baseman Goes To Cleveland For Pitcher Allie Reynolds

By Ted Meier

NEW YORK, Oct. 12.—(AP)—The long-expected shakeup in the ranks of the New York Yankees, once the scourge of the baseball world, has started in earnest.

In a surprise announcement at midnight the Yankees announced they had traded Joe "Flash" Gordon, star second baseman, to the Cleveland Indians for Allie Reynolds, a 27-year-old right-handed pitcher who won 11 games and lost 15 the past season.

Joe Gordon

The Yanks also sent Joe Edward Bockman, a rookie third sacker, to the Indians for an undisclosed amount of cash and players to be announced later. Bockman trained with the Yanks in Panama last spring before being shifted to the club's Kansas City farm in the American Association.

The deal, apparently bade by Larry MacPhail, president of the Yanks, and Bill Veeck, president of the Indians, at the World Series in Boston, follows the unexpected resignation of Bill Dickey as manager in the closing days of the season. Dickey had succeeded Joe McCarthy at the helm in May.

Speculation on other Yankee trades has long existed. One rumor is that Centerfielder Joe DiMaggio has been offered to the Red Sox in a trade for Ted Williams. MacPhail has made no official comment on that. Neither has he indicated who will succeed Dickey. Coach Johnny Neun finished out the season as manager.

In Reynolds the Yanks have obtained a pitcher known as a "fireballer." A native of Bethany, Okla., he came up to Cleveland from Wilkes-Barre, Pa., of the Eastern League in 1943 and in his first season led the American League in strikeouts with 151. His major league career, including this season, shows 51 victories against 47 defeats. During 1946 he appeared in 31 games, pitched 174 innings, yielded 181 hits and hurled three shutouts. He fanned 106 and walked 107. His best year was 1945 when he won 18 and lost 12 with an earned run average of 3.13.

Gordon, who entered the armed service after the 1943 World Series when his sparkling play helped the Yanks whip the St. Louis Cardinals, batted only .210, although driving in 48 runs. His lifetime major league batting average (before 1946) was .278 and he had his best season mark of .322 in 1942. He is a native of Los Angeles and will be 32 in February.

BASTROP RAMS DEFEAT TALLULAH TROJANS, 20-0

BASTROP, La., Oct. 12.—(Special)—The Bastrop High School Rams conquered the Tallulah High School Trojans, 20 to 0, here last night in a grid contest in which each team made eight first downs.

"Red" Harp, the Rams' sensational halfback, opened the scoring with a 45-yard touchdown jaunt in the first quarter, and a few minutes later Johnny Bryant scampered 32 yards for another.

Harp came through with his second touchdown in the second quarter when he raced 55 yards to cross the Trojan goal.

Van Lindsey, who played an all around good game blocking and tackling, and doing the Bastrop punting, kicked points after both of Harp's scores.

Gladney, end, and Hooper, right half, were also outstanding for Bastrop while Wilkins and Jones stoodout in the Trojan backfield, and Kellar played a fine game at end for the losers.

The game was the first of five straight at home for Bastrop. The Rams have an open date this week, but play Winnsboro here next Oct. 25.

MIGHTY CADETS BARELY GET BY MICHIGAN, 20-13

Wolverines Twice Tie Score, But Blanchard, Davis Finally Save Army

By Frank Kenesson

ANN ARBOR, Mich., Oct. 12.—(AP)—Army's mighty football team, invading the west for the first time in 12 years, ran into a pack of trouble against Michigan here today but powered 76 yards for a fourth period touchdown to edge the Wolverines, 20 to 13. It was the 22nd straight victory for the Cadets since they lost to Navy in their last game of 1943.

Army's seemingly endless victory parade seemed destined to fall before a determined Michigan eleven that led at one time, 7 to 0, and after dropping back again pulled into a 13-all tie with an 82-yard touchdown march the first time the Wolverines got the ball in the second half.

But Army's touchdown twins, Halfback Glenn Davis and Fullback Felix (Doc) Blanchard, powered the Cadets to their winning touchdown with 11 minutes of playing time remaining.

Michigan, battling all the way, connected twice in a last minute desperation air attack and pushed to the Army 10-yard line before a pair of holding penalties smashed the Wolverines' threat to tie it up again.

Davis, who played every second of the game, and Blanchard, who missed only a few minutes, gave the packed house of 85,938 fans a spectacular show but it was Davis' slingshot arm and pedalling legs that hogged the individual glory.

Davis, combining his terrific speed with an amazing change of pace, ran 58 yards for Army's first score in the opening stanza and flipped a 31-yard pass to Bob Folsom for the score that put Army on top, 13 to 7, just 29 seconds before half time.

Either Davis or Blanchard handled the ball on all but one play as the West Pointers plowed 76 yards on 11 plays at the outset of the final period for their all-important touchdown. Blanchard skidded off Michigan's right end from the seven-yard line for the big score, carrying Michigan Halfback Paul White with him to roll into the end zone.

Michigan took advantage of a break to score first, pushing 41 yards in nine plays for a touchdown after Jim Rawers' rushed punt squirted out of bounds at the Army 41. Chappuis hit Howard Yerges with a 14-yard touchdown pass and Jim Brieske converted.

Army struck back within less than a minute, sending Davis flashing through Michigan's left tackle and cutting to the sideline to feint away from Paul White, the last would-be tackler, and run 58 yards for a touchdown. Jack Ray booted the point that tied it at 7-all.

Davis' 48-yard pass to Barney Poole drove Army deep into Michigan territory early in the second period but the Wolverines held for downs on their three-yard line.

The Cadets powered back again as Davis flipped a 45-yard pass to Blanchard, caught one, 5 yards from Arnold Tucker and then pitched 31 yards to Folsom in the end zone. Ray's placement attempt went wide.

Michigan's 82-yard push at the outset of the second half tied the count with Paul White swinging around Army's right end of a reverse for six yards and the Wolverines' second touchdown. Joe Steffy broke through to block Brieske's kick.

Army, held on virtually even terms on the ground, took to the air to start its winning drive. Davis passed 24 yards to Blanchard on the first play of the final period to put the Cadets at midfield. Then it was Blanchard, Davis and Blanchard again as Army steamed to the Michigan 25.

Two passes, one from Blanchard to Hank Foldberg and the other from Davis to Blanchard, gave Army a first down on the Michigan seven and Blanchard powered over on the next play. Ray converted.

The statistics show how Army, its running game matched by the determined Wolverines, won through the air.

Each team made a dozen first downs and Army's 152 yards rushing proved just 11 more than Michigan had on the ground.

But the Cadets completed 12 of 15 passes for a total of 211 yards while Michigan connected on eight of 17 for 95 yards.

Davis completed seven straight passes without a miss for 159 yards and peeled off 105 more on the ground.

LOCAL HORSES TOP TALLULAH EVENT

Five Monroe and West Monroe horses took as many first places in events at the Tallulah Horse Show the past week, according to reports.

In the three-year-old class Wilson Allen 4th, owned by Herbert Fink, Hidaway stables, won first place, and two other Monroe horses made it a sweep when Mary Gray, owned by J. C. Liner, copped second, and Strutting Gal, owned by Anne Menefee, placed third.

Wilson Allen 4th triumphed again when he took top honors in the stallion class.

And Mr. Biggs, outstanding show horse owned by Hays Gentry, West Monroe, scored first in the championship class. Wilson Allen 4th placed second to Mr. Biggs in this class.

Two Monroe entries and a Bastrop horse scored in the two-year-old class. Miss Monroe, owned by Herbert Fink, was first. Claude Lucky's Charm, Bastrop, placed second, and J. C. Liner's How Nice was third.

In the colt class J. M. Morehead saw his Royals Renna Dale take top honors. Mofers Igo, owned by Fink, was second.

TENNESSEE VOLS EASILY ROLL OVER CHATTANOOGA

KNOXVILLE, Tenn., Oct. 12.—(AP)—Taking it easy in preparation for their classic struggle next Saturday against Alabama, Tennessee's powerful Volunteers scored in every period today to overwhelm Chattanooga before 20,000 listless fans, 47 to 7.

With 49 players getting into the game, the Vols scored twice in the first period, once in the second, three times in the third and once in the fourth. Chattanooga's lone score came late in the second period.

HARVARD EDGES PRINCETON

PRINCETON, N. J., Oct. 12.—(AP)—Harvard shaded Princeton, 13-12, in a grid thriller today, Tommy Gannon's 66-yard touchdown run in the third period providing the score that gave unbeaten Harvard its third straight victory of the season.

RIFLE AND PISTOL CLUB ORGANIZES

Ouachita Group Acquires Selman Range; First Meet Slated Nov. 10

The Ouachita Rifle and Pistol Club, inactive during the war, is being reorganized, it was announced yesterday by John E. Zufall, local gun enthusiast, and the Monroe team's practice opens today on the new Selman Field rifle range.

Zufall said the Selman range had been acquired only recently, and that local marksmen were prepared to begin practicing for rifle and pistol matches to be conducted here soon.

The Selman range was secured by the Louisiana State Rifle and Pistol Association, member of the National Rifle Association, which produced numerous small arms instructors for the armed forces in the recent war.

The local club plans to hold monthly matches for trophies and medals.

The first registered match, a one-day rifle tournament, is scheduled for November 10, Zufali announced, and several out-of-state sharpshooters are expected to participate in the event as well as a large local entry.

CARDS LEAN ON BRECHEEN TO STOP RED SOX

St Louis, Trailing 3 Games To 2, Must Win Today To Stay In Fight

By Gayle Talbot

ST. LOUIS, Oct. 12—(AP)—Only the speed and the cunning in the left arm of Harry (The Cat) Brecheen stands tonight between the Cardinals and sudden death in the 1946 World Series.

Harry Brecheen

Trailing two games to three to the revivified Boston Red Sox in the big autumn playoff, the National League champions must win here tomorrow behind their acrobatic little southpaw star or accept second money.

Opposing Brecheen, will be the burly Dave (Boo) Ferriss, the 25-game winner, out to throttle the Cards for the second time and bring the Red Sox their first championship since 1918.

Both pitched shutouts in their previous series starts. Brecheen, the little fellow with the big screwball, baffled the Sox sluggers in the second game, setting them down with four widely spaced hits to square the play-off at a victory apiece.

Ferriss came right back in the third game at Boston to handcuff the Red Birds with six blows and again put the American Leaguers out in front. The meeting of the two shutout artists at Sportsman's Park tomorrow is a natural.

Manager Joe Cronin of the Sox declined to say for certain that Ferriss would be his nominee, but most series observers considered the choice a foregone conclusion. The other possibility, Cronin said, was Mickey Harris, the lefthander whom the Cards climbed aboard and beat in the second game.

Ferriss, in only his second year as a big leaguer, is as strong as a horse, and almost as large. He will have had three full days of rest.

Yesterday's sensational four-hit triumph by Joe Dobson, one of Boston's junior varsity flingers, came as manna to Cronin, who had about run out of pitchers after Thursday's holocaust in which the Cards battered six of his hirelings for 20 hits.

But for Dobson's sparkling performance, Cronin probably would have felt it necessary to use a lessor workman than Ferriss tomorrow and save him for a possible seventh and deciding struggle on Tuesday. But now he can send his sophomore star out for the kill—match him against the Cards' best bet—and know that he still has Dobson handy in the event Brecheen has another shutout in his wiry system.

Perhaps the most amazing feature of the play-off up to this point has been the impunity—one might almost say the impudence—with which the Cardinals have pitched to Ted Williams.

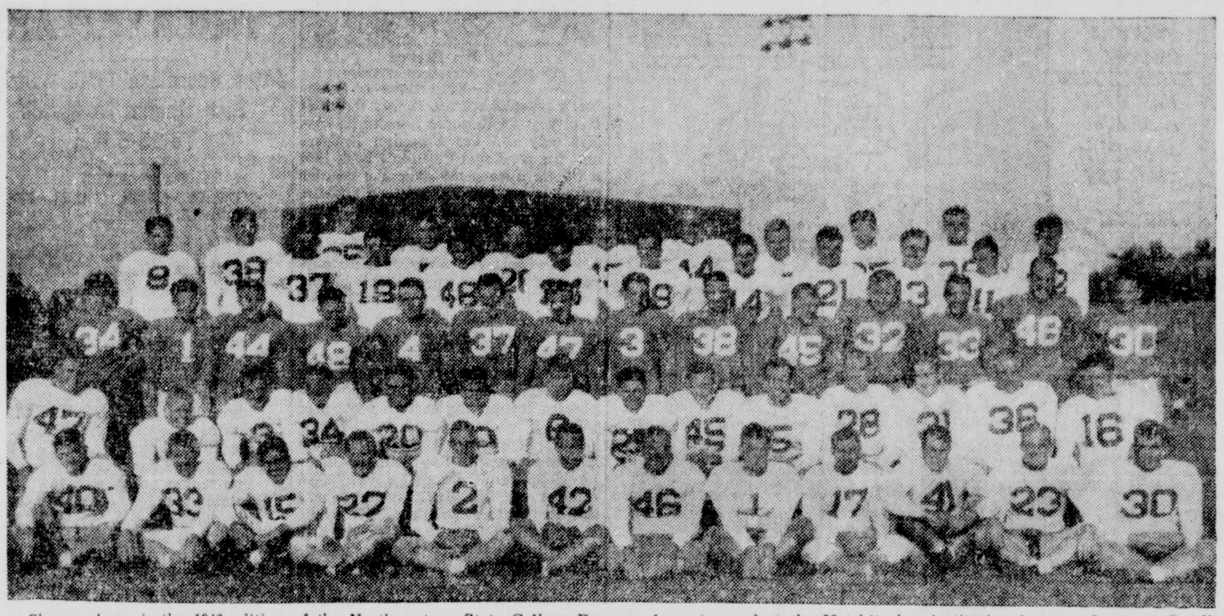

In five games the big threat of the Sox had made only four hits, all singles and one of them a bunt that rolled unprotected territory. Until he delivered the single that knocked Howie Pollet from the hill in yesterday's first inning, Williams had not batted in a run.

Four times thereafter they tossed the ball up to Ted, and he never again got it out of the infield. Twice he whiffed, once after he had winked at his wife while going to bat and told her "this is the time."

It seemed highly unlikely that such a batsman as Williams would go through the series without getting some pitcher's scalp.

GRAYSON'S SCOREBOARD

By HARRY GRAYSON

BOSTON, Oct. 11.—(NEA)—Rudolph Preston York's 375-foot smash into the futhermost reaches of the left field stands at Sportsman Park, breaking up the first game of the World Series, quickly demonstrated that the American League has something besides a pitching bulge on the National.

Just as the elder circuit had no pitcher matching Newhouser, Feller or Ferriss, it had no distance hitter comparable to Greenberg, Williams or Keller.

This doesn't mean, however, that the Cardinals entered the series entirely without pitching, as Howie Polett so aptly showed in the opener and The Cat Brecheen further proved by turning in his sixth straight shutout.

But figures give you the best slant on where the balance of power lies.

American Leaguers manufactured 82 more home runs than National Leaguers during the campaign, the full count being 631 as against 549. This despite the fact that the junior loopers tackled more formidable pitching in more spacious arenas. Outside of the right field wall at Cleveland's antiquated League Park, for example, there is nowhere that home runs are as cheap as those made possible by the short foul lines of the Polo Grounds.

American League had 15 players who swatted that many home runs or more, the National only six.

Freshman Ralph Kiner of the Pirates won the National League home run championship with 23, which was exceeded by Joe DiMaggio's 25, Pat Seery's 26, King Kong Keller's 30, Ted Williams' 38 and Hank Greenberg's 44 in the American.

For some unexplainable reason the long ball hitters seem to gravitate to the American League. This was true before Babe Ruth revolutionized the game. It was so back in the dear old dead ball days, when in 1911 J. Franklin Baker earned the tag, Home Run, by belting a grand total of nine in a season.

It may be, of course, that the American League's foxy foragers search longer and farther for the big brawny boys, yet you hardly can say that they outscout National League sleuths, especially those of the St. Louis and Brooklyn clubs.

Generally speaking, American League clubs more richly recompense the superior athletes, although comparatively few prospects take the pay envelope into consideration at the outset, so eager are they to break in.

Home run hitters just naturally run to the American League.

York's poke giving the Red Sox the jump in the World Series was again remindful of the Detroit front office committing the unforgivable sin of strengthening a contender when they swapped the Injun to the Bosox for shortstop Eddie Lake.

Nor did the Detroit moguls do the Red Sox any harm when they let Joe Cronin take Mike Higgins on waivers.

Steve O'Neill suspected Rudy York and Pinky Higgins were washed up, but all they did was help take the Tigers and Yankees to the cleaners.

Men are much more prone to commit suicide than are women.

ATLANTA, Oct. 12.—(AP)—Stopped on the ground at crucial moments by an alert Mississippi line, Georgia Tech struck through the air for a 24-7 victory today before an estimated 25,000 in the first football meeting between the two Southeastern Conference teams.

The Jackets scored three times on passes in the first half, and after a scoreless third period drove 46 yards for a final touchdown in the last period, a 20-yard aerial featuring the effort. The Rebels scored with three minutes to play on a 26-yard pass, Bobby Wilson to Everette Harder.

Tech moved 80 yards for the first score, a six-yard pass from Frank Broyles to Bob Jordan paying off after two passes, Broyles to B. Jordan for 42 yards and Broyles to George Broadnax for 12, had kept the march underway.

In the second period, Ewell Pope, Tech guard, blocked Charles Conerly's kick on the Rebel 19 and Tech recovered on the visitor's four. Jack Bils threw a fourth down pass three yards to Pat McHugh for the score.

Jim Petit, Tech Pony back, returned a punt 33 yards to the Mississippi 13 to set up the last score. Broyles passed to McHugh in the end zone.

In the fnal period, Tech went 46 yards for a clincher touchdown. Allen Bowen, Tech fullback and brother of Mississippi's fullback, Buddy Bowen, smashed 10 yards to the Rebel's 36, Bill passed 18 to B. Jordan and Petit squirted through the line the rest of the way.

Conerly was the offensive light of the visitors, in a triple threat role. He connected on three passes to carry the ball deep into Tech territory in the final period from where the Rebels scored.

Tech led in first downs, 12 to three, in net yards rushing, 124 to 60, and in yards passing, 148 to 60. The Jackets completed 11 of 21 passes while the Rebels connected on five.

DUKE SCORES 1ST WIN OF SEASON OVER NAVY

MALTIMORE, Oct. 12.—(AP)—Helped mightily by brilliant George Clark, Duke's Blue Devils steamed into the winners' circle today for the first time this season with a 21-6 decision over a Navy team that was superior in most all departments except touchdowns.

The Midshipmen, as green and uncertain as they were in their first two games with Villanova and Columbia, ripped through the Dukes consistently, but when they got into scoring territory, the Tars just couldn't produce.

Clark, Leo Long, Howard (Rabbit) Hartley and their Duke mates didn't waste chances when they were offered.

To illustrate, Duke failed to complete any of its pass attempts, while Navy clicked with four out of 14 for 64 yards. Navy gained 192 yards by rushing to Duke's 128.

DELHI CRUSHES L. T. I. PELICANS

Bruins Score First Victory Of Season In Beating Pels, 33 To 0

The Delhi High School Bears showed a vastly improved team here Friday in beating a weakened Louisiana Training Institute eleven, 33 to 0. The Bruins had been able to gain only a tie while losing two in their first three games, but they served notice on other Class B opponents that they'll be hard to handle the rest of the way by the manner in which they disposed of the Pels.

Delhi showed a hard running backfield in Harrel, Daffer, Bryan, and Coleman, and the Bruins' two big tables, Garrett and French, stopped the L. T. I. running attack cold except for a few smashes through center by Elmo LeVasseur, L. T. I.'s captain and converted tackle who was playing his first game at fullback.

L. T. I. played without the services of Leonard Demaree, stellar quarterback who left the team and returned to his home in Shreveport earlier in the week, and without Joe Bodin, right half, out with an elbow injury. The Pels used a makeshift backfield to offset their manpower losses.

Running from the T formation, the Bears rolled up three touchdowns in the first half to lead, 19 to 0, at the rest period.

The Delhi scoring was distributed between Bryan, who scored three touchdowns, Coleman, who got one, and Harrel, who added one T. D. and drop kicked three extra points. Daffer did no scoring but was Delhi's outstanding broken field runner of the day. Best in the Delhi line, in addition to Garrett and French, were Center Nash and End Robertson.

L. T. I.'s Bobby Boudoin played his usual good game at guard, while Hughes and Lott also played good ball in the local line.

The lineups:

| Delhi | Pos. | L. T. I. |
|---|---|---|
| Robertson | LE | Singletary |
| Garret | LT | Roberts |
| Stephens | LG | Baudoin |
| Nash | C | Doyle |
| Newton | RG | Gay |
| French | RT | Robertson |
| Erwin | RE | Hughes |
| Harrell | QB | Parker |
| Daffer | LH | Stockwell |
| Bryan | RH | Keever |
| Coleman | FB | LeVasseau |

Substitutes: Delhi—Mangum, Hopkins, Moore, Roberts, Williams, Brown, May, Farmer, Snider. L. T. I.—Gaspard, Weed, Lott, Simpson, Fisette, Keneker, Mitchell, Haney.

Officials: Clint Miller (Louisiana College), referee; Vaughan Payne (L. S. U.), umpire; and Jack Lanham (Louisiana Tech), head linesman.

Star Second Baseman Goes To Cleveland For Pitcher Allie Reynolds

By Ted Meier

NEW YORK, Oct. 12.—(AP)—The long-expected shakeup in the ranks of the New York Yankees, once the scourge of the baseball world, has started in earnest.

In a surprise announcement at midnight the Yankees announced they had traded Joe "Flash" Gordon, star second baseman, to the Cleveland Indians for Allie Reynolds, a 27-year-old right-handed pitcher who won 11 games and lost 15 the past season.

Joe Gordon

The Yanks also sent Joe Edward Bockman, a rookie third sacker, to the Indians for an undisclosed amount of cash and players to be announced later. Bockman trained with the Yanks in Panama last spring before being shifted to the club's Kansas City farm in the American Association.

The deal, apparently bade by Larry MacPhail, president of the Yanks, and Bill Veeck, president of the Indians, at the World Series in Boston, follows the unexpected resignation of Bill Dickey as manager in the closing days of the season. Dickey had succeeded Joe McCarthy at the helm in May.

Speculation on other Yankee trades has long existed. One rumor is that Centerfielder Joe DiMaggio has been offered to the Red Sox in a trade for Ted Williams. MacPhail has made no official comment on that. Neither has he indicated who will succeed Dickey. Coach Johnny Neun finished out the season as manager.

In Reynolds the Yanks have obtained a pitcher known as a "fireballer." A native of Bethany, Okla., he came up to Cleveland from Wilkes-Barre, Pa., of the Eastern League in 1943 and in his first season led the American League in strikeouts with 151. His major league career, including this season, shows 51 victories against 47 defeats. During 1946 he appeared in 31 games, pitched 174 innings, yielded 181 hits and hurled three shutouts. He fanned 106 and walked 107. His best year was 1945 when he won 18 and lost 12 with an earned run average of 3.13.

Gordon, who entered the armed service after the 1943 World Series when his sparkling play helped the Yanks whip the St. Louis Cardinals, batted only .210, although driving in 48 runs. His lifetime major league batting average (before 1946) was .278 and he had his best season mark of .322 in 1942. He is a native of Los Angeles and will be 32 in February.

BASTROP RAMS DEFEAT TALLULAH TROJANS, 20-0

BASTROP, La., Oct. 12.—(Special)—The Bastrop High School Rams conquered the Tallulah High School Trojans, 20 to 0, here last night in a grid contest in which each team made eight first downs.

"Red" Harp, the Rams' sensational halfback, opened the scoring with a 45-yard touchdown jaunt in the first quarter, and a few minutes later Johnny Bryant scampered 32 yards for another.

Harp came through with his second touchdown in the second quarter when he raced 55 yards to cross the Trojan goal.

Van Lindsey, who played an all around good game blocking and tackling, and doing the Bastrop punting, kicked points after both of Harp's scores.

Gladney, end, and Hooper, right half, were also outstanding for Bastrop while Wilkins and Jones stoodout in the Trojan backfield, and Kellar played a fine game at end for the losers.

The game was the first of five straight at home for Bastrop. The Rams have an open date this week, but play Winnsboro here next Oct. 25.

MIGHTY CADETS BARELY GET BY MICHIGAN, 20-13

Wolverines Twice Tie Score, But Blanchard, Davis Finally Save Army

By Frank Kenesson

ANN ARBOR, Mich., Oct. 12.—(AP)—Army's mighty football team, invading the west for the first time in 12 years, ran into a pack of trouble against Michigan here today but powered 76 yards for a fourth period touchdown to edge the Wolverines, 20 to 13. It was the 22nd straight victory for the Cadets since they lost to Navy in their last game of 1943.

Army's seemingly endless victory parade seemed destined to fall before a determined Michigan eleven that led at one time, 7 to 0, and after dropping back again pulled into a 13-all tie with an 82-yard touchdown march the first time the Wolverines got the ball in the second half.

But Army's touchdown twins, Halfback Glenn Davis and Fullback Felix (Doc) Blanchard, powered the Cadets to their winning touchdown with 11 minutes of playing time remaining.

Michigan, battling all the way, connected twice in a last minute desperation air attack and pushed to the Army 10-yard line before a pair of holding penalties smashed the Wolverines' threat to tie it up again.

Davis, who played every second of the game, and Blanchard, who missed only a few minutes, gave the packed house of 85,938 fans a spectacular show but it was Davis' slingshot arm and pedalling legs that hogged the individual glory.

Davis, combining his terrific speed with an amazing change of pace, ran 58 yards for Army's first score in the opening stanza and flipped a 31-yard pass to Bob Folsom for the score that put Army on top, 13 to 7, just 29 seconds before half time.

Either Davis or Blanchard handled the ball on all but one play as the West Pointers plowed 76 yards on 11 plays at the outset of the final period for their all-important touchdown. Blanchard skidded off Michigan's right end from the seven-yard line for the big score, carrying Michigan Halfback Paul White with him to roll into the end zone.

Michigan took advantage of a break to score first, pushing 41 yards in nine plays for a touchdown after Jim Rawers' rushed punt squirted out of bounds at the Army 41. Chappuis hit Howard Yerges with a 14-yard touchdown pass and Jim Brieske converted.

Army struck back within less than a minute, sending Davis flashing through Michigan's left tackle and cutting to the sideline to feint away from Paul White, the last would-be tackler, and run 58 yards for a touchdown. Jack Ray booted the point that tied it at 7-all.

Davis' 48-yard pass to Barney Poole drove Army deep into Michigan territory early in the second period but the Wolverines held for downs on their three-yard line.

The Cadets powered back again as Davis flipped a 45-yard pass to Blanchard, caught one, 5 yards from Arnold Tucker and then pitched 31 yards to Folsom in the end zone. Ray's placement attempt went wide.

Michigan's 82-yard push at the outset of the second half tied the count with Paul White swinging around Army's right end of a reverse for six yards and the Wolverines' second touchdown. Joe Steffy broke through to block Brieske's kick.

Army, held on virtually even terms on the ground, took to the air to start its winning drive. Davis passed 24 yards to Blanchard on the first play of the final period to put the Cadets at midfield. Then it was Blanchard, Davis and Blanchard again as Army steamed to the Michigan 25.

Two passes, one from Blanchard to Hank Foldberg and the other from Davis to Blanchard, gave Army a first down on the Michigan seven and Blanchard powered over on the next play. Ray converted.

The statistics show how Army, its running game matched by the determined Wolverines, won through the air.

Each team made a dozen first downs and Army's 152 yards rushing proved just 11 more than Michigan had on the ground.

But the Cadets completed 12 of 15 passes for a total of 211 yards while Michigan connected on eight of 17 for 95 yards.

Davis completed seven straight passes without a miss for 159 yards and peeled off 105 more on the ground.

The lineups:

| Army | Pos. | Michigan |
|---|---|---|
| Poole | LE | Ford |
| Bryant | LT | Hilkene |
| Gerometta | LG | Tomasi |
| Enos | C | J. T. White |

LOCAL HORSES TOP TALLULAH EVENT

Five Monroe and West Monroe horses took as many first places in events at the Tallulah Horse Show the past week, according to reports.

In the three-year-old class Wilson Allen 4th, owned by Herbert Fink, Hidaway stables, won first place, and two other Monroe horses made it a sweep when Mary Gray, owned by J. C. Liner, copped second, and Strutting Gal, owned by Anne Menefee, placed third.

Wilson Allen 4th triumphed again when he took top honors in the stallion class.

And Mr. Biggs, outstanding show horse owned by Hays Gentry, West Monroe, scored first in the championship class. Wilson Allen 4th placed second to Mr. Biggs in this class.

Two Monroe entries and a Bastrop horse scored in the two-year-old class. Miss Monroe, owned by Herbert Fink, was first. Claude Lucky's Charm, Bastrop, placed second, and J. C. Liner's How Nice was third.

In the colt class J. M. Morehead saw his Royals Renna Dale take top honors. Mofers Igo, owned by Fink, was second.

TENNESSEE VOLS EASILY ROLL OVER CHATTANOOGA

KNOXVILLE, Tenn., Oct. 12.—(AP)—Taking it easy in preparation for their classic struggle next Saturday against Alabama, Tennessee's powerful Volunteers scored in every period today to overwhelm Chattanooga before 20,000 listless fans, 47 to 7.

With 49 players getting into the game, the Vols scored twice in the first period, once in the second, three times in the third and once in the fourth. Chattanooga's lone score came late in the second period.

HARVARD EDGES PRINCETON

PRINCETON, N. J., Oct. 12.—(AP)—Harvard shaded Princeton, 13-12, in a grid thriller today, Tommy Gannon's 66-yard touchdown run in the third period providing the score that gave unbeaten Harvard its third straight victory of the season.

RIFLE AND PISTOL CLUB ORGANIZES

Ouachita Group Acquires Selman Range; First Meet Slated Nov. 10

The Ouachita Rifle and Pistol Club, inactive during the war, is being reorganized, it was announced yesterday by John E. Zufall, local gun enthusiast, and the Monroe team's practice opens today on the new Selman Field rifle range.

Zufall said the Selman range had been acquired only recently, and that local marksmen were prepared to begin practicing for rifle and pistol matches to be conducted here soon.

The Selman range was secured by the Louisiana State Rifle and Pistol Association, member of the National Rifle Association, which produced numerous small arms instructors for the armed forces in the recent war.

The local club plans to hold monthly matches for trophies and medals.

The first registered match, a one-day rifle tournament, is scheduled for November 10, Zufall announced, and several out-of-state sharpshooters are expected to participate in the event as well as a large local entry.

M'NEESE COWBOYS PLAY N-J-C- HERE FRIDAY

SECRET PRACTICE CALLED BY INDIAN COACH THIS WEEK

Tribesmen Face Lake Charles' High Scoring Invaders In Underdog Role

The rivalry between John McNeese Junior College of Lake Charles and the Northeast Junior College of L. S. U. Indians that developed to a high pitch will be resumed next Friday night when Coach James L. Malone's Redskins meet the high scoring McNeese aggregation here at Brown Field.

The Indians, who have a powerful team according to the standards of former N. J. C. elevens, have been finding their opposition equally tough, and the McNeese Cowboys will be among the tougher teams Malone will send his charges against this year.

The Cowboys have been running wild through all opposition so far, but the strongest indication of what the Redskins are up against comes in a comparison of scores by which N. J. C. and McNeese beat the Merchant Marine Cadets of Pass Christian, Miss.

N. J. C. beat the Marines in their opener, 45 to 0, and the following week McNeese romped to the lopsided score of 76 to 12 with the Marine touchdowns coming against the Cowboys' "last" team.

Realizing that his Redskins will definitely be the less favored team this week, Coach Malone yesterday declared all Indian practice sessions this week would be strictly secret. The Tribe mentor said all visitors would be barred from the field at all workouts this week as he prepares his charges for what might well be their toughest battle.

Not since 1940 when he prepared for the highly favored Ouachita College Tigers has Coach Malone felt called upon to hold secret sessions. That year his Indians came through with a 9-0 upset victory.

The big task facing the Tribe next Friday will be that of stopping Wayne Kingery and David Tyndall, a pair of 190-pound backs, who have been sparking the McNeese offense from the tricky Tennessee formation.

Kingery last year was a member of the L. S. U. varsity at Baton Rouge, and hails from Lake Charles where he won all-state honors along with Alvin Dark in high school.

The Cowboys will present a big heavy line led by Joe Morgan, six-foot-four and 250-pound tackle from Port Arthur, Tex. Also on the squad will be Mitchell Lum, 200-pound guard from Bastrop, who was on the 1942 L. S. U. squad before entering service. Lum has as his running mate at guard Seamon Mayo, a 201-pounder from Houston, Tex.

The Indians came out of their scrap here Friday night with Ole Miss Bees with no serious injuries, Coach Malone said yesterday, and he predicted plenty of hard work for his Tribesmen this week.

Commenting on the loss to Ole Miss, Malone declared:

"I always hate to lose ball games, but I've got nothing to complain about and am completely satisfied that my boys held them as close as they did. Only our blocking and tackling should have been better."

Crimsons Score Eight Touchdowns Against little Southwestern Louisiana

By Tex Thomas

TUSCALOOSA, Ala., Oct. 12.—(AP)—Alabama's Rose Bowl champions hammered back into their scoring stride with a bang tonight by over little Southwestern Louisiana Institute, 54-

The Crimson Tide hit the goal line [illegible] touchdowns and six extra points [illegible] in a single game than it had for the rest of the season.

A crowd of 15,000 packed into Denny Stadium saw Coach Frank Thomas' red shirts was handled largely without Harry Gilmer, their great passing star. Gilmer played only three periods, completing two for 12 yards to End Ted Cook.

Alabama's first counter came mid-way of the opening period when Halfback Lovell Tew raced 40 yards.

The Tide scored twice in each the second and third periods, and three times in the fourth quarter.

START ADVANCED SALE OF TICKETS FOR LION, TORNADO GRID BATTLE

The Ouachita Parish High School Lions, who experienced an open date the past week, launch their Class AA campaign here next Thursday night against the Haynesville High School Golden Tornado at Brown Field.

Mrs. Elizabeth Manhein, member of the Ouachita ticket sales committee, last night announced that the demand for tickets was greater than for any other Lion game this season, and that for that reason an advanced sale would be launched tomorrow.

Tomorrow pasteboards may be engaged by telephoning 4864 or picking them up at the office of the parish school on South Grand street. A downtown ticket office may be set up later.

SPORTS ROUND UP

By Hugh Fullerton, Jr.

BOSTON, Oct. 12.—(AP)—Second guessing department—or, you're a master mind when you win: . . . Before yesterday's game a reporter was questioning Joe Cronin's selection of Joe Dobson as pitcher in view of what the Cards had done to a flock of right handers the day before. . . . But that time everything worked out right for Cronin, not only in pitching but in benching his lead off hitter, Wally Moses, in favor of Leon Culberson, who merely came up with a homer . . . on the other hand, Eddie Dyer took a chance with Howie Pollet's aching back and guessed wrong. But five times—four with men on bases—Eddie had his boys pitch to Ted Williams and three times he ordered intentional passes to Rudy York. Ted knocked in one run but fanned twice and Rudy scored once. . . . Anyway, they're going back to St. Louis to finish the series and both teams wish they could take Tom Yawkey's Fenway Park infield with them to replace Sam Breadon's rock pile.

Misplaced Confidence

When the photographers got the starting pitchers, Dobson and Pollet, together for pre-game pictures, Howie had Joe toss away the bat he was carrying. . . . A few minutes later he probably wished all the other Red Sox had thrown away their bats, too. He couldn't make them do it.

Bay State Bellows

The series umps finally earned their dough yesterday after several afternoons with few hard ones to call. Joe Garagiola put up a beef when Roy Partee slid past him in the second and Manager Dyer continued the argument later; Williams and Kurowski both argued over called strikes and there was another close decision Musial's double in the sixth. . . . Two old-timers in the crowd, Boston's Bob Quinn and Hollywood's Oscar Reichow, agreed that it's a swell series but that the Sox and Cards aren't great clubs. . . . Two of the happiest guys seen in press headquarters were Quinn and Ed Barrow, who had nothing more on their minds than shaking hands with old friends and hearing: "You're looking well." . . . Bill McKechnie, now a Cleveland coach, insists he didn't make a sudden switch of league affiliations . . . "I was in the American league back in 1913 when I played for Frank Chance and the New York Yankees," Bill points out.

Cleaning The Cuff

Muddy Ruel's position as "special assistant" to Commissioner Happy Chandler may not be filled. The commissioner feels he has enough talent in his office to handle all the work. . . . Eddie Dyer, Jr., 15-year-old son of the Cards' manager, has been collecting autographs of the Red Sox stars, which looks like a vote of no-confidence in his dad. . . . Spencer Abbott, dean of minor league managers, insists he didn't miss an inning coaching at third base during the past season. . . . Such is fame department: After yesterday's contest Mass. Governor Maurice Tobin and a couple of friends dropped into the Red Sox dressing room for the usual picture taking ceremonies. . . . While the Gov. was posing, one of his friends asked: "Who's that other guy?" . . . "Why," replied the second, "that's Joe Cronin."

CAMPUS COMIC

BATON ROUGE, La.—Generally accepted as the campus comedian, Dan Sandifer, swivel-hipped halfback on Louisiana State's football team, is also a standout with the student body, starring in minstrel shows, aquacades, burlesques, and most any form of peageantry that deals with unique fun: wholesome humor.

TIGERS FACE TECH IN NEXT S.E.C. TILT

Georgia Tech Invades Baton Rouge For L.S.U. Game Next Saturday

BATON ROUGE, La., Oct. 12.—(Special) — Louisiana State swings back into the Southeastern Conference spotlight Saturday night when Coach Bernie Moore's Bayou Bengals tangle with highly-touted Georgia Tech as the feature attraction of annual Homecoming Day festivities.

The Tigers, who last week met Texas A. and M. will be seeking their second Conference win of the season at the expense of the Yellow Jackets, who played the University of Mississippi at Atlanta last Saturday.

Renewing a 32-year-old rivalry, the Tiger-Tech series until last year was a one-sided event with the Engineers boasting an unblemished record of five wins in as many games played. Tech copped the inaugural in 1915 with a 36-7 verdict, and repeated in 1924 winning 28-7. Again in 1927 the Bill Alexander eleven won 23-0, and claimed a decisive 42-7 win in 1943. Tech won its last game over L. S. U. in 1944 with a 14-6 margin.

Last year the Tigers eked out a sensational 9-7 victory over Tech by virtue of a last minute, 37-yard field goal by Gene "Red" Knight, who scored a three-point bullseye between the props, despite handicaps of kicking the ball from a difficult angle and with a badly injured knee.

A capacity crowd of 45,000, the second sell-out game of the reason, is expected to be on hand for the 8:15 kickoff, and Athletic Director T. P. Heard has urged that prospective fans not having tickets at least three days before the kickoff will have little or no opportunity of seeing the game, as such was the case for the Mississippi State-L. S. U. fiasco two weeks ago.

By Dick Frazier

EAST LANSING, Mich., Oct. 12.—A hard-running Mississippi State College eleven took the opening kickoff and marched 85 yards for the lone touchdown of the game as it edged Michigan State, 6 to 0, today.

A crowd of 22,125 wet, chilled spectators saw Halfbacks Larry Matulich and Tom (Shorty) McWilliams spark the scoring drive. Matulic plunged over from the four-yard line on the 14th running play of the game.

The winners then survived a pair of Spartan drives to the five-yard line in the second and third periods to post their first victory over Michigan State.

The Spartans made two commendable drives via the airways, but each time lost the ball on downs.

Mississippi State ripped big holes in the Spartans' line to hold the Michigan State ground attack to a mere 21 yards net.

The Maroons, with Matulich, McWilliams and Capt. Billy (Shook) Murphy carrying the attack, picked up 182 yards rushing and added 23 on one completed pass.

The Southern eleven opened the fourth period with a 57-yard drive that ended on the one-yard line after Murphy hammered vainly at the center of the Michigan State line.

The lineups:

| Mich. State | Pos. | Miss. State |
|---|---|---|

AUBURN'S PASSES TROUNCE ST. LOUIS

BIRMINGHAM, Ala., Oct. 12.—(AP)—Auburn's sensational halfback, Travis Tidwell, passed for three touchdowns and scored the other himself today as the Tigers crushed St. Louis University 27 to 7 before 12,000 fans.

It was Tidwell's first appearance as a college player before a home town crowd. He more than made good on his advance billing as one of the top first-year backs in the land.

He netted 70 yards rushing in 13 carries, and completed 10 of 18 passes for a net gain of 144 yards, besides doing plenty of tackling.

Cards Come Up For Sixth Series Scrap With Six Regulars Ailing

Injury Of Enos Slaughter Regarded As Most Serious Blow To Birds

By JOE REICHLER

ENROUTE TO ST. LOUIS, Oct. 12.—(AP)—It is highly improbable that any team ever went into the end of a World Series with as many crippling injuries as the St. Louis Cardinals have today as they prepare to meet the Boston Red Sox in the sixth and what may be the final games of the current classic.

At least six regular members of the team—Enos (Country) Slaughter, Terry Moore, Howie Pollet, Marty Marion, Al Schoendienst and Whitey Kurowski—are on the semi-invalid list.

Probably the most serious injury is the one suffered by Slaughter, the rightfielder, who has been finding the range of late with his booming bat. Slaughter was forced to retire from yesterday's game when hit on the right elbow by an errant pitch by Joe Dodson, and both he and Manager Eddie Dyer were pessimistic about his return to the lineup tomorrow.

Slaughter's injury is similar to the one suffered by Ted Williams of the Red Sox shortly before the series.

"This is the first time I have been out of the lineup for a single inning this season," moaned Slaughter. "I can't lift my right arm at all right now, but unless it is broken, I'll try to be in there tomorrow."

An X-ray examination was planned in St. Louis. Dyer said that if Slaughter was not in shape to play tomorrow he would start either Erv Dusak or Dick Sisler in left field, depending on whether the opposition used a right-hander or southpaw, and switch Harry Walker to Slaughter's position in right.

"Dusak, a right handed batter, hits well against lefties and will play if Mickey Harris starts for the Red Sox," said Dyer.

The loss of Slaughter might be fatal to the Cards. In addition to his superior fielding and tremendous throwing arm, Country leads all the series hitters with 12 total bases and is the only Cardinal to hit a home run.

It is fairly certain that Pollet, who tried courageously to stem the Boston bats despite an extremely painful back ailment in yesterday's 6-3 defeat, will not throw another ball in this series. A source who should know but refused to be identified, said that "unless Pollet gives his bad back a six-month rest, he may never pitch again."

"His back and side are in awful shape. How that boy can throw at all is a miracle to me."

Moore's playing status has been in doubt each day until the morning of the game. Troubled by a damaged right knee all season, the flashy center fielder doesn't know whether he'll be able to play until he works out the kinks each morning. He will undergo an operation on the knee as soon as the series ends.

Marion's aching back has been acting up again as a result of the train rides from St. Louis to Brooklyn to St. Louis to Boston and back to St Louis within two weeks. He cannot lie flat on his back because of the jerking and swaying of the moving trains and is forced to sleep in a semi-sitting position.

Schoendienst, the 150-pound second baseman, has shed 15 pounds during the season and looks and acts tired. In addition, he has been bothered by a strained muscle in his back and has been taking treatments from Dr. Harrison Weaver, club trainer.

Kurowski has been handicapped in his swinging by some chipped bones in his right elbow and plans to have them removed during the winter.

The Cardinals of today may not be the equal of the Gas House Gang of a decade ago in ability, but they are just as game.

BROKE DOWN BENGALS

BATON ROUGE, La.—Consisting of athletes in the process of mending chronic injuries, Louisiana State's sports managerial staff this season is composed of ponderous, bone-crushing constituents, each tipping the scales at more than 200 pounds.

LONGHORNS DOWN SOONERS, 20 TO 13

Bobby Layne Passes Beat Oklahoma To Keep Texas In Unbeaten Ranks

By Harold V. Ratliff

DALLAS, Tex., Oct. 12.—(AP)—Bobby Layne's passing arm pitched Texas to a 20-13 victory over Oklahoma today but the hardbitten Sooners traded blow for blow with the mighty Longhorns and gave them many anxious moments in the forty-first renewal of this Southwestern football rivalry.

The rugged, battering line Oklahoma threw at Texas was all it was cracked up to be and a state fair crowd of 50,000 that overflowed the Cotton Bowl, saw why the Sooners gave Army's great team such a tough game at the start of the season.

The Longhorns were superior, but nothing like the pre-game forecasts that gave Texas, the team that has been rated No. 1 in the nation, a margin of four touchdowns or more.

It was a battle of passes and pass interceptions. Oklahoma gathered in six Longhorn throws and one of them brought a sensational touchdown when Joe Golding, whose runs kept Texas in hot water all afternoon, caught one of Layne's throws and sprinted 99 yards untouched to the score.

It was this touchdown that almost gave Texas fans heart failure because it brought the Sooners within a point of Texas with 12 minutes to go. Texas, however, came right back and in six plays after the kick-off got another touchdown.

IRISH CRUSH PURDUE

SOUTH BEND, Ind., Oct. 12.—(AP)—Undefeated Notre Dame, employing 44 players, romped to its third straight football victory today by crushing injury-riddled Purdue, 40 to 6, before a sellout crowd of 55,452 overcoated spectators.

Five of the seven touchdowns were scored by reserves as the Irish steamrollered 405 yards by rushing to Purdue's 77 and accumulated 18 first downs to nine.

The CLUB-HOUSE

By Jim Becker

(AP Newsfeatures Sports Writer)

NEW YORK—Reflections on baseball's greatest season. It was the most level year in National League history. Not only did the Brooklyn Dodgers and the St. Louis Cardinals back into a tie for first place over the regular season span, but the western and the eastern clubs wound up within a game of being all even.

The west piled up 308 wins over the 154-game season, while the easterners won 307. One game wasn't played—a tilt between the Boston Braves and the Chicago Cubs.

One explanation for the even finish appears to be the early season generosity of the Cards, who, loaded with talent, spread some of their top ballplayers around the eastern section of the loop.

Mort Cooper went to the Boston Braves along with Ray Sanders, Johnny Hopp and Danny Litwhiler—a quartet of fine ballplayers. Mort's brother Walker was peddled to the New York Giants for $175,000. Blix Donnelly, Emil Verban and Al Jurisich went to the Philadelphia Blue Jays.

In the American League, thanks to the whopping margin piled up by the Boston Red Sox, the east walked away with the intraleague competition, winning 316 games to the west's 308. However, the Philadelphia Athletics won an anemic total of 49 games for the east.

The even-up finish in the National League, which occurred when both teams cracked as wide open as the Grand Canyon on the final day, was brought about by inability of both the Cards and Bums to finish off teams they had beaten consistently all season.

The Dodgers were up there mainly because they could polish off the Boston Braves with monotonous regularity. But when the chips were piled on the table, the Bums folded. The series between the two teams wound up 17 to 5 in favor of the Brooks.

Meanwhile, the Redbirds, who had been feeding on Bruin hide all year, dropped two of their final three tilts with the Grimm-men. Yet, the St. Louisans carved out a 14-8 margin over the Cubs.

Probably the oddest development of the season was the complete absence of press for Mickey Vernon, first sacker of the Washington Senators, who copped the American League hitting honors by a goodly margin—but ran a bad last to several other guys in the publicity department.

Boston's Ted Williams became the most written about player of the first post-war season, despite the fact that Vernon won the hitting crown while Hank Greenberg, of Detroit, led in home runs and runs batted in.

In winning the double title, Greenberg staged one of the finest comebacks in the game's long history. Hank was the subject of many rumors that he was to quit the game because he couldn't get his big bat unlimbered throughout most of the pennant chase. But the Bronx slugger got going in the final month to zoom past Williams in the home run and run producing departments. He batted almost .500 in the final month.

The 1946 season, which saw nearly every club shatter all-time attendance marks, also was the season of the returned war veteran.

Where the vets clicked, the team from which they drew their checks did the same. It was Williams, Doerr, Pesky, Dom DiMaggio, Tex Hughson and Mickey Harris who aided the Boston Red Sox in their one-sided triumph.

On the other hand, the New York Yankees, favorites in the spring, were out of contention early because Joe DiMaggio, Joe Gordon, Charley Keller and Phil Rizzuto couldn't regain their pre-war form.

Bob Feller came back from the wars as swift and streng as ever, and established a new strikeout mark of 348 over the season.

But young Johnny Beazley, who pitched so spectacularly for the St. Louis Cards in 1942, couldn't shake off arm trouble and announced his retirement from the game.

The tag of "Hard Luck Guy" went to Pete Reiser of the Brooklyn Dodgers who was plagued by injuries throughout the season, but between hospital trips he managed to swipe home seven times in nine tries to set a new mark.

NEW ORLEANS, Oct. 12.—(AP)—Rice's fast-flowing T-formation and the passing of Virgil "Ike" Eikenberg proved too much for the Tulane football team today and the Owls won 25 to 6 before a crowd of 40,000.

After a scoreless first quarter, Eikenberg and company began rolling with only a minute and five seconds to go in the second period, running 11 plays to score only five seconds before half time. The payoff play was a flat 10-yard pass from Eikenberg to Huey Keeney.

From there on out the Texans remained in charge of the situation, running up a 19-6 lead during the third period as Eikenberg connected with Wendell Williams on a 46-yard passing play, then sneaked across the Tulane goal line from one yard out. Tulane's rabbit-hipped freshman Fullback Ed Price interrupted the show briefly with a 71-yard sprint for the Green Wave's only score and the Owls bounced back almost immediately as Eikenberg resumed his pitching.

The third Owl touchdown came after he had festooned his end, Wendell Williams, with a series of passes carrying 65 yards and Huey Keeney loped over from the four.

Rice thrust 80 yards downfield for a final period touchdown and Eikenberg passed to Nick Lanza for the final 30 yards. Carl Russ and Don Anderson gained most of the distance in this drive on hard-hitting running plays.

A high-light of the game was Keeney's wind-borne punting in the second period. He floated one punt more than 90 yards across the Tulane goal line and shortly afterward booted another 73 yards.

Earlier in the second quarter Tulane, sparked by O. J. Key's passing and high kneed running, pushed to Rice's eight and attempted a field goal on last down when the Owl line held. Hoyt Moncrief's try was low and wobbly.

LAFFOON LEADS AT MONTGOMERY

Veteran Florida Pro Heads Open Golf After Three Rounds, 16 Under Par

By Lynne Brannen

MONTGOMERY, Ala., Oct. 12.—(AP)—Veteran Pro Ty Laffoon of Orlando, Fla., today flashed some of his old time form to forge into the lead of the $10,000 Montgomery Open Golf Tournament.

Despite a harrowing wind which sprang up in the wake of last night's heavy rain and which added three to four strokes to nearly every card, Laffoon came in with a 69 which brought his total to 200, 16 under regulation figures for the first three rounds.

In the second place with a 202 was Herman Keiser, Akron, O., who shot a two under par 70 today.

Harry Todd, Dallas, and George Fazio, the Canadian open champion from Los Angeles, tied with 204's in third position. They were one stroke ahead of Big Jim Ferrier, the first round leader and five-times Australian open champion.

One stroke back of Ferrier was Dale Morey, the former Louisiana State University basketball and golf star who held an equal advantage over George Payton of Hamton, Va., E. S. (Dutch) Harrison of Little Rock, and Ed Furgol, Pontiac, Mich.

O'Neal (Buck) White of Greenwood, Miss., co-lead with Laffon at the end of yesterday's round, slipped badly when his putter failed him. He dropped from first to a seventh place tie with veteran Jimmy Hines, Chicago, at 203.

The Mississippian, a former tank man in Patton's third army, posted five over par 77, putting him almost out of the running for top money.

Four pros ended up in an eight-place tie with 209 cards. They were Toney Penna, Cincinnati; Movie Actor Joe Kirkwood, Jr., Hollywood; Johnny Palmer, Badin, N. C.; and Fred Haas, Jr., New Orleans.

Just behind was Bob Hamilton, Chicago; Skip Alexander, Lexington, N. C.; and Ellsworth Vines, Los Angeles, all of whom had 210.

M'NEESE COWBOYS DOWN HOUSTON ELEVEN, 20 TO

LAKE CHARLES, La., Oct. 12—(AP)—John McNeese Junior College Cowboys defeated the University of Houston's "B" eleven here last night, 20 to 0. The game was played on a field made slippery by an all-day rain.

Coach Albert Ratcliff used his first stringers to pile up the three-touchdown lead in the first half and then let reserves finish out the game.

Wayne Kingery galloped 37 yards for the first McNeese touchdown in the opening period and Jack Trouard followed with another soon afterwards. Reed Stevens went across for the third marker in the second period.

END RECORD

BATON ROUGE, La.—Clyde Lindsey and Fullback Gene "Red" Knight, both All Southeastern Conference performers, will graduate next spring with the all-time honor of having garnered 12 varsity letter awards in three sports for four years.

M'NEESE COWBOYS PLAY N-J-C- HERE FRIDAY

Tribesmen Face Lake Charles' High Scoring Invaders In Underdog Role

The rivalry between John McNeese Junior College of Lake Charles and the Northeast Junior College of L. S. U. Indians that developed to a high pitch will be resumed next Friday night when Coach James L. Malone's Redskins meet the high scoring McNeese aggregation here at Brown Field.

The Indians, who have a powerful team according to the standards of former N. J. C. elevens, have been finding their opposition equally tough, and the McNeese Cowboys will be among the tougher teams Malone will send his charges against this year.

The Cowboys have been running wild through all opposition so far, but the strongest indication of what the Redskins are up against comes in a comparison of scores by which N. J. C. and McNeese beat the Merchant Marine Cadets of Pass Christian, Miss.

N. J. C. beat the Marines in their opener, 45 to 0, and the following week McNeese romped to the lopsided score of 76 to 12 with the Marine touchdowns coming against the Cowboys' "last" team.

Realizing that his Redskins will definitely be the less favored team this week, Coach Malone yesterday declared all Indian practice sessions this week would be strictly secret. The Tribe mentor said all visitors would be barred from the field at all workouts this week as he prepares his charges for what might well be their toughest battle.

Not since 1940 when he prepared for the highly favored Ouachita College Tigers has Coach Malone felt called upon to hold secret sessions. That year his Indians came through with a 9-0 upset victory.

The big task facing the Tribe next Friday will be that of stopping Wayne Kingery and David Tyndall, a pair of 190-pound backs, who have been sparking the McNeese offense from the tricky Tennessee formation.

Kingery last year was a member of the L. S. U. varsity at Baton Rouge, and hails from Lake Charles where he won all-state honors along with Alvin Dark in high school.

The Cowboys will present a big heavy line led by Joe Morgan, six-foot-four and 250-pound tackle from Port Arthur, Tex. Also on the squad will be Mitchell Lum, 200-pound guard from Bastrop, who was on the 1942 L. S. U. squad before entering service. Lum has as his running mate at guard Seamon Mayo, a 204-pounder from Houston, Tex.

The Indians came out of their scrap here Friday night with Ole Miss Bees with no serious injuries, Coach Malone said yesterday, and he predicted plenty of hard work for his Tribesmen this week.

Commenting on the loss to Ole Miss, Malone declared:

"I always hate to lose ball games, but I've got nothing to complain about and am completely satisfied that my boys held them as close as they did. Only our blocking and tackling should have been better."

Crimsons Score Eight Touchdowns Against little Southwestern Louisiana

By Tex Thomas

TUSCALOOSA, Ala., Oct. 12.—(AP)—Alabama's Rose Bowl champions bounced back into their scoring stride with a bang today, bowling over little Southwestern Louisiana Institute, 54-0.

The Crimson Tide hit the goal line for eight touchdowns and six extra points, scoring more in a single game than it had for the rest of the season.

A crowd of 18,000 packed into Benny Stadium saw Coach Frank Thomas' red shirts win handily, largely without Harry Gilmer, their great passing star. Gilmer tossed only three aerials, completing one for 22 yards to End Ted Cook.

Alabama's first counter came midway of the opening period when Halfback Lowell Tew raced 38 yards.

The Tide scored twice in each the second and third periods and three times in the fourth quarter.

START ADVANCED SALE OF TICKETS FOR LION, TORNADO GRID BATTLE

The Ouachita Parish High School Lions, who experienced an open date the past week, launch their Class AA campaign here next Thursday night against the Haynesville High School Golden Tornado at Brown Field.

Mrs. Elizabeth Manhein, member of the Ouachita ticket sales committee, last night announced that the demand for tickets was greater than for any other Lion game this season, and that for that reason an advanced sale would be launched tomorrow.

Tomorrow pasteboards may be engaged by telephoning 4864 or picking them up at the office of the parish school on South Grand street. A downtown ticket office may be set up later.

SPORTS ROUND UP

By Hugh Fullerton, Jr.

By Hugh Fullerton, Jr.

BOSTON, Oct. 12.—(AP)—Second guessing department—or, you're a master mind when you win: . . . Before yesterday's game a reporter was questioning Joe Cronin's selection of Joe Dobson as pitcher in view of what the Cards had done to a flock of right handers the day before. . . . But that time everything worked out right for Cronin, not only in pitching but in benching his lead off hitter, Wally Moses, in favor of Leon Culberson, who merely came up with a homer . . . on the other hand, Eddie Dyer took a chance with Howie Pollet's aching back and guessed wrong. But five times—four with men on bases—Eddie had his boys pitch to Ted Williams and three times he ordered intentional passes to Rudy York. Ted knocked in one run but fanned twice and Rudy scored once. . . . Anyway, they're going back to St. Louis to finish the series and both teams wish they could take Tom Yawkey's Fenway Park infield with them to replace Sam Breadon's rock pile.

Misplaced Confidence

When the photographers got the starting pitchers, Dobson and Pollet, together for pre-game pictures, Howie had Joe toss away the bat he was carrying. . . . A few minutes later he probably wished all the other Red Sox had thrown away their bats, too. He couldn't make them do it.

Bay State Bellows

The series umps finally earned their dough yesterday after several afternoons with few hard ones to call. Joe Garagiola put up a beef when Roy Partee slid past him in the second and Manager Dyer continued the argument later; Williams and Kurowski both argued over called strikes and there was another close decision Musial's double in the sixth. . . . Two old-timers in the crowd, Boston's Bob Quinn and Hollywood's Oscar Reichow, agreed that it's a swell series but that the Sox and Cards aren't great clubs. . . . Two of the happiest guys seen in press headquarters were Quinn and Ed Barrow, who had nothing more on their minds than shaking hands with old friends and hearing: "You're looking well." . . . Bill McKechnie, now a Cleveland coach, insists he didn't make a sudden switch of league affiliations . . . "I was in the American league back in 1913 when I played for Frank Chance and the New York Yankees," Bill points out.

Cleaning The Cuff

Muddy Ruel's position as "special assistant" to Commissioner Happy Chandler may not be filled. The commissioner feels he has enough talent in his office to handle all the work. . . . Eddie Dyer, Jr., 16-year-old son of the Cards' manager, has been collecting autographs of the Red Sox stars, which looks like a vote of no-confidence in his dad. . . . Spencer Abbott, dean of minor league managers, insists he didn't miss an inning coaching at third base during the past season. . . . Such is fame department: After yesterday's contest Mass, Governor Maurice Tobin and a couple of friends dropped into the Red Sox dressing room for the usual picture taking ceremonies. . . . While the Gov. was posing, one of his friends asked: "Who's that other guy?" . . . "Why," replied the second, "that's Joe Cronin."

CAMPUS COMIC

BATON ROUGE, La.—Generally accepted as the campus comedian, Dan Sandifer, swivel-hipped halfback on Louisiana State's football team, is also a standout with the student body, starring in minstrel shows, acquacades, burlesques, and most any form of peagentry that deals with unique and wholesome humor.

TIGERS FACE TECH IN NEXT S.E.C. TILT

Georgia Tech Invades Baton Rouge For L.S.U. Game Next Saturday

BATON ROUGE, La., Oct. 12.—(Special) — Louisiana State swings back into the Southeastern Conference spotlight Saturday night when Coach Bernie Moore's Bayou Bengals tangle with highly-touted Georgia Tech as the feature attraction of annual Homecoming Day festivities.

The Tigers, who last week met Texas A. and M. will be seeking their second Conference win of the season at the expense of the Yellow Jackets, who played the University of Mississippi at Atlanta last Saturday.

Renewing a 32-year-old rivalry, the Tiger-Tech series until last year was a one-sided event with the Engineers boasting an unblemished record of five wins in as many games played. Tech copped the inaugural in 1915 with a 36-7 verdict, and repeated in 1924 winning 28-7. Again in 1927 the Bill Alexander eleven won 23-0, and claimed a decisive 42-7 win in 1943. Tech won its last game over L. S. U. in 1944 with a 14-6 margin.

Last year the Tigers eked out a sensational 9-7 victory over Tech by virtue of a last minute, 37-yard field goal by Gene "Red" Knight, who scored a three-point bullseye between the props, despite handicaps of kicking the ball from a difficult angle and with a badly injured knee.

A capacity crowd of 45,000, the second sell-out game of the reason, is expected to be on hand for the 8:15 kickoff, and Athletic Director T. P. Heard has urged that prospective fans not having tickets at least three days before the kickoff will have little or no opportunity of seeing the game, as such was the case for the Mississippi State-L. S. U. fiasco two weeks ago.

EAST LANSING, Mich., Oct. 12.—A hard-running Mississippi State College eleven took the opening kickoff and marched 85 yards for the lone touchdown of the game as it edged Michigan State, 6 to 0, today.

A crowd of 22,125 wet, chilled spectators saw Halfbacks Larry Matulich and Tom (Shorty) McWilliams spark the scoring drive. Matulic plunged over from the four-yard line on the 14th running play of the game.

The winners then survived a pair of Spartan drives to the five-yard line in the second and third periods to post their first victory over Michigan State.

The Spartans made two commendable drives via the airways, but each time lost the ball on downs.

Mississippi State ripped big holes in the Spartans' line to hold the Michigan State ground attack to a mere 21 yards net.

The Maroons, with Matulich, McWilliams and Capt. Billy (Shook) Murphy carrying the attack, picked up 182 yards rushing and added 23 on one completed pass.

AUBURN'S PASSES TROUNCE ST. LOUIS

BIRMINGHAM, Ala., Oct. 12.—(AP)—Auburn's sensational halfback, Travis Tidwell, passed for three touchdowns and scored the other himself today as the Tigers crushed St. Louis University 27 to 7 before 12,000 fans.

It was Tidwell's first appearance as a college player before a home town crowd. He more than made good on his advance billing as one of the top first-year backs in the land.

He netted 70 yards rushing in 13 carries, and completed 10 of 18 passes for a net gain of 144 yards, besides doing plenty of tackling.

Cards Come Up For Sixth Series Scrap With Six Regulars Ailing

Injury Of Enos Slaughter Regarded As Most Serious Blow To Birds

By JOE REICHLER

ENROUTE TO ST. LOUIS, Oct. 12.—(AP)—It is highly improbable that any team ever went into the end of a World Series with as many crippling injuries as the St. Louis Cardinals have today as they prepare to meet the Boston Red Sox in the sixth and what may be the final games of the current classic.

At least six regular members of the team—Enos (Country) Slaughter, Terry Moore, Howie Pollet, Marty Marion, Al Schoendienst and Whitey Kurowski—are on the semi-invalid list.

Probably the most serious injury is the one suffered by Slaughter, the rightfielder, who has been finding the range of late with his booming bat. Slaughter was forced to retire from yesterday's game when hit on the right elbow by an errant pitch by Joe Dodson, and both he and Manager Eddie Dyer were pessimistic about his return to the lineup tomorrow.

Slaughter's injury is similar to the one suffered by Ted Williams of the Red Sox shortly before the series.

"This is the first time I have been out of the lineup for a single inning this season," moaned Slaughter. "I can't lift my right arm at all right now, but unless it is broken, I'll try to be in there tomorrow."

An X-ray examination was planned in St. Louis. Dyer said that if Slaughter was not in shape to play tomorrow he would start either Erv Dusak or Dick Sisler in left field, depending on whether the opposition used a right-hander or southpaw, and switch Harry Walker to Slaughter's position in right.

"Dusak, a right handed batter, hits well against lefties and will play if Mickey Harris starts for the Red Sox," said Dyer.

The loss of Slaughter might be fatal to the Cards. In addition to his superior fielding and tremendous throwing arm, Country leads all the series hitters with 12 total bases and is the only Cardinal to hit a home run.

It is fairly certain that Pollet, who tried courageously to stem the Boston bats despite an extremely painful back ailment in yesterday's 6-3 defeat, will not throw another ball in this series. A source who should know but refused to be identified, said that "unless Pollet gives his bad back a six-month rest, he may never pitch again."

"His back and side are in awful shape. How that boy can throw at all is a miracle to me."

Moore's playing status has been in doubt each day until the morning of the game. Troubled by a damaged right knee all season, the flashy center fielder doesn't know whether he'll be able to play until he works out the kinks each morning. He will undergo an operation on the knee as soon as the series ends.

Marion's aching back has been acting up again as a result of the train rides from St. Louis to Brooklyn to St. Louis to Boston and back to St. Louis within two weeks. He cannot lie flat on his back because of the jerking and swaying of the moving trains and is forced to sleep in a semi-sitting position.

Schoendienst, the 150-pound second baseman, has shed 15 pounds during the season and looks and acts tired. In addition, he has been bothered by a strained muscle in his back and has been taking treatments from Dr. Harrison Weaver, club trainer.

Kurowski has been handicapped in his swinging by some chipped bones in his right elbow and plans to have them removed during the winter.

The Cardinals of today may not be the equal of the Gas House Gang of a decade ago in ability, but they are just as game.

BROKE DOWN BENGALS

BATON ROUGE, La.—Consisting of athletes in the process of mending chronic injuries, Louisiana State's sports managerial staff this season is composed of ponderous, bone-crushing constituents, each tipping the scales at more than 200 pounds.

LONGHORNS DOWN SOONERS, 20 TO 13

Bobby Layne Passes Beat Oklahoma To Keep Texas In Unbeaten Ranks

By Harold V. Ratliff

DALLAS, Tex., Oct. 12.—(AP)—Bobby Layne's passing arm pitched Texas to a 20-13 victory over Oklahoma today but the hardbitten Sooners traded blow for blow with the mighty Longhorns and gave them many anxious moments in the forty-first renewal of this Southwestern football rivalry.

The rugged, battering line Oklahoma threw at Texas was all it was cracked up to be and a state fair crowd of 50,000 that overflowed the Cotton Bowl, saw why the Sooners gave Army's great team such a tough game at the start of the season.

The Longhorns were superior, but nothing like the pre-game forecasts that gave Texas, the team that has been rated No. 1 in the nation, a margin of four touchdowns or more.

It was a battle of passes and pass interceptions. Oklahoma gathered in six Longhorn throws and one of them brought a sensational touchdown when Joe Golding, whose runs kept Texas in hot water all afternoon, caught one of Layne's throws and sprinted 99 yards untouched to the score.

It was this touchdown that almost gave Texas fans heart failure because it brought the Sooners within a point of Texas with 12 minutes to go. Texas, however, came right back and in six plays after the kick-off got another touchdown.

IRISH CRUSH PURDUE

SOUTH BEND, Ind., Oct. 12.—(AP)—Undefeated Notre Dame, employing 44 players, romped to its third straight football victory today by crushing injury-riddled Purdue, 49 to 6, before a sellout crowd of 55,452 overcoated spectators.

Five of the seven touchdowns were scored by reserves as the Irish steamrollered 408 yards by rushing to Purdue's 77 and accumulated 18 first downs to nine.

The CLUB-HOUSE

By Jim Becker

(AP Newsfeatures Sports Writer)

NEW YORK—Reflections on baseball's greatest season. It was the most level year in National League history. Not only did the Brooklyn Dodgers and the St. Louis Cardinals back into a tie for first place over the regular season span, but the western and the eastern clubs wound up within a game of being all even.

The west piled up 308 wins over the 154-game season, while the easterners won 307. One game wasn't played—a tilt between the Boston Braves and the Chicago Cubs.

One explanation for the even finish appears to be the early season generosity of the Cards, who, loaded with talent, spread some of their top ballplayers around the eastern section of the loop.

Mort Cooper went to the Boston Braves along with Ray Sanders, Johnny Hopp and Danny Litwhiler—a quartet of fine ballplayers. Mort's brother Walker was peddled to the New York Giants for $175,000. Blix Donnelly, Emil Verban and Al Jurisich went to the Philadelphia Blue Jays.

In the American League, thanks to the whopping margin piled up by the Boston Red Sox, the east walked away with the intraleague competition, winning 316 games to the west's 300. However, the Philadelphia Athletics won an anemic total of 49 games for the east.

The even-up finish in the National League, which occurred when both teams cracked as wide open as the Grand Canyon on the final day, was brought about by inability of both the Cards and Bums to finish off teams they had beaten consistently all season.

The Dodgers were up there mainly because they could polish off the Boston Braves with monotonous regularity. But when the chips were piled on the table, the Bums folded. The series between the two teams wound up 17 to 5 in favor of the Brooks.

Meanwhile, the Redbirds, who had been feeding on Bruin hide all year, dropped two of their final three tilts with the Grimm-men. Yet, the St. Louisans carved out a 14-8 margin over the Cubs.

Probably the oddest development of the season was the complete absence of press for Mickey Vernon, first sacker of the Washington Senators, who copped the American League hitting honors by a goodly margin—but ran a bad last to several other guys in the publicity department.

Boston's Ted Williams became the most written about player of the first post-war season, despite the fact that Vernon won the hitting crown while Hank Greenberg, of Detroit, led in home runs and runs batted in.

In winning the double title, Greenberg staged one of the finest comebacks in the game's long history. Hank was the subject of many rumors that he was to quit the game because he couldn't get his big bat unlimbered throughout most of the pennant chase. But the Bronx slugger got going in the final month to zoom past Williams in the home run and run producing departments. He batted almost .400 in the final month.

The 1946 season, which saw nearly every club shatter all-time attendance marks, also was the season of the returned war veteran.

Where the vets clicked, the team from which they drew their checks did the same. It was Williams, Doerr, Pesky, Dom DiMaggio, Tex Hughson and Mickey Harris who aided the Boston Red Sox in their one-sided triumph.

On the other hand, the New York Yankees, favorites in the spring, were out of contention early because Joe DiMaggio, Joe Gordon, Charley Keller and Phil Rizzuto couldn't regain their pre-war form.

Bob Feller came back from the wars as swift and strong as ever, and established a new strikeout mark of 348 over the season.

But young Johnny Beazley, who pitched so spectacularly for the St. Louis Cards in 1942, couldn't shake off arm trouble and announced his retirement from the game.

The tag of "Hard Luck Guy" went to Pete Reiser of the Brooklyn Dodgers who was plagued by injuries throughout the season, but between hospital trips he managed to swipe home seven times in nine tries to set a new mark.

NEW ORLEANS, Oct. 12.—(AP)—Rice's fast-flowing T-formation and the passing of Virgil "Ike" Eikenberg proved too much for the Tulane football team today and the Owls won 25 to 6 before a crowd of 40,000.

After a scoreless first quarter, Eikenberg and company began rolling with only a minute and five seconds to go in the second period, running 11 plays to score only five seconds before half time. The payoff play was a flat 10-yard pass from Eikenberg to Huey Keeney.

From there on out the Texans remained in charge of the situation, running up a 19-6 lead during the third period as Eikenberg connected with Wendell Williams on a 46-yard passing play, then sneaked across the Tulane goal line from one yard out. Tulane's rabbit-hipped freshman Fullback Ed Price interrupted the show briefly with a 71-yard sprint for the Green Wave's only score and the Owls bounced back almost immediately as Eikenberg resumed his pitching.

The third Owl touchdown came after he had festooned his end, Wendell Williams, with a series of passes carrying 65 yards and Huey Keeney loped over from the four.

Rice thrust 80 yards downfield for a final period touchdown and Eikenberg passed to Nick Lanza for the final 30 yards. Carl Russ and Don Anderson gained most of the distance in this drive on hard-hitting running plays.

A high-light of the game was Keeney's wind-borne punting in the second period. He floated one punt more than 90 yards across the Tulane goal line and shortly afterward booted another 73 yards.

Earlier in the second quarter Tulane, sparked by O. J. Key's passing and high kneed running, pushed to Rice's eight and attempted a field goal on last down when the Owl line held. Hoyt Moncrief's try was low and wobbly.

LAFFOON LEADS AT MONTGOMERY

Veteran Florida Pro Heads Open Golf After Three Rounds, 16 Under Par

By Lynne Brannen

MONTGOMERY, Ala., Oct. 12.—(AP)—Veteran Pro Ty Laffoon of Orlando, Fla., today flashed some of his old time form to forge into the lead of the $10,000 Montgomery Open Golf Tournament.

Despite a harrowing wind which sprang up in the wake of last night's heavy rain and which added three to four strokes to nearly every card, Laffoon came in with a 69 which brought his total to 200, 16 under regulation figures for the first three rounds.

In the second place with a 202 was Herman Keiser, Akron, O., who shot a two under par 70 today.

Harry Todd, Dallas, and George Fazio, the Canadian open champion from Los Angeles, tied with 204's in third position. They were one stroke ahead of Big Jim Ferrier, the first round leader and five-times Australian open champion.

One stroke back of Ferrier was Dale Morey, the former Louisiana State University basketball and golf star who held an equal advantage over George Payton of Hamton, Va., E. J. (Dutch) Harrison of Little Rock, and Ed Furgol, Pontiac, Mich.

O'Neal (Buck) White of Greenwood, Miss., co-lead with Laffon at the end of yesterday's round, slipped badly when his putter failed him. He dropped from first to a seventh place tie with veteran Jimmy Hines, Chicago, at 208.

The Mississippian, a former tan man in Patton's third army, posted five over par 77, putting him almost out of the running for top money.

Four pros ended up in an eight place tie with 209 cards. They were Toney Penna, Cincinnati; Movie Actor Joe Kirkwood, Jr., Hollywood; Johnny Palmer, Badin, N. C.; and Fred Haas, Jr., New Orleans.

Just behind was Bob Hamilton, Chicago; Skip Alexander, Lexington, N. C.; and Ellsworth Vines, Los Angeles, all of whom had 210.

M'NEESE COWBOYS DOWN HOUSTON ELEVEN, 20 TO

LAKE CHARLES, La., Oct. 12—(AP)—John McNeese Junior College Cowboys defeated the University of Houston's "B" eleven here last night, 20-0. The game was played on a field made slippery by an all-day rain.

Coach Albert Ratcliff used his first stringers to pile up the three-touchdown lead in the first half and then let reserves finish out the game.

Wayne Kingery galloped 37 yards for the first McNeese touchdown in the opening period and Jack Trouard followed with another soon afterwards. Reed Stevens went across for the third marker in the second period.

END RECORD

BATON ROUGE, La.—Clyde Lindsey and Fullback Gene "Red" Knight, both All Southeastern Conference performers, will graduate next spring with the all-time honor of having garnered 12 varsity letter awards in three sports for four years.

REST PROPERTY
On Highway 80 for country home. 100 acres, 7 miles out. Immediate possession. This property on market for first time. Monroe needs a high class modern tourist court and restaurant on beautiful Highway 80 to catch the heavy incoming and outgoing tourist and traveling trade that our hotels can't possibly take care of. I have the ideal spot 7 miles from the new traffic bridge, West Monroe. 100 acres bordering ½ mile on paved Highway 80. Gas, water, lights, gorgeous trees. All under good fence. 80 acres cleared, good fertile land. Has 2 houses, barn, out houses. Purchaser can retain a portion and resell acreage for truck farms, poultry farms, dairies, etc. Has fine spring water, grazing range and timber sections. A first class gravel road completely circles the 100 acres. This would be ideal for a country home or club house. $16,000. Can be financed. Write Box 800, Monroe, La., or phone 883 after 5 p. m. or before 8 a. m.

BEST PROPERTY
On Highway 80 for country home. 100 acres, 7 miles out. Immediate possession. This property on market for first time. Monroe needs a high class modern tourist court and restaurant on beautiful Highway 80 to catch the heavy incoming and outgoing tourist and traveling trade that our hotels can't possibly take care of. I have the ideal spot 7 miles from the new traffic bridge, West Monroe. 100 acres bordering 1/2 mile on paved Highway 80. Gas, water, lights, gorgeous trees. All under good fence. 80 acres cleared, good fertile land. Has 2 houses, barn, out houses. Purchaser can retain a portion and resell acreage for truck farms, poultry farms, dairies, etc. Has fine spring water, grazing range and timber sections. A first class gravel road completely circles the 100 acres. This would be ideal for a country home or club house. $16,000. Can be financed. Write Box 800, Monroe, La., or phone 883 after 5 p. m. or before 8 a. m.

BATON ROUGE, La., Oct. 12—(AP)—The mighty Louisiana State University Tigers struck repeatedly through the air tonight to defeat an ever-fighting but outclassed Texas A. and M. eleven 33 to 9 before an estimated 36,000.

The L.S.U. squad scored three times on forward passes and once on a lateral after Gene (Red) Knight, hard-driving Tiger fullback ended a 42-yard drive by plunging nine yards for the first Tiger touchdown.

For a time it appeared that the Texas visitors would keep the score close. Shortly after the L.S.U. initial touchdown, the Aggies open an aerial attack of their own with Leo Daniel, substitute quarterback, doing the tossing. Tom Pickett, another Texas A. and M. sub at halfback, took a 19-yard toss for the only Aggie touchdown.

However, Louisiana struck back hard and before the half ended were leading 14 to 7. The second Tiger score came on a pass from Y. A Tittle to Jim Cason, good for 19 yards and a touchdown.

The Aggies chalked up two points in the third period when Cotton Howell blocked Knight's punt behind the goal line but L.S.U. went ahead a few minutes later Tittle passed to Al Heroman, who scampered 26 yards for the score.

Heroman emerged as one of the heroes of the game when he came back in the Tigers big fourth period and suffered 66 yards for another touchdown after receiving a lateral from Tittle.

The Aggies hustled in the fourth period in an effort to stop a determined Tiger attack but Heroman's brilliant run and a pass from Ray Coates to Mel Lyle, covering 35 yards, added two more touchdowns before the final whistle sounded. Holly Heard added three extra points for L.S.U. from placement.

NEVILLE TIGERS HAVE OPEN DATE

Ruple's Bengals Meet Ruston Next In Homecoming Game October 25

The Neville High School Tigers, licking their wounds yesterday after a hard fought defeat at the hands of the Jonesboro-Hodge Tigers here Thursday night, will have an open date this week before appearing in their homecoming struggle with the tough Ruston High School Bearcats here Oct. 25.

Neville, although downed by Jonesboro, still has a long chance of bouncing back into the district Class A title race if successful in beating Ruston, Winnfield, and Bastrop in succession. Jonesboro has been once-beaten, losing to Bastrop, and at this stage of the chase the charges of "Red" Thomas at Bastrop, and "Hoss" Garrett's Bearcats are the top contenders of the northeast district.

Coach Bill Ruple last night expressed himself as pleased with the performance put up by his Tigers against the heavier Jackson parish eleven but opined he would have been more than satisfied if Neville had been able to upset their Jonesboro rivals.

The play of the Neville line is to be commended for holding the J-H Tigers to their single touchdown, and the second-guessers figure that it might have been an entirely different story if "Bucky" McElroy, ace ball carrier for the locals, had not been put out of the game midway of the second quarter. The locals are confident McElroy would have been able to break free once or twice to at least tie up or win the contest.

Rudolph Bedgood, the 200-pound Neville tackle and biggest of Tiger linemen, turned in his most magnificent game of the season against J-H, doing an even better job against the tough Jackson parish outfit than he did in Neville's rout of Junction City two weeks before. His running mate, Harry Pribble, who holds down left tackle, also played a fine game, but had to go out in the last quarter with an ankle injury.

Pribble was said to have suffered a slight fracture, but it was reported he expected to be fully recovered in time for the Ruston game.

Guard Ronald Gunter closely pushed Bedgood, Neville's all-state candidate, and Pribble as a Tiger defensive standout, but it took the combined efforts of the Neville line, including J. W. Jackson, Roy Brennan, Merrell Greenwell, and Buster Stevens to hold their rivals in check, and several times they held for downs when J-H touchdowns seemed certain.

Clark Gable worked as a theater callboy for two years.

22,647 BASS, BREAM PLACED IN DESIARD IN RESTOCKING PROGRAM

For the purpose of improving game fishing in Bayou DeSiard, work was completed the past week in restocking the bayou here with 22,647 fish weighing a total of 1,048, it was announced yesterday by Joe A. Combs, member of the Ouachita Sportsmen's League, a unit of the Louisiana Wild Life Federation.

The work of restocking the stream from the fish hatchery here was undertaken by the Sportsmen's League and the parish game and fish commission with the permission of Major James Brown of the state wild life and fish division of the state department of conservation.

Combs said the fish used in the restocking process were bream and black bass. He said 6,225 bream weighing 252 pounds, and 16,422 black bass weighing 796 pounds had been placed in Bayou DeSiard at points ranging from the Blanks Parker home to the city pump station at the mouth of the bayou.

LOCAL AMATEUR BOXERS IN FIRST CARD TOMORROW

Harold Cornett Slashes Wth 'Stick' Atkins In I. C. Club's Main Event

The Illinois Central Service Club's amateur boxers, after about a month of preparations, present their fistic program here tomorow night with an eight-bout card at the club's recently erected arena on DeSiard street near the I. C. railroad passenger station, it was announced last night by Curtis Johnson, club, president.

Main event of the evening will be the battle between Harold Cornett, Monroe, former Neville High School boxer who also compiled quite a fistic record with the U. S. marines, and James "Stick" Atkins, 138-pounder of Bastrop who was an outstanding member of the Bastrop Rams' football team in recent years.

Another pair of Monroe and Bastrop boys will tangle in the semi-final, according to Matchmaker Mickey Head.

The semi-finalists are Aubrey Young, also a former Neville mittslinger, and "Wig" Riley, 140, and a contemporary of Atkins' with the Ram gridders.

The Monroe-Bastrop setups recall the feud of nearly two decades ago when matches between scrappers of the rival cities produced lots of excitement on local cards, and tomorrow's will be the first such fights between Monroe and Bastrop boys since Dee Keltner, Monroe, fought his rousing duels with the late Wilmer "Squatty" Young in the late 1920s.

Other fights on the card were listed by Matchmaker Head as follows:

80 pounds: Lee Cappo, Monroe, vs. Jim Cook or R. Riley, Bastrop.

112 pounds: Cordell Houston, Monroe, vs. P. Tugwell, Bastrop.

150 pounds: Travis Houston or June Wood, both of Monroe, vs. Norris L. Ray, Bastrop.

139 pounds: Joe Cappo, Monroe, vs. Alton Roberts, Monroe.

A pair of preliminary bouts between Negro boxers will open the night's show at 8 o'clock.

Darnell Kinnard, 150-pound Negro with eight years experience, will tangle with George Washington, 149, who boasts seven years experience, and Matchmaker Head declared the dusky boys would give the fans one of the night's best fights. The other Negro match had not been definitely decided on last night.

MEXICAN AFTER MOBLEY'S TITLE

Francisco Aguaya Tries For Light Heavyweight Mat Belt Thursday

Francisco Aguaya, clever Mexican light heavyweight sensation who defeated Jack "Stinger" Steele in his local debut the past week, gets a shot at Rex Mobley's world's championship belt here next Thursday night, Promoter Gus Kallia said yesterday.

The Mexico City tussler challenged for the title recently but was rebuffed by Mobley who demanded that he "beat somebody I know" first. Last week Kallio matched Aguya against Steele, former champion and himself a leading contender for Mobley's belt and Mobley had little choice after the Mexican stopped Steele except to heed the challenge.

Last Thursday night Steele won the first fall with his old throat stomping tactics, but Aguaya using the same holds with which Mobley is famed, came back with a rolling leg split to take the second fall. The deciding fall went to the Mexican when Steele was disqualified following a fracus with Billy Barney.

Steele, objecting to Barney's demands, threw the referee out of the ring, and then punched him when he returned to the ring to break an illegal hold the Sioux City Indian had on Aguaya. Barney socked Steele back and raced over to raise the Mexican's arm in victory.

The Mobley-Aguaya match should be as "even" as any Kallio has produced in a title-match line, with only the fact that Mobley is champion giving him the edge. The champ and the challenger are of the same build and weight and use about the same methods of wrestling.

Supporting the championship scramble will be the appearance of old "Sailor" Watkins, who claims about the fanciest set of cauliflower ears in the mat business today, against Jimmy Howard, Belleville, Wisc.. Watkins, once won a popularity contest sponsored here by Kallio when he first began promoting locally, but the ex-sailor hasn't wrestled here in over three years.

Howard, discharged from the army just four months ago, is herald as the same type of wresler as Billy Hickson, the Knoxville flash, who defeated Allen Parker here the past week. It will be Howard's first appearance on a Kallio card, but in the four months he has been out of service he has wresled in the east and on the west coast.

Bill Barney and Kallio will share the refereeing Thursday.

BATON ROUGE, La.—A conscientious believer in physical development and muscle manufacturing is Walter "Piggy" Barnes, Louisiana State's All-American tackle candidate, who reigns as Southern A. A. U. weight-lifting king, and who in 1941 was an amateur wrestling champion before enlisting for a five-year hitch in the army. And, to prove there is something besides muscular development between his auditory devices, powerful "Piggy" is an honor roll student.

DEFENDS TRIAL OF ARCHBISHOP

Ambassador Kosanovic Takes Issue With Undersecretary Acheson

WASHINGTON, Oct. 12.—(AP)—Ambassador Sava N. Kosanovic of Yugoslavia lashed back at Undersecretary of State Dean Acheson today for criticizing the Stepinac trial "although admitting he had only superficial press reports."

The envoy's statement insisted that Catholic Archbishop Alojzije Stepinac had a fair trial on charges of axis collaboration and that "every one of his acts would be punishable under American law."

Moreover, Kosanovic specifically denied Acheson's remark that the United States had been compelled to take up with the Yugoslavs a "very considerable number" of trials of American citizens which were "unfairly conducted."

The ambassador said only one American citizen had been tried in Yugoslavia, that Ambassador Richard C. Patterson publicly stated the trial was fair, and that the only dispute between Belgrade and Washington was whether the man had diplomatic immunity.

In that case an American embassy chauffeur named Wedge was condemned to eight years imprisonment on the charge that he killed one person and seriously wounded another, Kosanovic explained.

With respect to this, a state department spokesman told reporters there actually had been many cases, although no information as to what they involved has been given out here.

The spokesman would not go into any detail. However, there have been reports in diplomatic quarters that the American government has been concerned for many months over the treatment of persons holding American citizenship who have lived in Yugoslavia for many years and whose citizenship is considered by Marshal Tito's government to be Yugoslavian.

Acheson spoke out at a news conference yesterday in response to what he said were requests for comment on Stepinac's trial and sentence to 16 years' hard labor. He said the main question was one of civil liberties in Yugoslavia and that the American government wondered whether there was anything in the Stepinac trial tending toward impairment of religious freedom. Moreover, he expressed concern over whether the trial was unfairly conducted.

Kosanovic replied:

1. That "those who attack Yugoslavia in the Stepinac case take the position that because Dr. Stepinac is archbishop of the Catholic church he has a priviliged position before the law."

2. That it is not "in the interest of the Catholic church to defend such crimes as those of which Stepinac is guilty and in effect to identify itself with these crimes."

3. That the Yugoslav constitution "like the American" guarantees the "equality of citizens" and that any act granting privileges to persons or limiting their rights "because of differences of nationality, race or creed" is unconstitutional.

The ambassador reviewed the alleged misdeeds of the Catholic leadand declared that "under his direct authority criminal acts were organized against national unity and the existence of the state."

NEGRO ABANDONS CORONER'S RACE

Withdrawal Apparently Leaves 23 White Candidates Free To Run

ATLANTA, Oct. 12.—(AP)—A Negro educator was out of the Fulton county coroner's race today to avoid "racial" conflict and it appeared from hectic events surrounding his withdrawal that 23 white candidates all were free to go ahead and run for the job.

Fearful that a split white vote would put the Negro into office with solid backing from voters of his race, the 23 white candidates yesterday agreed, none too willingly, to center support on one of their number.

When the list officially closed today, however, none of them had withdrawn and it was assumed that they still were candidates. County Democratic Chairman W. A. Lynn said that, "in fairness to all," he was considering calling a meeting to rescind formally the selection of Ed L. Almand as the sole white candidate.

The name of Aurelius S. Scott, the Negro candidate, was scratched from the list on the strength of a withdrawal he hastily penned at the behest of the Democratic county executive committee.

Warned by an attorney that by calling for Scott's withdrawal the committee members might lay themselves open to federal prosecution for civil rights violation, the committee rescinded its action and sought to keep the written withdrawal from going into the record.

It was filed by the county ordinary regardless, stating over Scott's signature: "It was noted that I be required to withdraw and this I did."

Scott, emphasizing that he did not want to "make a racial issue," said he was baffled—"I just don't know what I'm to do."

Members of the Democratic executive committee were none to certain about developments themselves. Several courthouse observers expressed apprehension that a basis for federal action on a civil liberties count had been established.

CRACK-DOWN ON BUILDERS BEGUN

OPA Threatens 'Criminal Prosecution' Where Necessary

WASHINGTON, Oct. 12.—(AP)—The OPA tonight launched a nationwide crack-down on builders or others who violate ceiling price and veterans' preference regulations of the housing program, promising "criminal prosecution" where necessary.

A specially trained force of OPA agents will take the field Monday to press the drive in cooperation with more than 500 local OPA rent offices.

The announcement came as Senator Wiley (R-Wis) of the senate judiciary committee released correspondence with Attorney General Clark and Price Administrator Porter questioning the right of OPA agents to carry arms and make arrests.

Wiley wrote the officials last month that there is "some question as to the present legal authority for actions of the OPA enforcement staff" and demanded to know under what law they were acting.

Porter cited a statute which he said gives the agents the power to make arrests and added that "the right to carry weapons for defense necessarily flows from" that power. Clark promised his reply later.

In the housing enforcement drive, Porter's statement said that the "maximum voluntary compliance" is sought but that "cases requiring criminal prosecution will be certified to the attorney general's office."

Reporting that a "substantial number of complaints of violations" already had been received, an OPA official told a reporter the drive will be OPA's first steps in taking over enforcement duties recently delegated to it by the national housing agency.

"We do not have a flood of complaints," he said. "But we have a substantial number, especially in certain areas. This campaign is intended not only to check up on complaints already received, but to establish a permanent safeguard for veterans' rights under the emergency housing program."

Complaints already received, the official added, include charges that some builders have over-priced new houses, offered houses for sale or rent in return for side payments, and violated regulations giving veterans first preference in purchase or rental of new homes built with the aid of government priorities for materials.

EXPECT APPROVAL OF CONSTITUTION

PARIS, Oct. 12.—(AP)—The interior ministry predicted today that 20,000,000 French voters will approve the new constitution by a 55 per cent "yes" vote in tomorrow's referendum, despite Gen. de Gaulle's appeal to the people to reject the charter on the grounds it would imperil the future of France.

But a last-minute atmosphere of caution was apparent at the ministry, and leaders of the Communist, Socialist and MRP parties, who drafted and supported the document, were less confident than they were a week ago.

The ministry's forecast jibed with agreement among most neutral observers that the proposed new basic law for the Fourth Republic—the second to be drafted this year—would be accepted. It was recalled, however, that the interior ministry which made today's prediction made a similar prediction last May when the voters rejected a proposed constitution by a majority of more than a million votes.

This time, however, President Georges Bidault's MRP, which opposed the constitution last May, supposedly is in the "yes" camp. The three major parties which are plumping for the new constitution garnered 15,000,000 votes in last June's elections, compared with 5,000,000 for the radical Socialists and Rightists groups who oppose the constitution.

Chief worry of the leaders of the major parties is that many Frenchmen will vote against the charter as an expression of dissatisfaction over side issues, such as the election law or the number of scandals exposed in the food rationing system in the last week.

Approximately 20,000,000 voters are expected to go to the polls to answer the single question: "Do you approve the constitution adopted by the national constituent assembly?"

No one shrugs off the importance of de Gaulle's opposition, which may influence a large majority of independent voters and a sizeable fraction of Bidault's MRP which considers de Gaulle its unofficial leader.

Bogota is called the Athens of South America.

PARKVIEW WILL HOLD REVIVALS

New Northside Church To Have Series Of Services

The Parkview Baptist Church is holding a series of revival services beginning October 13. The young and growing congregation is looking forward to the coming Tucker Revival which will continue each weekday evening with two services on Sunday. Evening services begin at 7:30.

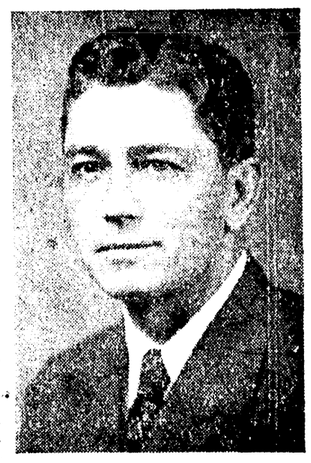

Rev. C. P. Coaker, the pastor, will do the preaching in this meeting. Rev. Coaker is no stranger in Louisiana. He was moved to Louisiana early in his life and he was reared in Grant parish and attended high school at Winnfield. He made his bachelor of arts degree at Louisiana College in Pineville, his bachelor of divinity in the New Orleans Baptist Theological Seminary, and his master of arts degree in the Louisiana State University.

In spite of the fact that he is a young man, Rev. Coaker has had varied experiences which fit him well for the position he holds as pastor of a live new upcoming church and to do the preaching for the revival. Before going into the armed forces he held several pastorates in Louisiana and one in Clinton, Ky. He served 39 months in the Pacific theater of war. He understands the problems of men and boys of today and is a broad view of the world situation and the need of each one.

Dr. I. E. Cole will lead the singing for the revival. Dr. Cole is a member of the First Church of West Monroe. He was a radio artist when called to do gospel singing and has just returned from an engagement in Texas. Dr. Rodeheaver said of Cole: "We have had Irvin Cole at our music conferences several times and he is outstanding in the field of evangelistic music."

And "Florence" will be there too. Florence is Mrs. Irvin Cole and a wonderful accompanist. She has had varied experiences on concert stage, in radio and church and displays exceptional talent in her music.

Parkview Baptist Church is offering every support possible to these Christian workers and extends an urgent invitation to the people of Monroe and West Monroe to hear Rev. Coaker and Dr. and Mrs. Cole each evening at 7:30 in Georgia Tucker School auditorium.

MARINE CORPS TO HAVE REHEARSAL

Final arrangements for formal installation of officers, assistance in preparations for Navy Day and plans for celebration of the marine corps' birthday anniversary will receive major consideration at Tuesday night's meeting of the Northeast Louisiana Detachment of the Marine Corps League.

The meeting is scheduled for 8:00 o'clock and will be held in the courtroom on the third floor of the Ouachita parish courthouse. However, a rehearsal of the installation ceremony is slated to precede the meeting. It is set for 7 o'clock.

The installation will take place at a banquet Friday night, October 18. The time and place will be determined at the meeting.

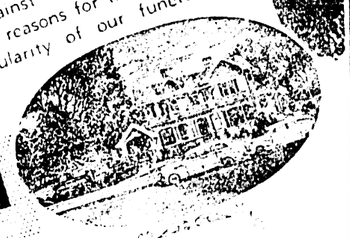

As former members of a branch of the naval service, personnel of the detachment will have a part in the local observance of Navy Day.

The birthday anniversary of the marine corps falls on November 10. Plans have already been evolved for a display of World War II souvenirs accumulated by local members during their service with the corps in the Pacific.

CUB PACK TO MEET

Cub Pack 34 will meet Tuesday at 7:30 p. m. in the Methodist Church annex, Cubmaster Alex Lee said Saturday. Parents friends and cubs are invited to attend this meeting.

PARKVIEW WILL HOLD REVIVALS

New Northside Church To Have Series Of Services

The Parkview Baptist Church will begins a series of revival services today, October 13. This young and growing church is domiciled presently in the Georgia Tucker School building and therefore week-day services will be held at night only, with both morning and evening services on Sunday. Evening services begin at 7:30.

Rev. Colon P. Coaker, the pastor, will do the preaching in this meeting. Rev. Coaker is no stranger in Louisiana. His parents moved to Louisiana early in his life and he was reared in Grant parish and attended high school in Winnfield. He made his bachelor of arts degree at Louisiana College in Pineville, his bachelor of divinity in the New Orleans Baptist Theological Seminary, and his master of arts degree in the Louisiana State University.

In spite of the fact that he is a young man, Rev. Coaker has had varied experiences which fit him well for the position he holds as pastor of a fine, new up-coming church and to do the preaching for its first revival. Before going into the armed forces he held several pastorates in Louisiana and one in Clinton, Ky. He served 39 months as chaplain, 31 of which were in the European theater of war. He understands the problems of men and boys of today, has a broad view of the world situation and the needs of a chaotic era.

Dr. Irvin E. Cole will lead the singing for the revival. Dr. Cole is a member of the First Church of West Monroe. He was a radio artist when called to do gospel singing and has just returned from an engagement in Texas. Dr. Rodeheaver said of Cole: "We have had Irvin Cole at our music conferences several times and he is outstanding in the field of evangelistic music."

And "Florence" will be there too. Florence is Mrs. Irvin Cole and a wonderful accompanist. She has had varied experiences on concert stage, in radio and church and displays exceptional talent in her music.

Parkview Baptist Church is offering every support possible to these Christian workers and extends an urgent invitation to the people of Monroe and West Monroe to hear Rev. Coaker and Dr. and Mrs. Cole each evening at 7:30 in Georgia Tucker School auditorium.

MARINE CORPS TO HAVE REHEARSAL

Final arrangements for formal installation of officers, assistance in preparations for Navy Day and plans for celebration of the marine corps' birthday anniversary will receive major consideration at Tuesday night's meeting of the Northeast Louisiana Detachment of the Marine Corps League.

The meeting is scheduled for 8:00 o'clock and will be held in the courtroom on the third floor of the Ouachita parish courthouse. However, a rehearsal of the installation ceremony is slated to precede the meeting. It is set for 7 o'clock.

The inctallation will take place at a banquet Friday night, October 18. The time and place will be determined at the meeting.

As former members of a branch of the naval service, personnel of the detachment will have a part in the local observance of Navy Day.

The birthday anniversary of the marine corps falls on November 10. Plans have already been evolved for a display of World War II souvenirs accumulated by local residents during their service with the corps in the Pacific.

CUB PACK TO MEET

Cub Pack 34 will meet Tuesday at 7:30 p. m. in the Methodist Church annex, Cubmaster Alex Lea said Saturday. Parents, friends and cubs are invited to attend this meeting.

Mrs. Sharp Gives Splendid Talk

Understanding Between Parents And Teachers Stressed At P.-T. A. Conference

"The Parent Teacher program affords the machinery for an effective cooperative effort between parent and teacher in the highly important job of educating the child," Mrs. Roger P. Sharp, Louisiana State Parent-Teacher Association president, said in an address entitled "Home-School Relationships." Speaking at the annual fall district conference at the Monroe Recreation Center, she stressed the vital need of a coordination of the parent-teacher viewpoint for the good of the child.

"Parents are likely to think in terms of the welfare of their own children. Teachers are obliged to think in terms of the welfare of the entire group entrusted to them. In order that these somewhat conflicting points of view do not cause serious problems, discussion, exchange of opinion, better understanding of each other and of the children involved are essential," Mrs. Sharp said.

"First of all parents need to have better understanding of children and their behavior. Parents have had no formal education in the art of parenthood or family relationships.

"The P. T. A. has an important function in developing better understanding of children. In each issue of the Parent-Teacher Magazine articles written by the best known authorities in the country are concerned with various aspects of child behavior. Study courses designed for small groups of parents are based on another series of articles in the magazine. The State P. T. A. prepared and distributed a study course on sex education. Many subjects suggested for the regular programs of the association are based on the serious efforts of parents to make better parents of themselves."

Mrs. Sharp concluded in stating "Parents and teachers must understand each other, must work together, and must have confidence in each other if the schools are to do a successful job. Parents and teachers must understand the schools and must love the schools and must interpret the schools to the entire community."

Mrs. M. L. DeFreese, Fifth District Director, presided at the meeting.

Assembly singing was led by Mr. O. F. Ware, Crosley PTA, pianist Mrs. Bernice Andrews, Millsaps PTA.

Invocation was given by Rev. W. C. Mason.

Mrs. R. F. Seiler, president of Sherrouse PTA, hostesses for the conference, welcomed the delegates from the twenty units in the Fifth District. Response was given by Mrs. W. E. Smith of Claiborne PTA.

The morning session was given over to talks by Miss Ethel K. Muse, Social Analyst, State Department of Public Welfare, and Mr. Walter E. Purdy, Music Chairman of the State Parent Teacher Association.

Miss Muse had for her subject "Character Education of Children and Young People." She said in part: "The best thing parents can do for their children is to enjoy them. A child's greatest need is for a feeling of security. He gets this feeling chiefly from being loved and enjoyed by his parents. Wise training consists of firmness without harshness.

Mr. Purdy of the State Department of Education spoke on "Music for All." He said, "People act the way they feel, and music dealing with emotions can have unlimited effect upon the conduct of pupils." "We should learn to appreciate all types of music. Starting with the familiar, we try to elevate the child's appreciation of better music through mediums of popular appeal. As the child's appreciation of music develops he becomes a more cultured individual, developing a keen sense of discrimination first between 'chop-suey jazz' and the Gershwin, Kostelanetz and Waring types—and so on through programme music to the final appreciation of all music."

"Sing with your children and let them feel that music is important—then buy them phonographs so that they can listen to the great wealth of phonograph records for children—not only music records, but also records of poetry and stories. The child should learn to respond creatively to all sorts of rhythms and moods expressed in music during the preschool period and later."

"If the family altar should exist there should be records appropriate to this institution along with other records which will interest all of the little friends of our boys and girls.

"Let the home be the center of activity, permitting the child to invite his friends over, but provide a good radio, records, a piano.

After luncheon served at the snack bar by members of Sherrouse P. T. A. Miss Louise Guidry addressed the group on "How P. T. A. Can Assist With Local Health Problems."

Excellent Papers Feature Literary Club Program

Mrs. S. E. Morris, president of the Monroe Literary Club, presided over the October meeting at the new recreation center.

Mrs. Julius Chandler introduced Miss Jean Bonhom, child welfare supervisor for Ouachita parish, who spoke on the "Foster Home" program. She mentioned that 75 children are in foster homes in this parish, sponsored by this program, and urged club members to interest themselves in the needs of underprivileged children in the community. Several specific cases were discussed, and the club voted to lend its support to this program.

Mrs. P. E. Massey brought the club's attention to an article in the convention issue of the Club Woman called "Politics and the Sleeping Beauty," written by Fanny Hurst.

Three delegates and their alternates were designated to attend the State Convention at Hotel Bentley, Alexandria, La., on Nov. 7, 8 and 9th. They are Mrs. J. R. Roark and her alternate, Mrs. W. L. Jones; Mrs. P. E. Massey and her alternate, Mrs. J. E. Shannon, and Mrs. S. E. Morris, and her alternate, Mrs. Sidney Karr. Mrs. Julius Chandler will attend the convention as state press and publicity chairman.

The program chairman, Mrs. Guy DuPriest, introduced Mrs. Edwin Crowley, who gave a splendid talk on a "Challenge to Youth" adapted from a speech delivered by Lord Halifax at Oxford, England.

Mrs. J. R. Roark followed on the program with a paper entitled "Youth" adults to be up-right, forward-thinking models for the youth of the world, and the need for well adjusted homes and wholesome activities, to give the teen-age youngster the opportunity to become a well-balanced adult.

Mr. A. J. Maricella showed a moving picture to the club which focused on the building of fine youth, through clean sports, and in which Grantland Rice was the central figure.

At the conclusion of the program, the hostesses, Mrs. Julius Chandler, Mrs. A. B. Colmer and Mrs. Edwin Crowley, served delicious refreshments to the following:

Mmes: W. T. Ellis, Guy DuPriest, L. B. Herron, W. L. Jones, Sidney Karr, R. M. Kettenring, P. E. Massey, C. E. McGee, C. D. Adams, S. E. Morris, B. F. Parnell, J. R. Roark, J. E. Shannon, Victor Weber, J. W. Womack, S. E. Holloway and Z. T. Stone.

BRIDE OF RECENT DATE

Mrs. James C. Kelly, Jr., the former Miss Marie Haywood, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. D. L. Thrasher, of West Monroe, whose marriage was celebrated recently. The bride is a graduate of Northeast Junior College where she received recognition in scholarship and in various campus organizations including, Phi Theta Kappa, national junior college honor society. At the time of his discharge Mr. Kelly was with the United States Marine Corps.

Miss Ferrington Is The Bride Of Mr. C. Hathaway

The marriage of Miss Ruth Ferrington, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Lloyd Ferrington, of this city and Mr. Courtlace Hathaway, son of Mr. and Mrs. E. L. Hathaway, also of this city was solemnized Wednesday, Oct. 2 at 7 o'clock in the Gordon Avenue Methodist Church, with the Rev. Mason officiating in the presence of friends and relatives.

The church was beautifully decorated with pink and white dahlias. Tapers in floor chandeliers were lighted by Mr. Ray Ferrington, the bride's brother, and Mr. Joseph Robertson, the groom's brother-in-law.

The nuptial music was rendered by by E. M. Wooten who sang "I Love Thee," by Grieg, and "Because" by D'Hardlot. The traditional wedding marches were used.

The bride, given in marriage by her father, wore a white nylon crepe suit and a corsage of pink carnations and tube roses. Miss Blanche Ferrington, the bride's sister, and only attendant, wore a dress of aqua wool with brown accessories and a corsage of Talisman roses.

The groom's brother, Mr. Robert Hathaway, served as best man.

Following the wedding an informal reception was held in the home of the bride's parents. The spacious living room and dining room was decorated with pink and white dahlias. The bride's table, overlaid with a lace cloth, was adorned with a plaque of white dahlias, encircled with crystal candellabras holding white tapers. The three-tier wedding cake was placed at one end of the table, and a crystal punch bowl at the other end.

Assisting in serving were: Mrs. Eula Schlekau, and Miss Ida Walker. Mrs. Myrtis Allison presided over the punch bowl.

The bride and groom left immediately after the reception for a short honeymoon in Houston and Galveston, Tex.

Mrs. Hathaway is a graduate of Neville High School and B. M. I. Business School.

Mr. Hathaway is a graduate of Neville High School and served 18 months overseas with the armed forces. After returning from overseas he was employed by the Missouri and Pacific Railroad.

Mrs. Sharp Gives Splendid Talk

Understanding Between Parents And Teachers Stressed At P.-T. A. Conference

"The Parent Teacher program affords the machinery for an effective cooperative effort between parent and teacher in the highly important job of educating the child," Mrs. Roger P. Sharp, Louisiana State Parent-Teacher Association president, said in an address entitled "Home-School Relationships." Speaking at the annual fall district conference at the Monroe Recreation Center, she stressed the vital need of a coordination of the parent-teacher viewpoint for the good of the child.

"Parents are likely to think in terms of the welfare of their own children. Teachers are obliged to think in terms of the welfare of the entire group entrusted to them. In order that these somewhat conflicting points of view do not cause serious problems, discussion, exchange of opinion, better understanding of each other and of the children involved are essential," Mrs. Sharp said.

"First of all parents need to have better understanding of children and their behavior. Parents have had no formal education in the art of parenthood or family relationships.

"The P. T. A. has an important function in developing better understanding of children. In each issue of the Parent-Teacher Magazine articles written by the best known authorities in the country are concerned with various aspects of child behavior. Study courses designed for small groups of parents are based on another series of articles in the magazine. The State P. T. A. prepared and distributed a study course on sex education. Many subjects suggested for the regular programs of the association are based on the serious efforts of parents to make better parents of themselves."

Mrs. Sharp concluded in stating "Parents and teachers must understand each other, must work together, and must have confidence in each other if the schools are to do a successful job. Parents and teachers must understand the schools and must love the schools and must interpret the schools to the entire community."

Mrs. M. L. DeFreese, Fifth District Director, presided at the meeting.

Assembly singing was led by Mr. O. F. Watts, Crosley PTA, pianist Mrs. Bennie Andrews, Millsaps PTA.

Invocation was given by Rev. W. C. Mason.

Mrs. R. F. Seiler, president of Sherrouse PTA, hostesses for the conference, welcomed the delegates from the twenty units in the Fifth District. Response was given by Mrs. W. E. Smith of Claiborne PTA.

The morning session was given over to talks by Miss Ethel K. Muse, Social Analyst, State Department of Public Welfare, and Mr. Walter E. Purdy, Music Chairman of the State Parent Teacher Association.

Miss Muse had for her subject "Character Education of Children and Young People." She said in part: "The best thing parents can do for their children is to enjoy them. A child's greatest need is for a feeling of security. He gets this feeling chiefly from being loved and enjoyed by his parents. Wise training consists of firmness without harshness.

Mr. Purdy of the State Department of Education spoke on "Music for All." He said: "People act the way they feel, and music dealing with emotions can have unlimited effect upon the conduct of pupils." "We should learn to appreciate all types of music. Starting with the familiar, we try to elevate the child's appreciation of better music through mediums of popular appeal. As the child's appreciation of music develops he becomes a more cultured individual, developing a keen sense of discrimination first between 'chop-suey jazz' and the Gershwin, Kostelanetz and Waring types—and so on through programme music to the final appreciation of all music."

"Sing with your children and let them feel that music is important—then buy them phonographs so that they can listen to the great wealth of phonograph records for children—not only music records, but also records of poetry and stories. The child should learn to respond creatively to all sorts of rhythms and moods expressed in music during the preschool period and later."

"If the family altar should exist there should be records appropriate to this institution along with other records which will interest all of the little friends of our boys and girls.

"Let the home be the center of activity, permitting the child to invite his friends over, but provide a good radio, records, a piano.

BRIDE OF RECENT DATE

Mrs. James C. Kelly, Jr., the former Miss Marie Haywood, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. D. L. Thrasher, of West Monroe, whose marriage was celebrated recently. The bride is a graduate of Northeast Junior College where she received recognition in scholarship and in various campus organizations including, Phi Theta Kappa, national junior college honor society. At the time of his discharge Mr. Kelly was with the United States Marine Corps.

Excellent Papers Feature Literary Club Program

Mrs. S. E. Morris, president of the Monroe Literary Club, presided over the October meeting at the new recreation center.

Mrs. Julius Chandler introduced Miss Jean Bonhom, child welfare supervisor for Ouachita parish, who spoke on the "Foster Home" program. She mentioned that 75 children are in foster homes in this parish, sponsored by this program, and urged club members to interest themselves in the needs of underprivileged children in the community. Several specific cases were discussed, and the club voted to lend its support to this program.

Mrs. P. E. Massey brought the club's attention to an article in the convention issue of the Club Woman called "Politics and the Sleeping Beauty," written by Fanny Hurst.

Three delegates and their alternates were designated to attend the Sttae Convention at Hotel Bentley, Alexandria, La., on Nov. 7, 8 and 9th. They are Mrs. J. R. Roark and her alternate, Mrs. W. L. Jones; Mrs. P. E. Massey and her alternate, Mrs. J. E. Shannon, and Mrs. S. E. Morris, and her alternate, Mrs. Sidney Karr. Mrs. Julius Chandler will attend the convention as state press and publicity chairman.

The program chairman, Mrs. Guy DuPriest, introduced Mrs. Edwin Crowley, who gave a splendid talk on a "Challenge to Youth" adapted from a speech delivered by Lord Halifax at Oxford, England.

Mrs. J. R. Roark followed on the program with a paper entitled "Youth" adults to be up-right, forward-thinking models for the youth of the world, and the need for well adjusted homes and wholesome activities, to give the tenn-age youngster the opportunity to become a well-balanced adult.

Mr. A. J. Maricella showed a moving picture to the club which focused on the building of fine youth, through clean sports, and in which Grantland Rice was the central figure.

At the conclusion of the program, the hostesses, Mrs. Julius Chandler, Mrs. A. B. Colmer and Mrs. Edwin Crowley, served delicious refreshments to the following:

Mmes: W. T. Ellis, Guy DuPriest, L. B. Herron, W. L. Jones, Sidney Karr, R. M. Kettenring, P. E. Massey, C. E. McGee, C. D. Adams, S. E. Morris, B. F. Parnell, J. R. Roark, J. E. Shannon, Victor Weber, J. W. Womack, S. E. Holloway and Z. T. Stone.

Miss Ferrington Is The Bride Of Mr. C. Hathaway

The marriage of Miss Ruth Ferrington, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Lloyd Ferrington, of this city and Mr. Courtlace Hathaway, son of Mr. and Mrs. E. L. Hathaway, also of this city was solemnized Wednesday, Oct. 2 at 7 o'clock in the Gordon Avenue Methodist Church, with the Rev. Mason officiating in the presence of friends and relatives.

The church was beautifully decorated with pink and white dahlias. Tapers in floor chandeliers were lighted by Mr. Ray Ferrington, the bride's brother, and Mr. Joseph Robertson, the groom's brother-in-law.

The nuptial music was rendered by by E. M. Wooten who sang "I Love Thee," by Grieg, and "Because" by D'Hardlot. The traditional wedding marches were used.

The bride, given in marriage by her father, wore a white nylon crepe suit and a corsage of pink carnations and tube roses. Miss Blanche Ferrington, the bride's sister, and only attendant, wore a dress of aqua wool with brown accessories and a corsage of Talisman roses.

The groom's brother, Mr. Robert Hathaway, served as best man.

Following the wedding an informal reception was held in the home of the bride's parents. The spacious living room and dining room was decorated with pink and white dahlias. The bride's table, overlaid with a lace cloth, was adorned with a plaque of white dahlias, encircled with crystal candellabras holding white tapers. The three-tier wedding cake was placed at one end of the table, and a crystal punch bowl at the other end.

Assisting in serving were: Mrs. Eula Schlekau, and Miss Ida Walker. Mrs. Myrtis Allison presided over the punch bowl.

The bride and groom left immediately after the reception for a short honeymoon in Houston and Galveston, Tex.

Mrs. Hathaway is a graduate of Neville High School and B. M. I. Business School.

Mr. Hathaway is a graduate of Neville High School and served 18 months overseas with the armed forces. After returning from overseas he was employed by the Missouri and Pacific Railroad.

BRILLIANT GATHERING OF CLUB WOMEN WILL TAKE PLACE IN ALEXANDRIA DURING NOVEMBER

Participation of women as individuals and collectively in the affairs of the home, community, state and nation is evidenced by the resolutions which the committee will present to the Forty-Seventh Annual Convention of the Louisiana Federated Women's clubs in Alexandria, November 7-8-9 at the Bentley hotel, convention headquarters.

The official call has gone out to Louisiana club women according to Mrs. A. D. Tisdale, of Monroe, state president.

This is election year for the 1946-49 officers and a large delegation is expected.

Mrs. H. C. Houghton, Jr., Red Oak, Iowa, second vice-president G. F. W. C., and Senator Allen Ellender will be guest speakers.

The resolutions are as follows:

RESOLVED, That the Louisiana Federation of Women's Clubs reaffirm the action in the Council Meeting in San Francisco in May 1939 and the action taken by General Federation Women's Clubs in convention assembled in June, 1946, supporting the expansion of the program for the health supervision of mothers and children; the development of a program of necessary medical care; the extension of child welfare service into every community; and the strengthening of the Social Security program for aid to dependent children throughout the states through federal and state action, including provisions that federal grants be made equal to one-half of total costs, and be it further

RESOLVED, That the Louisiana Federation of Women's Clubs promps cooperation with all the above agencies serving the communities for the promotion of health and welfare security as preventives of dependency and delinquency.

RESOLVED, That the Louisiana Federation of Women's Clubs in convention assembled November 1946, requests the new UNO commission on narcotic drugs to place on its agenda immediate action for the limitation and control of the world production of opium to meet only the medical and scientific needs of the world, to the end that no surplus be available for smoking, eating or for illicit narcotic traffic.

RESOLVED, That the L. F. W. C., in convention assembled November 1946 reaffirm the action taken by G. F. W. C., in convention assembled June 1946 that the civilian commission for control of atomic energy as set up by 79th congress, protect the principle of international control designed to outlaw atomic energy as an instrument of war in order to prevent danger and fatality of an armament race in the world, and safeguarding the future extension of atomic energy into peacetime channels as provided for in the Baruch report proposals to the security council.

RESOLVED, That the L. F. W. C., in convention assembled November 1946 endorse action taken by G. F. W. C., in convention assembled June 1946, by advocating that adequate neuropsychiatric training and services be integrated into the programs of the leading centers of medical research, education and treatment in order to insure a mentally healthy people.

RESOLVED, That the Louisiana Federation of Women's Clubs in convention assembled in November 1946 supporting action taken by G. F. W. C., approves the creation of a new executive department headed by a member of the president's cabinet to promote the national interest in health, welfare and education and to administer federal programs in these fields.

RESOLVED, That in continuation of our national tradition, the member clubs of the L. F. W. C., reaffirm action taken by G. F. W. C., in convention assembled June 1946 be urged to accept the responsibility for helping to create public opinion within their respective communities which will prevent the growth of intolerance, injustice or religious discrimination in these United States.

RESOLVED, That the Louisiana Federation of Women's Clubs in convention assembled November 1946 endorses action taken by G. F. W. C., approving such appropriate measures and activities as are designed to reduce this accident toll, with particular emphasis upon improved traffic courts, more effective driver licensing, adoption of chemical tests for intoxication, improved pedestrian control, safety education in schools, and high school driver training, and further.

RESOLVED, That the L.F.W.C. in convention assembled Nov. 1913 reaffirms action of G. F. W. C., urges the continuance of the social protection division of the Federal Security Agency with the necessary funds and personnel to permit it to work effectively, and further

RESOLVED, That the Louisiana Federation expresses it conviction that congress should enforce the principles as stated in the May act just passed by congress.

RESOLVED, That the L. F. W. C. in convention assembled November 1946 reaffirm the endorsement by G F. W. C., when in convention June 1946 of full participation by the United Nations Organization and in special agencies for international cooperation in fields including education, health, relief, and trade, and further.

RESOLVED, That the Louisiana Federation urges prompt ratification by the United States of: (1) Constitution of such international organizations as may be established by the United Nations; (2) Adequate financial support for all such agencies; (3) Active participation in their work.

Claiming prominence on the October social calendar is the silver tea in the home of Mrs. C. E. McKenzie sponsored by members of Christian Social Relations group of the Woman's Society of Christian Service of the First Methodist church on Tuesday afternoon between the hours of 4 and 6.

Although a silver offering will be featured the social event is purely social and will give those who call during the receiving hours an opportunity to meet Mrs. George Pearce, Jr., charming wife of the pastor of the Memorial Methodist church and Mrs. W. H. Giles, the equally charming wife of the pastor of the West Monroe Methodist church.

Hostesses on this occasion will be the twenty members of the committees who have assumed the responsibility of handling the local work carried on by the general society. To them falls the duty of contributing toward the furnishing of the parsonage, the serving of meals for various church agencies, the placing of flowers for all services, and the purchasing of linens and various other obligations.

Literary Guild Members Meet At Breard Home

Members of the Literary Guild enjoyed the motor ride through the country to the home of Mrs. Herbert Breard who extended gracious hospitality assisted by the co-hostess, Mrs. A. D. Tisdale.

Mrs. Nathan Gaston was welcomed as a new member at this time to take the place of Mrs. W. E. Wilson who is leaving Monroe to make her home in Shreveport.

The president, Mrs. Herbert Breard, opened the meeting with constructive plans for the coming year.

Resolutions to be voted on at the State Federated Convention to be held in Alexandria, Nov. 7-8-9 were read and discussed. Delegates to this meeting will be elected at the next meeting.

A most timely topic "Races of Mankind" has been chosen for this year's study. The first book review was given by Mrs. Clifford Johnson. Her review of two books, namely: "A World View of Race" and "The Truth About Race" was most informative as well as interesting. She pointed out that both books were in agreement on many of the issues and summarized their findings as follows:

There is no scientific reason for race, but it is a universal social problem.

Race problems arise because of political and economic control.

Class will some day supplant race in world affairs. Race will then be merely a side show to the gigantic class war which will be waged in the big tent we call the world.

During the social hour a chicken salad course with cake and coffee was served to the following:

Mesdames DeWitt Milam, N. G. Gaston, J. P. Brown, P. L. Perot, Clifford Johnson, W. M. Harper, Milling Bernstein, Carvel T. Shaw (a visitor) and the two hostesses.

Class will some day supplant race in world affairs. Race will then be merely a side show to the gigantic class war which will be waged in the big tent we call the world.

During the social hour a chicken salad course with cake and coffee was served to the following:

Gray Hair?

DON'T BE DISCOURAGED!

Simply wet it with Canute Water. A few applications will completely re-color it similar to its former natural shade. IN ONE DAY — IF YOU WISH. Then primp just once a month and KEEP it young-looking.

Canute Water is not a tint or rinse that washes off. Shampooing actually improves the rich, warm new color and leaves your hair fresh, clean and natural the touch. You may even curl it or get a permanent.

Leading dealers in most of America's largest cities sell more Canute Water than all other hair colorings combined!

8 Application Size $1.15 at drug stores everywhere

CANUTE WATER

• Pure, colorless and crystal-clear. • 30 years without injury to a single user. • REALLY SAFE! Skin test NOT needed. • Proved harmless at one of America's Greatest Universities.

Dr. And Mrs. H. B. Hatcher, Of Baton Rouge, Guests Of Honor At Reception

One of the most gracious social affairs of the fall season was the reception given by Dr. and Mrs. Rodney Cline complimentary to new members of the Northeast Junior College faculty and staff. The scene of this gala occasion was their spacious home on the college campus where the terraced lawn slopes down to picturesque Bayou DeSiard.

The type of hospitality for which the Clines are famous was never more graciously bestowed than on this evening. It was marked by informality which was conducive to creating conversation and conviviality. Assisting in planning and preparing for the occasion were wives of the heads of departments at Northeast Junior College and Miss Mary Clay, librarian.

Floral arrangements which adorned the reception suite emphasized summer dahlias in beautiful pastel shades. Here the guests were greeted by Miss Clay, Mrs. W. L. Perkins, Mrs. A. S. Huffman and Mrs. William P. Grant.

Receiving in the living room were Dr. and Mrs. Cline, Dr. H. B. Hatcher, president of Louisiana State University, and Mrs. Hatcher and Mr. Thomas W. Leigh, vice-chairman of the university board of supervisors, and Mrs. Leigh. Mrs. Cline wore a lovely silver gray crepe model fashioned with a long basque and a long skirt which fell to the floor in graceful folds. Her corsage was of orchid asters and tuberoses. Mrs. Hatcher wore a beautiful model of aqua crepe. The waist was gracefully draped and the skirt was floor-length. The wide belt was studded with gold. She wore antique gold earring and a corsage of pink asters and tuberoses. Mrs. Leigh's blonde loveliness was enhanced by an azure blue gown. The fitted bodice was tight fitting and the skirt was long and full. A corsage of white asters and tuberoses was worn.

Assisting in extending courtesies in the living room were Mrs. W. R. Hammond and Mrs. Fred G. Thatcher.

Guests were also greeted in the solarium where other new faculty members and staff were introduced.

The refreshment table in the dining room was overlaid with a beautiful madera cloth trimmed in handsome lace, and centered with a low silver bowl overflowing with asters and English daisies in pastel shades and rose of Montana reflected in an oval mirror.

From a handsome silver service at one end of the table coffee was poured by Mrs. Jewell J. Frey. Mrs. Bernard D. Reynolds, Jr., and Mrs. Lewis Slater. Mrs. Frey wore a lovely aqua crepe model and a corsage of orchid asters; Mr. Reynolds wore a black crepe gown with a marquisette yoke and puffed sleeves. She wore a corsage of Peruvian lilies. Mrs. Slater wore a beautiful lace gown and a pink aster corsage. Silver trays holding sandwiches, a variety of pretties, individual cakes and mints were passed among the guests. Assisting in the courtesies in the dining room were Mrs. L. L. Price, Mrs. B. S. Hanner, Miss Helen Harris and Mrs. Elizabeth Findley. All wore semi-evening models and corsages of asters.

MISS WILSON AND MR. SEGARS ARE GUESTS OF HONOR AT BEAUTIFULLY PLANNED BUFFET

The beauty of the Indian summer weather and the radiant harvest prompted Mr. and Mrs. J. R. Pope and Mr. and Mrs. Richard Sackett to plan a barbecue in the gardens of the Pope home complimentary to Miss Julia Corinne Wilson and Mr. Warren Segars, Jr., of Atlanta, Ga. At the last minute a sudden rain necessitated a complete change of plans and the guests were entertained indoors.

Miss Wilson, the central figure in this group of intimate friends was a charming figure in long sleeved black crepe model with a handsome silver and rhinestone clip at the neckline.

Supper with barbecued chicken and the piece de resistance was served buffet style from a beautifully appointed table in the dining room. Garden flowers of vivid hue formed a colorful decor for the table. Trays laden with salads, relishes, hot rolls and sweets were placed along the board for the convenience of the guests.

The hosts and hostesses took this opportunity to present Miss Wilson with a beautiful silver tray and a set of lovely rose colored linen napkins and table cloth.

Those present in addition to Miss Wilson and Mr. Segars were: Mr. and Mrs. H. L. Wilson, Miss Ann Wilson, Mr. and Mrs. James Wilson, Miss Diane Wilson, Mrs. E. R. Eikner, Mrs. Lida S. May, Mr. and Mrs. P. J. Newman, Mr. and Mrs. Marvin Gleason, Jr., Miss Clovis Creighton, Mr. Gilford McCleary, Miss Bea Fields, Mr. Buford Brazzil, Mr. Raymond Sackett, Mr. B. K. Flaker, Miss Diane Sackett, Mr. and Mrs. J. R. Pope, and Mr. and Mrs. Richard Sackett.

Mrs. Paul Newman Is Hostess To The Music Guild

The Music Guild, a member of the State and National Federation of Music clubs, had its first meeting of the year in the hospitable home of Mrs. Paul Newman on Glenmar. An enthusiastic group of members are looking forward eagerly to this year's study of the "Opera." The text book, written by Wallace Brockway and Herbert Winston, covers the period from 1600 to 1941.

Mrs. Raymond Spence gave a discourse on the first three chapters of the book which was both enlightening and humorous. It was reminiscent of the time when operas were written to promote the singer. Operas of today demand a singer who has the ability and versatility to portray a certain character.

Mrs. Spence said in part: "Opera as we know is now, comes from the Florence, Italy of the dying sixteenth century, when the Renaissance mind was preparing for the carnival time of the baroque and the rococo. The fathers of opera were a group of poets, singers, and composers who frequented the palace of Giovanne Bardi, a Florentine nobleman, about the year 1600.

"The first opera was called 'Dafne' and was composed by 'Jacopo Feri' a member of the Bardi circle. The music to this score has been lost."

Mrs. Spence gave interesting information about the life of Handel. He was one of the earliest composers and has given the world many oratorias, which we now enjoy. The following program featuring his compositions was given:

Piano — Minuet from "Samson," Handel, Mrs. Wyllys Hopkins.

Voice—Care Selves from "Atlanta," Handel, Mrs. Alex Wynn.

We had as a guest, Mrs. J. M. Coulson from Sherman, Texas. The following members enjoyed lovely refreshments. Mmes. J. Norman Coon, Cecil Hill, E. Everett Lawson, H. D. Holmes, Lloyd L. Walters, R. W. Cretney, B. B. Martin, Paul Newman, J. E. Jarman, Raymond Spence, Howell Heard and H. M. James.

The officers for this club year are Mrs. Paul Newman, president; Mrs. B. B. Martin, vice-president; Mrs. W. W. Watson, secretary; Mrs. Cecil Hill, treasurer; Mrs. J. Norman Coon, parliamentarian; Mrs. Lloyd L. Walters, reporter; and Mrs. J. E. Jarman, historian.

Girl Reserves Of The Y. W. C. A. Hold Meetings

Members of the Kumjoynus-Blue Triangle Club of the Girl Reserve Y-Teens met at the "Y". The meeting was given over to the project of folding pamphlets for the Community Chest Drive which begins Oct. 14th. These pamphlets will be distributed at the churches on Sunday by the Girl Reserve-Y-Teens, the Girl Scouts and the Boy Scouts. Miss Sharp took pictures of the group for publicity purposes. The hostesses for the meeting were: Ann Merriman, Alice Montgomery, and Mary Gertrude Rodriguez. Miss Marness Lester, advisor, assisted the girls in their meeting.

On Wednesday afternoon the 7th Grade Club of Girl Reserve Y-Teens met at the "Y" with their president, Bonnie, Albritton, presiding. The devotional for the meeting was given by Patty Timmerman. Ursula Butler was appointed as devotional chairman. Plans for a Halloween party were discussed by the group and their advisor, Mrs. C. McCoy, and a social committee, Yvonne Fisher, Pat Trimmerman, Joyce Shivers, Virginia Cook Mary Jo Berry, Allene Sweet, and Lillian LeBlanc, was appointed. After the business the girls assisted in folding pamphlets for the Community Chest Drive. Hostesses for the meeting were: Bonnie Albritton and Mary Alice Carlton who served delicious hot chocolate and cookies.

On Thursday afternoon the Blue Circle Club met with their president, Clay DeMarchi, who presided. The devotional was given by Anne Todd Clay DeMarchi, and Carolyn Hargrove. The group welcomed their adviser, Mrs. Malcolm LeFevre, and a new member, Dorothy Maguirk, at this time. The club had the pleasure of having as their guest speaker, Mrs. William Rodriguez, who was president to the group by the program chairman, Nancy Golson. Mrs. Rodriguez talked to the girls on "Entertaining . . . Being a Hostess . . . Being a Guest . . . and Parties and Socials." The group will have a party on Nov. 1st at the "Y".

PRESBYTERIAN WOMEN WILL ATTEND IMPORTANT GROUP CONFERENCE ON THURSDAY

Of outstanding interest to the women of the Presbyterian Church in this vicinity is the Fall Group Conference, Thursday, Oct. 17th, at Fairbanks. Mrs. R. W. Cretney of Monroe will preside.

Mrs. Cretney is the new district chairman of this group of churches having been elected at the spring meeting of the Red River Presbyterial which met in Minden. Mrs. Cretney needs no introduction to Monroe church people, as she has served in a most capable manner in various offices in the First Church Auxiliary. She served two years as president.

The hostess church, Fairbanks, while the newest church in the Presbytery is by no means the least active. An auxiliary has been in operation for several years. Mrs. G. A. O'Neal seeing the need of such an organization has been the guiding spirit of both church and auxiliary and aided by a faithful band of Christian women.

One of the outstanding speakers on Thursday's program will be Mrs. H. D. Haberyan of Shreveport. Mrs. Haberyan is a member of the Woman's Advisory committee of the Committee on Woman's Work, is Synodical president of Louisiana and a dynamic speaker. The following program will be given:

Theme: "I have a Stewardship Entrusted to Me."
Registration

Personals

Mrs. Courtney Oliver and Mrs. Julius Chandler prompted by the beauty of the Indian Summer weather, planned a trip to Philadelphia, Pa., Baltimore, Md., via the automobile route. They will leave on Thursday and will be away for three weeks or more. Mrs. Oliver will visit her daughter, Mrs. James Drake Brown and Mr. Brown of Philadelphia and Mrs. Chandler will visit her sister, Mrs. Paul Barefoot of Baltimore.

Mrs. Ada M. Lawson left last week via airways to spend a portion of the winter with her son, Mr. Edwin W. Lawson of Washington, D. C. and her sister, Mrs. S. A. Tull of Baltimore.

Mrs. Herbert Pace and daughter left via airways to visit her mother, Mrs. L. H. Wise of Chicago.

Mrs James A. Noe and Mrs. Harold Woods are spending the week end in New Orleans.

Mr. and Mrs. Horace G. Cohran, Jr. of Rayville announce the arival of their first child, a son, Charles Walter, on September 27 at the St. Francis Sanitarium. Mrs Cochran will be remembered as Miss Evelyn Griffis. The maternal grandparents are Mr. and Mrs. Buford Griffis of Rayville and the paternal grandparents are Mr. and Mrs. Horace G. Cochran, Sr. of Holly Ridge.

Mrs. C. E. Hester and Mrs. William P. Yerger of Tallulah, were among the guests who attended the meeting of the local chapter of the American Association of University Women on October 10 in the home of Mrs. Rodney Cline.

The Elizabeth S. Wills Bible class of The First Presbyterian Church extends a cordial invitation to the Women of the church to attend this class. Mrs. O. M. Arnette is the teacher, and Mrs Clay Ellis is president of the class. If you are not a member of another Bible class you will be given a genuine welcome.

Confidentially Speaking

Circus time in Monroe, like football time, is a social occasion attended by much gaiety and excitement. While the "dress-up" mood is not prevalent, society is always out en masse. The night sessions of the circus are the important ones, socially speaking, and everyone wanders through the tents, feeding the animals, witnessing the side shows and then following the crowd to the "big top". Bright sport clothes flash against the drab background of the circus tents. Everyone dresses comfortably as the circus is an event that lasts long into the night and needs a maximum of comfort to be completly enjoyed.

Everyone loves the tinsel and music, the glamour and the top-flight entertainment of the circus. Perhaps because we grownups are bashful and ashamed to admit we love the world of make-believe, we always say that the only reason we go to the circus is so the children may see the wonders of the big show. There is a tremendous kick in taking a child, and watching his eyes grow big in wonderment. But why kid ourselves, we all like the circus and look forward to being a child again just for the night."

From the look of the calendar, already chock-full of events for the month of October and far into November, this autumn will be the gayest, socially, Monroe has experienced in many years. Prominent on the October calendar is the annual card party sponsored by members of the Junior Guild of Grace church October 26 at the Parish house. The committee in charge of details has already completed plans for quite an elaborate affair featuring as customery each year, a tea hour for those who do not play cards but like to drop in and mix with their friends for a conversational interlude following the card games.

The prizes contributed by Monroe merchants, will be most acceptable and especially the grand prize which is always coveted by everyone present.

Make your reservations early for this year's card party as it promises to be one of the largest in the history of the Junior Guild.

There are few in Monroe who realize that this city has furnished three state officers for women's organizations and all of them are wide-awake, energetic and civic-spirited citizens. Mrs. Gladys Miles is president of the Louisiana Federated Business and Professional Women's club. Mrs. Flood Madison Jr., is state president of the American Legion auxiliary and Mrs. A. D. Tisdale is state president of the Federated Women's Clubs.

At this time Mrs. Madison is in San Francisco where she attended the national convention. Mrs. Tisdale will leave later in the month for New York City to represent Louisiana at the United Nations dinner at the Waldorf Astoria. She Will also attend the Herald Tribune forum. Mrs. Miles will leave next week for New Orleans to attend a state board meeting of the Business and Professional Women's club's and will be a guest of honor at dinner in the Blue room of the Roosevelt. Several courtesies of a social nature will be bestowed upon Mrs Miles by the club women of New Orleans.

When Mr. and Mrs. Fluitt Hundley returned from a motor trip to Kansas City where they visited their son, Mr. F. E. Hundley Jr., and Mrs. Hundley, they motored lesurely through the Ozark mountains. They packed a pic

Statistics show that in any given country suicide is more frequent in the hotter months of the year.

St. Joseph

Mrs. Alice Baxter is a guest of the Park hotel in Chattanooga, Tenn. After leaving the hotel, Mrs. Baxter will visit Mrs. Lucius Mansfield and other friends in Chattanooga before returning home.

Mr. and Mrs. Philip Watson, Philip, Jr., and William Wade Watson and Mr. Carryl Seaman were visitors to New Orleans and were present at the Tulane-Alabama game. While there they were guests of the Roosevelt hotel.

Mr. and Mrs. David Lide and Mr Bobby Lide entertained at a barbecue honoring Governor Jimmie Davis and Mrs. Davis of Baton Rouge. The beautiful grounds surrounding the Lide summer home on Lake Bruen were brilliantly illuminated for the occasion. Attractive features of the entertainment were a brightly colored old-fashioned wagon and wheel barrows, placed under the trees and from which were served a delicious barbeque supper and iced soft drinks. Governor Davis was accompanied by his famous hill billy band whose playing of popular airs were a highlight of the evening. Besides the guests of honor, Governor and Mrs. Davis, the guests were from St. Joseph, Newellton and Tallulah, La. There were approximately 150 invited guests.

Miss Mary Clara Guice of Vicksburg, Miss., was a guest at the family home in St. Joseph for several days. Mr. and Mrs. John Guice accompanied Miss Guice on the return to Vicksburg.

Mrs. George Blencke of New York, N. Y., and her little daughter, Katherine, are visiting Mrs. Blencke's mother, Mrs. Peter Schauf.

The October meeting of the Episcopal Auxiliary took place at the home of Mrs. Joseph Whitaker. The president, Mrs. Howard Jones, presided. After a business session Mrs. Albert G. Bondurant gave an appropriate reading. The auxiliary will serve the regular dinner to the St. Joseph Rotary Club throughout November. All members of the Episcopal Church are urged to attend the meeting in Tallulah, La., on Oct. 16. Besides the president, Mrs. Howard Jones, Mrs. Joseph Whitaker and Mrs. Albert G. Bondurant, the members present were Mesdames Magruder Adams, Albert Bondurant, Fred Cassil, Philip Watson and Anne Rose. Mrs. Bailey Russel of San Antonio, Tex., was a guest.

Mrs. Harrison Drake and her baby daughter, Jeri Wynn, have returned from Natchez, Miss., and are occupying their apartments in the Bruno apartment house.

Miss Louise Johnson of Ruston, La., was a guest for several days of her brother and sister-in-law, Mr. and Mrs. James Johnson.

Miss Wells Is The Bride Of W. B. DeLancy

A wedding of interest in Ouachita and Union parishes is that of Miss Virginia Wells, daughter of Mrs. Ida M. Wells, of Sterlington and William Beryl DeLancy of West Monroe. The ceremony was performed in Monroe Saturday evening, Oct. 5, at the home of Rev. L. T. Hastings who officiated.

The bride was lovely in a two piece model of azure blue wool and black accessories. Her corsage was of white carnations.

Mrs. Ralph Whitlock of West Monroe was the bride's only attendant and Mr. W. L. Griffin, uncle of the bride, served as best man.

After the ceremony Mr. and Mrs. Griffin entertained the wedding party at supper.

Mr. DeLancy is employed by the Community Store and the young couple will make their home on Linderman Ave. in West Monroe.

They packed a pic-nic luncheon and enjoyed the beauty of the autumn foilage on the top of Mt. Gaynor, the highest point in the Ozarks. They were reluctant to leave this quiet sanctuary where heaven seemed very close. Like thousands of others who have visited this particular spot far removed from the clangorous noises of cities and their meaningless movement, Mr. and Mrs. Hundley no doubt discovered anew that there are "tongues in trees, books in the running streams, sermons in stones, and good in everything." Motorist seeking spiritual refreshment visit this secluded spot in the Ozark mountoins year after year.

BUSINESS AND PROFESSIONAL WOMEN OBSERVE NATIONAL BUSINESS WOMEN'S WEEK

LOWER LEFT: Mrs. Inas Gwin, first vice-president.

UPPER RIGHT: Miss Bessie McDonald, program chairman.
LOWER RIGHT: Mrs. Evelyn Atkinson, secretary.

National Business Women's Week Inaugurated This Morning By Members Of Local Club Who Met For Breakfast

Officers of the Business and Professional Women's Club, headed by their president, Miss Maible Hood who is seen in the center picture in the above group of officers, met for breakfast this morning and later attended the eleven o'clock service at the First Methodist Church. Today's activities inaugurated a gala week for local club women who are observing National Business Women's Week.

National Business Women's Week has become a national institution and is observed for a dual purpose; it helps launch the new club year and it helps to dramatize the contribution which the business and professional women are making to our life and times.

The theme for National Business Women's Week for 1946 is a challenge to action: "Let's Work Together for Better Communities."

During the war, women gainfully employed made an important contribution to the war effort as members of the army of 10,000,000 who helped defend the home front as volunteers. They served as donors for blood banks, nurses' aids, fire wardens, airplane spotters, ambulance drivers. They sold war bonds and stamps. They collected salvage, served on ration boards. In ways to numerous to mention, they proved to their communities that, as volunteers, they were first-class.

The war taught America a great lesson. It revealed to us that all our communities are in dire need of more and better housing, education and health services, facilities for recreation, means of transportation. These peacetime civilian needs call just as urgently for trained and equipped volunteers as the demands of war.

According to President Truman the business and professional women of America are the logical vanguard of any program which deals with housing, public education, public health and full employment. Members of the club know that any sound approach to full employment means no discrimination—the doors must be kept open for women to exercise the many new skills which they developed in wartime. In some respects, this is peculiarly a community problem, but it can have state and national repercussions as well.

Emphasizing the part to be played by women, President Truman says, "You are also in a position to know intimately today's needs in your communities. Even more important, you can supply the vision and motive power to meet these needs. You will, I am sure, meet them in terms of tomorrow rather than yesterday."

MRS. WALTER C. MINNIEAR PRESIDES AT MEETING OF THE ATHENEUM BOOK CLUB

Mrs. A. L. Dickerson and Mrs. Agnes Dickerson entertained members of the Atheneum Book Club Saturday afternoon in the club rooms of the West Monroe Library.

An artistic arrangement of purple azurateum and marigolds in an antique silver bowl centered the table at which the president and officers presided.

Members of the club were led in the salute to the flag by Mrs. T. Gallien.

Mrs. Walter C. Minnier, the president, presided during the business period at which time she stressed the importance of each member in supporting the Community Chest Drive, and also asked the cooperation of the members in attending the dinner sponsored by the Civic League of the Recreation Center Oct. 15th. Plans were also discussed for attending the 37th annual state convention at Alexandria.

A committee composed of Mrs. T. Gallien, chairman; Mrs. A. J. Lester and Mrs A. M. Barrett were appointed by the president to sponsor a game night, to be held later in the month.

During the roll call each member was requested to answer with their favorite month of the year and tell why.

Mrs. Dickerson, the program chairman, presented the topic relating to American citizenship and introduced Mrs. S. D. Kennedy who spoke on "The Preservation of American Institute."

Mrs. A. J. Lester presented the poem of the month, written by Mrs. James S. Smitherman:

"Life is sweet just because of the friends we have made.
And the things which in common we share;
We want to live on not because of ourselves,
But because of the people who care,
Its giving and doing for somebody else,
On that all of life's splendor depends,
And the joy of this world, When you've summed it all up,
Is found in the making of friends."

Mrs. Walter C. Minnier in a most interesting manner reviewed "The Torrents of Spring," by Robert Paigne. The historical background of the book proved as interesting as the story.

At the conclusion of the program the members repeated the club collect in unison.

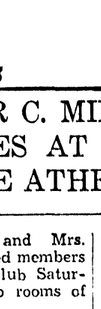

During the tea hour, a salad course was served with assorted confections to the following members: Mrs. S. D. Kennedy, Mrs. Fred Grant, Mrs. Walter C. Minnier, Mrs. A. J. Lester, Mrs. D. L. Nicol, Mrs. W. L. Morris, Jr., Mrs. F. L. Watts, Mrs. T. Gallien, Mrs. A. M. Barrett, Mrs. Clark Butler, Mrs. A. L. Dickerson and Miss Agnes Dickerson.

Girl of 20 Drudges For Dad And Brothers Without Pay

DEAR MISS DIX: I am a girl 20 years old. When my mother died I took her place in the house, doing all of the cooking and cleaning and washing and making a comfortable home. We are a large family, my father and seven brothers. Five are in the service and two at home. The youngest is 21 and the oldest is 40. I have to be at home all the time as some of them do night work and have to have irregular meals. I work my fingers to the bone, but no one appreciates what I do and they do not give me a cent of money for my work.

DOROTHY DIX

I am very unhappy and I feel like my heart is falling to pieces day by day. Please advise me before it dies.

SLAVE SISTER

ANSWER: Forget your heartaches and concentrate on acquiring intestinal fortitude. Courage is what you need. Brace up and tell those selfish brothers of yours just exactly where they get off, and that they are either going to give you the salary they would have to pay a cook—and don't forget cooks come high these days—or else you are going to leave them flat and get a job in some kitchen where there will be a pay envelope every Saturday night.

MAY BE OLD-FASHIONED

Perhaps your father and brothers are not as cruel and as hard taskmasters as they seem to be. Perhaps they belong to the old school that thought that it was no work, only a pleasant amusement, for a woman to slave 18 hours a day just for the sheer fun of the thing, and that they were supporting her when they gave her her board and clothes.

Well, it is time you brought them up to date and disillusioned them on that subject. If they balk at your proposition, just walk out of the kitchen and go on a strike. When they try scuffling around for a few days getting their own meals and making their own beds, they will be glad enough to pay your price.

It is your own fault if you continue to be a slavie.

DEAR MISS DIX: I have just received a medical discharge from the Navy where I had served for five years. Now that I am back home in the old neighborhood I am bored stiff. The fellows and girls around the store where we hang out play cards, day in and day out and it is getting more and more monotonous.

I don't know what to do with myself and I am crazy to go back into the Navy, but I am afraid to tell my mother because she has suffered something awful during the years of the war. What do you think I should do?

UNDECIDED

ANSWER: I think you should go back to the Navy if that is the life you like and to which you long to return. You have spent five years fitting yourself for it and it offers you a living and security for your old age if you stick to it. And, in addition, you will have the consolation of knowing you are serving your country.

You know no other trade and in the great influx of returning soldiers who are job-hunting it is going to be difficult for an untrained man to get work. I appreciate that you do not like to go against your mother's wishes, but men can't be bound by a woman's tears and fears. They must live their own lives. And certainly you will be in no more danger, now that the war is over, on the seas than you would be at home.

DEAR DOROTHY DIX: I am 19 years old and engaged to be married to a young man who is an orphan and has no living relatives or a guardian. He is not of age and we find that before he can get a marriage license that there will have to be a public guardian appointed for him. How do we go about doing this?

L. H.

ANSWER: Don't be a cradle-snatcher. If you are only 19 and he is younger, why not wait until he is a man and old enough to be married without having to have somebody to give him permission?

But if you are in a hurry to marry your little boy sweetheart, you had better consult a lawyer as the marriage conditions vary so much in the different states.

SUNDAY, OCT. 1

Mr. J. Reynolds Hoffman, International Traveler and Bible Lecturer, has come to Monroe for a series of Bible Prophecy Lectures.

Mr. Hoffman has studied World Problems in many countries, and brings first-hand information connected with dynamic Bible proofs.

This series of lectures are not revival meetings, but an Adult Bible School for all Christian people — a serious approach to the study of the Scripture.

Evening Worship, 8:00 p. m.
Mid-week Prayer meeting, Wednesday at 7:00 p. m., Miss Chloie Mae Simens leading; Choir Practice Thursday at 1:00 p. m., Ellis Bairnsfather, director, in charge.

Our revival meeting begins Sunday, October 20, with Rev. J. W. Buckner, of Jonesboro, doing the preaching. Let us continue to be much in prayer as they are around about us by the hundreds who are lost.

Sunday, October 20, will also be observed as Laymen's Day, and we are expecting great things from them.

The public is invited to come and worship with us at all times, especially if you are not attending the services of another church. We welcome all visitors.

Our Church Teaching: Bible School: Supt. F. M. Durham.

The Conversion of the Apostle Paul is the subject.

Our Church Worshipping: The pastor will bring the message on the subject: "Human Responsibility and Divine Enablement" Phil. 2:12-13.

Our Church Training:

1) Training Union under the direction of C. C. Kornmann.

2) Men's Brotherhood: W. L. Jones, Jr., president.

Our Church Evangelizing:

Pastor's Subject: "Show Yourselves Men" Isa. 46:8.

The evening service will be especially keyed to the spirit of men — especially Laymen, since October 13—Sunday is Laymen's Day all over the southland in the Southern Baptist Convention. Our men's choir under the leadership of D. C. Black, will render the special music.

We have just closed a year in the history of this church and beginning a new year. The past year has been a great success, we plan bigger things next year.

This Sunday we will observe the Lord's Supper. We urge all members to attend.

Let us not forget the special offering Sunday morning. May we come and give as the Lord has prospered us.

Work is being started on our building and we need the help of every member. Come with us if you have no other church home.

In a civil court, it is the law that "Ignorance of the law is no excuse." We might apply the same to ourselves spiritually. Although we may not know God's law, we should make it our business to try to find out what it is in all things. And while we are unable to understand all the mysteries of God, we are charged with obeying the commandments we are given. And at His will, we will understand all things, according to these scriptures: "I, the Lord delight to honor those who serve Me in righteousness, yea, all the hidden mysteries of My kingdom from days of old, and for ages to come will I make known unto them the good pleasure of My will concerning all things pertaining to My kingdom. Even the mystery which has been hid from ages and generations, but now is made manifest to His saints. I will reason as with men in days of old, and I will show unto you My strong reasoning. Murmur no because of the things which thou hast not seen, for they are withheld from thee and from the world, which is wisdom in Me. Behold, ye are little children, and ye cannot bear all things now; ye must grow in grace and in the knowledge of the truth. Yea, verily, I say unto you, in that day when the Lord shall come, He shall reveal all things." So, let us not fret against our ignorance, but strive to live the laws of God which are already given to us, and higher laws and greater understanding will be given to us.

MOTHER NATURE KNOWS BEST

WHAT'S LAND SUITED FOR?

Nature has the answer. Sometimes man has ignored Nature, and has tried to use land in ways for which it is not suited. Sometimes, he has tried to grow cultivated crops on land best adapted for growing trees. Today, forests are reclaiming much of this land . . . growing your TREES FOR TOMORROW.

The farmer recognizes these differences. He produces annual crops on certain lands. His cattle graze in neighboring pastures. And he grows forest crops on woodland, which is less suited to other purposes.

Farm forests, properly managed, produce continual income as well as supplies of wood needed on the farm. They help reclaim overworked earth, prevent erosion and soil starvation. They are a major source of supply of timber needed for our expanding uses of wood.

You can help provide the trees for tomorrow, which, in turn, will provide your homes, paper, fabrics, plastics.

Follow these simple rules to help KEEP AMERICA GREEN:

RULE ONE: Watch that match! Break it in half before throwing it away.

RULE TWO: Watch that cigarette and cigar. Stamp them out into the earth. Bury your pipe ashes in the soil.

RULE THREE: Watch your campfires. Make sure they are out before you break camp.

FIRST BAPTIST CHURCH
St. John and Grammont Streets
L. T. Hastings, Pastor
B. B. Fields, Director of Education and Music

"God's Men Standing in the Gap," will be the pastor's theme for the morning hour in a special message to men in observance of "Laymen's Day" which will be observed throughout the Southern Baptist Convention. Effort is being made to get an unusually large number of men for all services, including Sunday School, both hours of worship, the Brotherhood. The choir Sunday night will be made up of men and a quartet of men will bring special music.

The time for the coming of Dr. Dan Gilbert, Washington, D. C., is approaching. He will be here Oct. 29 to Nov. 3.

Beginning at the evening hour Sunday, the Training Union and Brotherhood will have their annual fall study course, closing out Wednesday night, meeting at 7 p. m. each night, except Sunday, and that will be at 6:15. The men will look into the book, Working Together in a Spiritual Democracy. Dr. Sampson of Sterlington will meet with them Monday and Tuesday nights.

CHURCH OF CHRIST

Bible study 9:45 a. m.
Preaching 10:50 a. m.
Communion and fellowship 11:45 a. m.
Preaching 7:30 p. m.
Ladies Bible class Tuesday 3:00 p. m.
Mid-week Bible study Wednesday 7:30 p. m.

Do not forget that all these services are for anyone who wishes to attend. Whatever good there is in these services only those who attend can get it. No one can go wrong by doing right. It is right to assemble for God's word commands thus. Come to study the Bible and bring with you your neighbors and friends. A neighbor who studies the Bible is a better neighbor to live by, so let all of us study the Bible more. Time will pass off better, so we want to see you in the services Sunday.

Two events of great interest will mark the Lord's day at the church. First, it is the beginning of a revival meeting. Evangelical services will be conducted starting at 7:30 each evening. Preaching will be done by the pastor and the singing led by Dr. Irvin E. Cole. Mrs. Cole, better known as "Florence" will preside at the piano. This will be the first revival campaign sponsored by the church and every member looks forward to the occasion with great anticipation and will support it with prayer and personal work. No closing date has been set. It will end when indicated by the Holy Spirit.

The second event of interest will be a gathering of the young people of the church at the home of Miss Suzanne Phebus for a fellowship hour at 6 p. m., after which they will attend the evening church service in a group.

Come and worship with us.

10 a. m. Sunday school. 6:45 p. m. Priesthood and Relief Society meetings. 8 p. m. Sacrement meeting.

In a civil court, it is the law that "Ignorance of the law is no excuse." We might apply the same to ourselves spiritually. Although we may not know God's law, we should make it our business to try to find out what it is in all things. And while we are unable to understand all the mysteries of God, we are charged with obeying the commandments we are given. And at His will, we will understand all things, according to these scriptures: "I, the Lord delight to honor those who serve Me in righteousness, yea, all the hidden mysteries of My kingdom from days of old, and for ages to come will I make known unto them the good pleasure of My will concerning all things pertaining to My kingdom. Even the mystery which has been hid from ages and generations, but now is made manifest to His saints. I will reason as with men in days of old, and I will show unto you My strong reasoning. Murmuring because of the things which thou hast not seen, for they are withheld from thee and from the world, which is wisdom in Me. Behold, ye are little children, and ye cannot bear all things now; ye must grow in grace and in the knowledge of the truth. Yea, verily, I say unto you, in that day when the Lord shall come, He shall reveal all things." So, let us not fret against our ignorance, but strive to live the laws of God which are already given to us, and higher laws and greater understanding will be given to us.

TRINITY LUTHERAN CHURCH
Harrison And D'Arbonne
Two Blocks South of Northeast Junior College
Rev. N. Widiger, Pastor

The Lord's day calls each and every Christian to worship. The Lutheran church offers you each Sunday morning the word of God in all its truth and purity. Services will begin at 10:45 with the pastor basing his sermon on Acts 6, 1-7, "The Christian and His Relation to His Church."

Bible class and Sunday school begin at 9:45.

Sunday evening at 7:30 there will be a mission expansion service, evangelistic in nature and missionary in purpose.

Monday evening the Walther League will meet at the home of Mr. H. Huebner, the meeting beginning at 8.

The Lutheran hour is broadcast over station KNOE at 1 each Sunday.

LT. AND MRS. BREWER

*Mr. and Mrs. R. C. Tullos, of Crowville, La., announce the marriage of their daughter, Ruth, to Lt. James C. Brewer, son of Mr. and Mrs. C. N. MOTHER NATURE KNOWS BEST

WHAT'S LAND SUITED FOR?

Nature has the answer. Sometimes man has ignored Nature, and has tried to use land in ways for which it is not suited. Sometimes, he has tried to grow cultivated crops on land best adapted for growing trees. Today, forests are reclaiming much of this land . . . growing your TREES FOR TOMORROW.

The farmer recognizes these differences. He produces annual crops on certain lands. His cattle graze in neighboring pastures. And he grows forest crops on woodland, which is less suited to other purposes.

Farm forests, properly managed, produce continual income as well as supplies of wood needed on the farm. They help reclaim overworked earth, prevent erosion and soil starvation. They are a major source of supply of timber needed for our expanding uses of wood.

You can help provide the trees for tomorrow, which, in turn, will provide your homes, paper, fabrics, plastics.

Follow these simple rules to help KEEP AMERICA GREEN:

RULE ONE: Watch that match! Break it in half before throwing it away.

RULE TWO: Watch that cigarette and cigar. Stamp them out into the earth. Bury your pipe ashes in the soil.

TERRY AND THE PIRATES

by MILTON CANIFF

GET OUT, JANE ALLEN!

I HATE YOU BECAUSE YOU SAVED MY LIFE AND I AM OBLIGATED TO YOU— AND I HATE TERRY LEE BECAUSE HE DOESN'T WANT ME... AND BECAUSE HE WAS GLAD TO SEE YOU! GET OUT!

OKAY, MISS SMYTHE-HEATHERSTONE!

WELL, JANE, AT LEAST NASTY IS CONSISTENT... ALTHOUGH YOU'D THINK SHE COULD DRUM UP A 'THANK YOU' FOR YOUR HAVING JUMPED INTO THE RIVER TO RESCUE HER!

IT REALLY DOESN'T MATTER, TERRY...

I'D PROBABLY BE A WORSE BRAT IF I'D HAD HER BACKGROUND! I HAVE NO TROUBLE FEELING SORRY FOR THE KID...

LET'S SIGN OFF THE GLOOM! IT'S MIGHTY GOOD TO SEE BIG JANE AGAIN!

IT'S FINE SEEING YOU, TERRY... IT'S BEEN A LONG TIME SINCE YOU TOOK OFF FROM INDIA TO SET UP A RADIO BEACON IN FRENCH INDO-CHINA!

YEAH... MOST EVERYBODY IS OUT OF UNIFORM BY NOW! YOU LOOKED GOOD AS A WAC SERGEANT, BUT I'LL SETTLE FOR THIS OUTFIT!

THANKS, M'FRIEND! IT'S NICE NOT TO WORRY ABOUT GOING OUT WITH YOU BECAUSE YOU ARE AN OFFICER AND I AN ENLISTED GEE-EYE JOSEPHINE!

YEAH—THAT WAS ROUGH... THE GUY WHO WROTE THE ORIGINAL 'OFFICERS ONLY' RULE NEVER SAW A P.F.C. WITH A PRETTY KNEE!

WHEN YOU WERE DISCHARGED, DID YOU TRY RIGHT AWAY FOR A JOB THAT WOULD BRING YOU BACK OUT HERE?

YES, TERRY, I SUPPOSE THE ORIENT GOT A HOLD ON ME— AS IT DOES WITH SO MANY PEOPLE!

YOU'RE NOT MARRIED?

NOPE

...WE ALL LIKED HIM, TOO...

LIKED WHOM?

NO ONE IS ABSOLUTELY CERTAIN SNAKE TUMBLIN WAS KILLED... AND YOU CAME BACK BECAUSE YOU HOPE TO FIND HIM!

DICK TRACY

CHESTER GOULD

WITH COPS RIGHT HERE— SOMEBODY STEALS MY FLOWER BOX.

WHO ARE YOU?

I'M SUPERINTENDENT OF THIS APARTMENT BUILDING.

BUT 2 FELLOWS IN A TRUCK CAME UP AND SAID THE BUILDING SUPERINTENDENT TOLD THEM TO TAKE DOWN THE FLOWER BOX FOR THE WINTER—SAID IT HAD TO BE PAINTED.

BUT I'M THE BUILDING SUPERINTENDENT AND I NEVER ORDERED ANYONE TO REMOVE THAT FLOWER BOX. I DON'T EVEN KNOW THOSE FELLOWS.

EASY, BOYS.

YES, CHIEF, A FLOWER BOX! THEY'VE CARRIED HIM AWAY IN A FLOWER BOX. WE'VE PLAYED SUCKER AGAIN! GARGLES HAS PUT ONE OVER.

WELL, I'LL BE ★★-!!

2-WAY WRIST RADIO

AND IN ANOTHER SECTION OF TOWN.

THEY TOOK THE GUARD OUT OF THE APARTMENT THE SECOND NIGHT. THAT'S HOW I WAS ABLE TO CALL YOU.

YOU'VE DONE A LOT OF MUSCLE WORK FOR US IN THE PAST, GARGLES. WE'RE GLAD TO HELP YOU OUT.

THANKS FOR THE C-NOTE.

IT WAS JUST A PLAIN BLACK TRUCK. I WASN'T SUSPICIOUS. WHY SHOULD I BE?

AND I'M MINUS A 40-DOLLAR FLOWER BOX.

LATER

I SUPPOSE I'LL HAVE TO PUT UP AT SOME CHEAP LODGING HOUSE TILL I CAN GET A FLAT AGAIN. SOME GERM-RIDDEN DUMP—

207

GOOD MORNING, DARLINGS. THIS IS YOUR 11 O'CLOCK HEP CAT, CHRISTMAS EARLY, BRINGING YOU ANOTHER 15 MINUTES OF HOT RECORDINGS.

WHY, THAT DIRTY, DOUBLE-CROSSING DAME! I—

"AMOUR IN YOUR AMOROUS ARMS"— IS OUR FIRST NUMBER.

CHRISTMAS EARLY SURE HAS THE BEST RECORDS, MA.

YOU KNOW, THEMESONG, NOW THAT I'M ENTIRELY WELL AGAIN, AND SINCE WE HAVE THIS NICE APARTMENT WITH AN EXTRA BEDROOM—I THINK I'LL LOOK FOR A ROOMER.

BUT GARGLES SAID TO CHOP IT UP—

HE'S NUTS! THAT'S TOO PURTY. HOLD IT.

UNSCRUPULOUS GORGEOUS TYLISH IS DISMAYED WHEN SHE LEARNS HER EX-HUSBAND, GEORGE TYLISH, IS AS WEALTHY AS HER HUSBAND TO-BE, HORATIO BOARDMAN

AND GEORGE, THE WOLF, IS PLAYING ROMEO TO ALL NINE OF BOARDY'S EX-WIVES!

WELL, THERE'S DEFINITELY SOME JULIET IN THEM, MOTHER!

IF YOU WEREN'T GETTING MARRIED TO HORATIO BOARDMAN, YOU COULD SHOW UP THOSE WOMEN WHO ARE TRYING TO LAND FATHER!

REMEMBER, DEAR--A BIRD IN THE HAND!

MEANWHILE, EASY CONFERS WITH BOARDMAN'S LAWYER IN AN EFFORT TO PREVENT BOARDY'S TENTH MARRIAGE

WE MIGHT WORK UP SOME INTERFERENCE FROM HIS NINE EX-WIVES, MR. SYLVAN!

MY CLIENT WOULDN'T LIKE IT, BUT IT MAY BE OUR ONLY HOPE!

LADIES, MR. SYLVAN WOULD LIKE A FEW WORDS WITH YOU!

WHY, MR. SYLVAN! I HAVEN'T SEEN YOU SINCE I GOT MY DIVORCE!

ER--AHEM--DUE TO HIS FORTHCOMING MARRIAGE, MR. BOARDMAN MUST REDUCE ALL YOUR ALIMONY PAYMENTS, INSTEAD OF RAISING THEM... HE WILL, THEREFORE, FIGHT YOUR SUIT FOR AN INCREASE!

COME ON, GIRLS, WE'VE GOT TO STOP THIS UNFAIR COMPETITION!

GORGEOUS TYLISH IS TAKING WHAT'S RIGHTFULLY OURS!

MY PALS! I JUST SAW MY EX-WIVES GOING OUT THE GATE! HOW DID YOU EVER GET THEM OUT?

I'M AFRAID WE MADE THEM ANGRY, MR. BOARDMAN!

WHAT DO I CARE! I'M RID OF THEM! I'LL BAR THE FRONT GATE SO THEY'LL NEVER GET ON THE PREMISES AGAIN!

BOARDMAN IS UNFAIR TO HIS EX-WIVES

WE DEMAND JUSTICE

MORE ALIMONY FOR US OR NO MORE WEDDINGS FOR BOARDY!

THAT'S THE SENSIBLE WAY TO SETTLE PROBLEMS

I'VE WORKED OUT A ROUGH DRAFT OF OUR TREATY

NEITHER OF US WILL HAVE THE POWER OF VETO

ARTICLE FOUR ALLOWS ME TO BORROW YOUR LAWN MOWER, IF I RETURN IT PROMPTLY

WE NEED AN ARTICLE FORBIDDING SHAKING VACUUM SWEEPINGS ON EACH OTHER

ARTICLE 22 FORBIDS EITHER OF US TO HIT, SOCK, WHAM, OR SLAM OR BAM THE OTHER

ARTICLE 19 SAYS WE GOT TO TURN OUR RADIOS DOWN LOW AT TEN O'CLOCK

I THINK WE'VE COVERED EVERY POSSIBLE THING WHERE THERE COULD BE FRICTION

YEP, IT'S ALL READY TO SIGN

THIS MEANS NEIGHBORLY PEACE FOR OUR GENERATION

NO MORE BLACK EYES AND BLOODY NOSES

Tarzan

by EDGAR RICE BURROUGHS

WHEN TARZAN'S VICTORY CRY RANG ACROSS THE ROOFTOPS, JATO-LUR, THE JADE PRIESTESS, IN A-LUR'S ROYAL PALACE, HEARD.

"TIS THE TERRIBLE VOICE OF TARZAN-JAD-GURU," SHE CRIED, TREMBLING---FOR JATO-LUR WELL REMEMBERED THE FIGHTING APE-MAN WHO HAD CAUSED THE DOWNFALL OF HER FATHER, LU-DON, THE FALSE PRIEST.

ADDRESSING THE CAPTAIN OF THE GUARD, JATO-LUR SCREAMED: "I ORDERED THAT ALL STRANGERS WHO ENTER A-LUR BE SLAIN. I HEARD THE VOICE OF TARZAN. WHY IS HE HERE?"

FEARFUL, THE CAPTAIN REPLIED: "I KNOW NOT TARZAN, BUT A WHITE, TAILLESS ONE AND A WAZ-DON CHIEF WOUNDED TWO GUARDS AND ESCAPED TO THE ROOFTOPS

JATO-LUR'S EDICT TO THE GUARD WAS, FIND TARZAN OR DEATH SHALL BE YOURS! THE FRIGHTENED SOLDIERS STARTED THEIR SEARCH.

THIS WAS THE KIND OF GAME THE APE-MAN ENJOYED. GRINNING AT OM-AT, HE SAID: "NOW IS THE TIME TO AVENGE THE MURDERED KING. COME!"

WITH MOUNTING NERVOUSNESS AND APPREHENSION, THE JADE PRIESTESS WAITED. "DO MY BRAVE WARRIORS RETURN WITH THE PRISONERS?" SHE SNAPPED.

BUT THE FALSE QUEEN'S INQUIRY WAS ANSWERED BY A HURTLING FORM THAT STRUCK THE FLOOR AT HER FEET. IT WAS THE BODY OF HER CAPTAIN!

HIGH ABOVE, TWO FIGURES CROUCHED. "HA! HER SURPRISE WAS GREAT," OM-AT WHISPERED. "NOW, O TARZAN IS THE TIME. USE YOUR ROPE!"

THEN, SUDDENLY, A SNAKY COIL DROPPED AND TARZAN'S UNERRING LOOP CAUGHT THE PRIESTESS AND JERKED HER ABOVE THE HEADS OF THE STARTLED SLAVE WOMEN.

THE FIRST STEP IN THEIR KIDNAPING COMPLETED, TARZAN AND OM-AT SPED ACROSS THE ROOFTOPS WITH THEIR PRIZE TO SEEK ESCAPE BY WAY OF THE RIVER.

"WHEN NIGHT COMES, WE SHALL SEEK A BOAT AND FLEE DOWN THE RIVER WITH THIS ROYAL BAGGAGE," OM-AT BOASTED.

"HUSH!" TARZAN HISSED. "WARRIORS APPROACH!"

FROM A BAMBOO STOCKADE BARRING THE PATH A BULL VOICE ROARS: "STOP OR I'LL SHOOT! THOSE ARE MY ELEPHANTS YOU'RE RIDING!"

"THEN YOU'D BETTER EXPLAIN WHY YOUR LAOS TRIED TO KILL US WITH YOUR ELEPHANTS." JIM BLUFFS, "WE'RE FROM THE SIAM GOVERNMENT."

BRAGG CHANGES DIRECTION, AS FAST AS A FIGHTING BULL: "THEN THANKS FOR RECAPTURING THEM. A BAND OF LAO DACOITS STOLE THEM YESTERDAY... COME INTO MY CAMP AND SEE HOW BULL BRAGG CAN ENTERTAIN YOU!"

FOR THE FIRST TIME, FLASH SEES A LIVING CREATURE IN THE ICY WILDERNESS. "LOOK, A SNOW DEER! A GOOD CHANGE FROM OUR CAPSULE-TRAVELING FOOD!"

HARD-HIT, THE SNOW DEER LEAPS IN FLIGHT. "COME ON, IT CAN'T GET FAR!" FLASH CRIES, SPURRING HIS TOROK ACROSS THE TREACHEROUS FOOTING.

INTENT ON HIS GAME, FLASH IS LESS ALERT THAN USUAL AND DOESN'T SPOT THE HOSTILE FUR MEN AMBUSHED ON THE CLIFFS HIGH ABOVE THE TRAIL-----

DALE HEARS THE RUMBLE OF THE MAN-MADE AVALANCHE: "FLASH! LOOK OUT-- SAVE YOURSELF!"

THE ROARING FLOOD OF SNOW AND ICE SWEEPS HUMANS AND TOROKS END OVER END, DOWN TO THE FROZEN PIT AT THE GLACIER'S BASE.

--LIKE - WHAT IS GOING TO HAPPEN TO US WHEN THE REAL PROFESSOR X ARRIVES?

THERE IS NO PPOFESSOR X - HE WAS JUST A FIGMENT OF MY IMAGINATION

W-WHAT?

I SAW YOU AND THE LAD HEADING TOWARD CRATER CITY THROUGH MY X-RAYDARSCOPE - AN INVENTION WE NEGLECTED TO TELL THEM ABOUT!

THEM?

-THE LITTLE GROUP OF POWER-MAD POLITICIANS AND THEIR POLICE THAT BUILT CRATER CITY AND BROUGHT US HERE -

BUT YOU SCIENTISTS HAVE GADGETS THAT CAN BLOW UP THIS WHOLE PLACE!

TRUE - BUT THEY KNOW WE'LL NEVER USE THEM - NOT WHILE OUR DEAR ONES ARE HOSTAGES! MY LITTLE DAUGHTER - JUST YOUR AGE, CHESTER!

BUT, HAVE YOU NO WAY TO COMMUNICATE WITH THE WORLD OUTSIDE?

THOSE GIANT HELICOPTERS - YOU THOUGHT THEY WERE BIRDS — OUR CAPTORS USE THEM TO BRING IN NECESSARY SUPPLIES!

I'M A PILOT! I CAN FLY THEM!

AN EXCELLENT THING TO KNOW — MAY BE OF USE LATER — BUT, NOW - ALL WE CAN DO IS SLOW UP PRODUCTION ON THE ATOMIC WEAPON THEY'VE ORDERED US TO MAKE!

-AND CONTINUE OUR RESEARCH IN CREATIVE SCIENCE - SO THAT IF WE EVER GET OUT, WE'LL HAVE SOMETHING TO GIVE THE WORLD!

CHESTER! HE'S MISSING!

DON'T BE ALARMED - OUR RULERS HAVE REMOVED HIM TO THE HOSTAGE QUARTERS - HE'LL MEET MY LITTLE DAUGHTER THERE!

BUT SUPPOSE THEY QUESTION HIM? HE'S JUST A KID! HE MIGHT SAY THE WRONG THING!

WHAT'S YOUR NAME? IS THE PROFESSOR YOUR FATHER? WHERE ARE YOU FROM? HOW'D YOU GET HERE?

"I KNOW NO DEEPER DOUBT TO MAKE ME MAD, I NEED NO BRIGHTER LOVE TO KEEP ME PURE. TO ME THE FAITHS OF OLD ARE DAILY BREAD; I BLESS THEIR HOPE, I BLESS THEIR WILL TO SAVE."
—GEORGE SANTAYANA.

SINCE THE OPERATION FRED JUST LIES THERE··· SO QUIET! HELPLESS! DOCTOR MEDULLA, I'M··· I'M AFRAID!

YOU'VE BEEN STRONG AND BRAVE TOO LONG TO WEAKEN NOW··HAVE FAITH A LITTLE LONGER-

FAITH! FAITH! FAITH IN WHAT? IN SOMETHING THAT SIMPLY IS NOT MEANT TO BE···THAT CAN NEVER BE?

I STILL HOPE··· I'LL ALWAYS HOPE AND PRAY THAT FRED WILL WALK AGAIN··· BUT FAITH? WHAT IS FAITH?

"FAITH IS THE SUBSTANCE OF THINGS HOPED FOR, THE EVIDENCE OF THINGS NOT SEEN"·····

WHY, THAT'S FROM THE BIBLE!

I···I DIDN'T KNOW THAT A SURGEON···ER··THAT IS···

YOU DIDN'T THINK THAT A SURGEON BELIEVED ANYTHING HE COULDN'T SEE, EH?

MAYBE A FEW COCKSURE YOUNG DOCTORS THINK THEY KNOW ENOUGH TO GO IT ALONE···MAYBE LONG AGO I THOUGHT SO TOO···

BUT THE OLDER WE GET AND THE MORE WE SEE OF LIFE···AND DEATH··· THE MORE WE REALIZE HOW LITTLE ANY OF US KNOWS···HOW WEAK WE REALLY ARE···ALONE!

BUT WITH FAITH, HONEY, EVEN THE POOREST OF US IS NOT ALONE····· WITH FAITH NOTHING IS IMPOSSIBLE···

GLAD TO HEAR YOU SAY THAT, DOCTOR··· I WASN'T SO SURE ABOUT YOU AT FIRST···BUT I RECKON YOU'RE OUR KIND OF FOLKS····

OH, YOU'RE SMARTER···YOU'RE A SKILLFUL SURGEON··· BUT NOW I BEGIN TO SEE WHY YOU'RE A GREAT SURGEON!

LET'S WAIT AND SEE, MR. HOLLY! LET'S HOPE I'M NOT MERELY A RANTING OLD BUTCHER!

YO-YO AND EMBER CAME OUT OF THE CRACK-UP WITH MINOR BRUISES, BUT HULA-HIP SUFFERED A BAD CUT!

EMBER··· BANDAGE HULA'S WOUNDS··WELL GIVE HER THE SLIP LONG BEFORE WE REACH MY HIDDEN GOLD CACHE!

ON THE WAY UP THE MOUNTAIN YO-YO NOTICES HULA IS GETTING WEAK AND LAGGING BEHIND!

HE TELLS EMBER TO START RUNNING AND HE'LL RUN IN THE OPPOSITE DIRECTION AND MEET HER LATER AT THE LONE PINE!

STOP··· YOU CHISELIN' CROOKS! YOU'RE CONFUSIN' ME, RUNNIN' OFF IN DIFFERENT DIRECTIONS!

PUFF-- PUFF! BOY! DID WE GIVE HULA-HIP TH' SLIP!

PUFF PUFF

MEANTIME: WHILE EMBER IS WINDING HER WAY BACK AND FORTH UP THE HILLS, SHE SUDDENLY SEES--

YOU DOITY LI'L THIEF! TO TINK DAT YOU, ME OWN CELL-MATE, WOULD DESOIT ME···

I OUGHTA BASH YA BRAINS IN··· LIKE DEY ACCUSED ME OF DOIN' TO ME TOID HUSBAND!

STOP IT, HULA-HIP··· IT WAS YO-YO'S IDEA TO RUN OFF AND LEAVE YOU!

I'LL TAKE YOU WITH ME··· I'M SUPPOSED TO MEET HIM BY TH' TALL PINE!

LATER, YO-YO FINALLY FINDS HIS WAY UP TO THE LONE PINE!

EMBER, WHY DID YOU BRING HER ALONG? PUFF-- PUFF!

I COULDN'T HELP IT, YO-YO! I RAN INTO HER AN' SHE THREATENED TO BASH MY HEAD IN WITH A ROCK!

OH, WELL, GUESS WE'LL HAVE TO LET HER STAY··· WE'LL GIVE HER A FEW PESOS FOR BEING OUR CHAPERON UNTIL WE ARE MARRIED!

MARRIED?? YO-YO, I'M NOT MARRYING YOU!

SHUT UP! YOU'LL DO AS I SAY··· AFTER WE'RE MARRIED I'LL BUY OUR WAY TO AFRICA WITH MY FORTUNE!
